THE PROPERTY MAN.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY MONROE H. ROSENFELD.

It was an ancient property man,
No prompter man could be;
To furnish all the Drama's needs,
Ever alert was he,
For every act, each article
Designing cunningly.

E'en actors looked on him with awe,
The mimic feast he spread;
The buck skin turkey he served up,
Likewise the canvas bread;
His wine, in pasteboard goblets fine,
Was beer, without a head.

The stars and regulars came on
And vanished, year by year;
But always at his duties he
Was monarch of his sphere,
Until, at last, his hair grew white,
And dimmed his eyes once clear.

His den was mighty quaint to see.
'Twas filled with armor bright,
With dragons, donkeys, willow steeds—
A strange and motley sight;
From needles up to anchors he
Had all placed snug and tight.

His roses grew the whole year 'round,
His moon and stars ne'er set,
And he could make it rain at will,
And peals of thunder get,
So life like that the audience
Imagined they'd get wet.

Farce, Comedy or Tragedy,
To him, 'twas all the same;
He knew the play depended on
His skill for life and fame;
His properties would make the piece,
Whatever was its name!

One night they found him in his den,
The stage well set, be sure;
Life's play was done, the curtain down,
His smile was calm and pure;
But though a property man he lived
He died exceeding poor!

HER SACRIFICE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY FLORENCE GERALD.

They were two sisters, in name, but half sisters only in blood, the same father, but different mothers; between them was that curious half resemblance, though one, the younger, was beautiful, and the other plain. But the resemblance was in person only; in minds they were as widely different as the poles. The elder, Margaret Clitheroe, was true and noble; the younger, Ethel, was gay as the proverbial butterfly, and with about as much sense of moral responsibility. In the same city lived Dr. Hastings, a clever young physician of about thirty, whose devotion to his profession, coupled with a brilliant mind, was rapidly bringing him to the front. Old family friendship threw these three much together. Ethel, being then a petted school girl, was looked upon by John Hastings only as a child, while Margaret was the pleasant companion of his leisure hours. The gossips laughed and said: "It will be a match!" But Margaret Clitheroe, in her heart, knew that it was not to be; she had allowed the whole of her loving, devoted nature to go out to this man, suited in every way to be her life companion, only to find too late, that he admired, respected, liked, but did not love her. Just then Ethel, the school girl, blossomed into womanhood—beautiful, captivating and heartless. John Hastings did as many a sensible man has done before—fell in love with the beauty. Ethel, looking calmly over Hastings' claims as a good, worldly match, accepted him, and they were married.

Poor Margaret masked her wounded feelings under the set smiles, which so many women learn to wear; wished the new couple joy and happiness, and went her way for awhile. Some four years had passed. Ethel, though now the mother of two children, was still the same Ethel as of old; wrapped up in society, fond of admiration and heartily detesting, though she dared not express herself to husband, the ties which kept her occasionally from the gayeties she wished to pursue. At this period my story opens. Ethel's health was delicate, and Dr. Hastings wished her to go to Florida for the Winter. As he could not accompany her, Margaret was asked to be her companion. An absence of a year in California had transformed the quiet Margaret into an almost beautiful woman; she had grown stouter, and the glow of health gave her a charm which she had never before possessed. "Ah! Margaret," laughed John Hastings, "I do believe you want to rob Ethel of her title, and become yourself the beauty of the family!" She made some gay reply; no living soul had ever suspected, from look or word, that she had once—nay still, loved this man, her sister's husband, with all the power of her passionate being.

A few days later found the party at St. Augustine, at the Ponce De Leon, that little world within itself, of fashion and gayety. Dr. Hastings' well known position and wealth gave his wife and sister in law an entree at once into the whirl of life at this, the most beautiful of Florida resorts. Ethel, though presumed to be an invalid, did not wait long to avail herself of the invitations that were showered upon them. Her husband, having settled his little party comfortably in the hotel, returned to his home in a Northern city, cautioning Margaret to have a care of her sister's health, and restrain her from much dissipation. Dr. Hastings was gone, and Ethel was, as she phrased it: "Free—almost as free as if I was single, or, at any rate, a widow!" Margaret looked a little shocked, but said nothing. "Now, Margie," said Mrs. Ethel, "no black looks, if you please; you've never been married, my dear, therefore you don't know what a nuisance a husband is, especially a husband like mine, who lectures me on the subject of too much dancing, neglecting the children, etc. Margaret, it was a great mistake; you should have married Dr. Hastings—not I!" Margaret turned her face and winced at the random cut, and then said:

"How can you speak so, Ethel? One would think you didn't love your husband."

"Love him! Did I ever profess to love him? I married him because he was the best match in our circle. I like him, and we get on very well—except for his lectures. But I must dress for dinner. Margie, see that Joan puts Jack and Ethel to bed early, won't you, dear?"

So she shifted the responsibility of the children to her sister's shoulders. After awhile it was the writing of the letters home that fell to Margaret's lot, until one would have thought Miss Clitheroe the mother of the children and Ethel the young society girl, with no thought but balls, drives and excursions to the beach. Winter, or what they call Winter in Florida, had slipped away, and it was now March—nearly the end of Lent, when, the season of penance (?) being over, the wealthy and fashionable would flit back to the large cities whence they came. Dr. Hastings had been to see his family twice, for short visits; during each, he saw more of Margaret and less of his wife, whose days were filled with engagements which she declared she could not break. Poor Margaret absolutely suffered during these visits. She was thrown into such close companionship with the man she worshipped, and yet was compelled to be only the kindly sister in her actions, that the contrast nearly wore out her strength. After the last visit, she determined to make some excuse and leave her sister before Dr. Hastings returned to take them home. Though not taking an important part in the gayeties of St. Augustine, Margaret had accepted some invitations, made a few choice friends and had heard by chance some gossip about Ethel, which had cost her quite a pang.

She was sitting one afternoon reading in the grounds surrounding the hotel; the seat was almost hidden by a growth of oleander and young orange trees; suddenly her attention was taken from her book by the mention of her sister's name. "That beautiful woman on the verandah. Oh! she is Mrs. Dr. Hastings." "A widow?" "Oh, no! a married woman, but belonging to the fastest set in St. Augustine; at first she received only general admiration, but lately she has allowed the attentions of one man, a Spaniard, until their behavior has excited the comments of even the St. Augustine Mrs. Grundy, and I assure you that is saying a great deal!" Both men laughed and walked on, idly smoking. Margaret sat like one stunned—it was of Ethel they spoke.

"A young Spaniard," they had said; and then she remembered, with a pang, that when Ethel was a girl of seventeen there had been some schoolgirl's love affair with a young man, a Spaniard; it was at boarding school, and she did not recall the name.

"I will speak to her tonight," she resolved, and went hurriedly to her sister's apartment. But when she entered she found two of Mrs. Hastings' most intimate lady friends there; they were all deep in a discussion as to an excursion to South Beach that evening, to embrace a plunge in the surf by moonlight, and a supper afterward at a French restaurant, famous at St. Augustine for its delicate dishes. Ethel's maid was selecting her mistress' bathing suit. This maid, a small, swarthy woman of about thirty-five, seemed of late to have an unbounded influence over her mistress. At times she was almost impertinent to Margaret, who scarcely spoke to her except when compelled. Ethel and her companions were chattering away, and Margaret was obliged to ask information of Hortense.

"Is my sister going to South Beach this evening?"

"Yes, mademoiselle."

"But she is not going in bathing? It is too early in the season, and besides there is a strong undertow at South Beach."

Hortense answered rather insolently: "Madame is a good swimmer, and quite capable of taking care of herself; besides, I will be with my mistress," and she turned to her work of making some alteration in the pretty bathing suit of white flannel.

Margaret's cheek flushed at the implied impertinence, but she said nothing, determined to wait until her sister's guests had gone. She went to the children's room, found Master Jack and little Ethel romping with their nurse, a sturdy, rosy cheeked English girl, and joined in their game of "hide and seek," laughing merrily at their antics, though her heart was sore over the gossip she had heard. The voices died away in her sister's room. She went in at once to Ethel, and said, gravely:

"I must speak to you."

"Now, Margie, if you've come to lecture me, you can save yourself the trouble. I've made up my mind to go to the beach this evening, and to go in the surf."

Margaret looked suddenly at Hortense. "Yes, Hortense told me you objected, but I'm going, so don't say another word."

"Just one word more, Ethel, and I will be silent." At this she drew her sister away to the distant window, to be out of Hortense's hearing. "It isn't so much the idea of your going to the beach and in the surf that I object to—but it's—well, I must tell you. I've heard some gossip today, quite by accident, in which your name was mentioned very disagreeably in connection with a——a Spanish gentleman here at St. Augustine!" Margaret felt her sister shiver, and expected an outburst of anger; but, strange to say, Ethel only answered:

"Well, what of that?"

"Of course I know it's all idle talk, but I don't want my sister's name bandied about. Besides, I am almost your guardian. Dr. Hastings left you in my charge," half laughing.

There came a curious, half angry, half frightened look in Ethel's face. "You are very devoted to Dr. Hastings' commands; my dear half sister, you had better see that gossip doesn't touch your name!"

Margaret staggered back as if she had been struck; then, recovering herself, she said, coldly:

"Ethel, I'm shocked at you; but I suppose it is only your foolish anger because I have interfered with you; but whatever you may say, I will do my duty. I beg of you not to go to South Beach tonight, especially if this Spaniard is to be one of the party.

"Oh, you needn't be afraid on that score," said Ethel. "The spaniard, as you call him, has gone away. He left St. Augustine today."

Was it her imagination, or did she see Ethel and the maid exchange glances? Margaret was not sure; being obliged to satisfy herself with this news, she went away, but that night, when her sister had gone with the party, she was restless. She could not read. A storm came up suddenly at nine o'clock—one of those swift Southern storms, with a blinding rain. At twelve o'clock her sister had not returned. She felt more and more uneasy; voices, in frightened half whispers, were at the door; she opened it and the people outside came in; in a few words they told her all. The party had gone in surf bathing at about 8.30 o'clock. Mrs. Hastings, being a daring swimmer, had ventured quite a distance from the others; while they were dashing about in the surf, the storm came up almost in a moment. Mrs. Hastings had gone alone around a curve in the beach, where the sand dunes and a small clump of beach cedars, hid any one from sight. In the excitement she was forgotten, until, when the party had returned to their bathing houses, Hortense made inquiry for her mistress. She could not be found. The storm increased in fury every moment. They shouted in vain. No answering shouts were heard. After two hours' unavailing search, they returned with the sad news. Mrs. Hastings had no doubt been drowned; her body would be swept out to sea by the storm; her sister, her husband, her children could never see her again.

Poor Margaret walked the floor all night. With early dawn there came a telegram for "Mrs. John Hastings." She opened it. It was from the husband, saying he had been delayed at Charleston, and would arrive at St. Augustine that day. She would not tell the children till he came; again and again Margaret reproached herself for not trying harder to keep her sister from joining the fateful party. The maid, Hortense, seemed prostrated with grief; but once, Margaret, watching her closely, saw that though she appeared to be sobbing there were no tears in her eyes. At evening Dr. Hastings came, and Margaret, heart broken, told him of the sad fate of his beautiful wife. For a time he was like a madman, and would not believe it true. His wife, his beautiful Ethel dead! Other friends came to him and pointed out the circumstances; the unexpected storm, the undertow, the two hours' search, all pointed to the certainty of Mrs. Hastings' death.

For two days every search that love could dictate was made. Telegrams were sent to every point down the coast. One indefinite answer came to the effect that what looked like a woman's body had been seen floating outside Jupiter's Point, but before the lighthouse keeper could reach it with his boat it had disappeared. Sadly the little party went back to their Northern home. Hortense, the maid, left to take a situation at New Orleans, she said. Margaret wished to join some friends at San Francisco, but Dr. Hastings begged so hard that she would stay with the motherless Jack and Ethel that, despite the inward fears of her own strength, she consented.

Three years went by. In Dr. Hastings' beautiful home Margaret ruled with the strong, yet loving hand of a good woman. An old aunt of Dr. Hastings lived there, too, but to Margaret fell all the real duties of the household; to her Jack and Ethel went with all their childish troubles and joys. The memory of their beautiful mother had almost faded, and to them "Aunt Margie" was all that a mother could be.

During the third year Dr. Hastings seemed to have thrown off some of the bitterness of his grief. He would never love any other woman as he had loved Ethel; of that he was sure, or at least, so he told himself, for men are proverbially self deceivers. Yet, as the years rolled round, he found more and more pleasure in Margaret's society. The children were always with her, it was true, and their interviews had always the old air of comradeship, but underneath this there grew each day, on John Hastings' part, at least, a stronger desire for her companionship.

One day, before he knew what he had done, he had spoken to her of love. Margaret was white and cold with suppressed emotion. The love she had hungered for so long had come to her at last; but she would not take advantage of this sudden outburst; it might be only the outcome of a moment's feeling of gratitude. She went away on a visit of a few weeks. Dr. Hastings came after her and told her what was really the truth, that he loved her truly and devotedly and asked her to become his wife. At last the crown for which her life had wished in vain had been given her. She consented, the arrangements were made for a quiet wedding—Margaret seemed ten years younger, and went singing about her work like a girl of eighteen, although she sometimes sternly told herself she must remember she was a staid woman of thirty. Just at dusk one evening, two days before the marriage, a lady, deeply veiled, called. She was ushered into the drawing room; Margaret entered, the lady raised her veil, and Margaret fell back almost fainting. The woman was Ethel Hastings, her sister that was dead! Her beauty was faded and her face had a hard, bitter look, unknown in former years, but that it was Ethel Hastings there was no doubt.

"I'm not a welcome visitor, I'm afraid, especially as a wedding guest.

"Where did you come from?" gasped Margaret.

"Please don't get hysterical, Margaret, and I'll tell you all the story. I was never drowned. It was all a plan, in which I was helped by Hortense. No one else ever suspected the truth; that Spaniard, as you call him, was the one who planned it; I swam away from the others around the crest of the beach. I was hidden there from sight. The storm was only one of those fortunate or unfortunate things that made it easy for us to carry out our plans. The Spaniard was in a small boat on the other side of the headlands. My cloak and other wardrobe were already there, made ready by Hortense. We rowed to a point some few miles away, got into a carriage and were driven to the nearest station. That is all you need know—except that I have left him forever. I have come home to take my place as Dr. Hastings' wife and the mother of my children!"

"You would not dare!" whispered the wretched Margaret.

"Yes, I would dare! I have my story all ready for the world. I was swept out to sea, taken up by a passing schooner and carried to Cuba. There I had the fever, which left me without memory. When I recovered I started at once for the United States. What do you think of that?"

"Oh, that you could be so heartless!" moaned the elder sister.

"But to carry out my plan you must help me. Refuse, and I'll publish to the world that you have always loved my husband and planned my death with Hortense, in order to remove me?"

Margaret scarcely heard this threat. She was going over and over the story, and thinking of John Hastings' agony and disgrace, should he ever know the truth.

"It would kill him! It would kill him!" she moaned to herself, with dry lips. "I must save him if I can." Then, too, came the thought of the children. Should their mother's true tale be known, they would always bear the shame upon their names. Her brave Jack, her beautiful little Ethel to be pointed at with scorn! No, she could not bear it. She would sin for the sake of her dear ones, that they should never know. She rose up calmly:

"Ethel," she said, "I will help you; but first you must swear to me never to leave that true, kind husband again, to be faithful to him until death. If I ever find you are deceiving him I shall tell him all."

"Oh, never fear," said Mrs. Ethel, "I'm going to play propriety to the end of my life. I've had my innings in the other line, and I'm quite tired of it!"

Just then John Hastings' voice was heard in the outer hall, calling:

"Margaret!"

Turning to Ethel, her sister said:

"Be prepared to play your part, as you know so well how to play it." She pointed to an alcove, behind which Ethel withdrew. John Hastings came joyously in. "Why, Margaret!" he paused and looked at her. She looked so strange and white; then she spoke, so low, he could scarcely hear her:

"John, have you ever read the story, 'The Sea Gave Up Its Dead?'"

"Yes." He looked at her again. She was nearly fainting. "The sea has given us back the dead."

"What do you mean, Margaret? You must be mad."

"No, not mad, but so, so happy (with a sob) because I can give you your own beloved wife again." She drew the curtains aside, and Ethel stepped out. John Hastings uttered one cry: "My God, Ethel!" and clasped her in his arms. Poor Margaret slipped away. She had made her sacrifice—but it had broken her heart.

Mrs. Hastings' return was a nine days' wonder. Her sister stood by her and told every one the story which Ethel had planned. Money and position can silence wagging tongues. If there were any suspicions, they were never uttered. The re-united couple lived, apparently, happily. Margaret Clitheroe left the East after six months, and lives now in the far West, a lonely, solitary woman.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.—The season at Lothrop's Providence Museum and at Dyer's Opera House came to an end June 25, and for the first time in fourteen years every regular place of amusement in the city is closed. Some excellent attractions are offered at the several shore resorts, and, as they now have the field entirely to themselves, the managers will undoubtedly reap a rich harvest.

LOTHROP'S PROVIDENCE MUSEUM.—This resort closed one of the most successful seasons in its history June 25, with Katherine Rober and a strong company in "Esmeralda." It was Miss Rober's farewell engagement here as a member of Manager Lothrop's stock, and on the closing night she was the recipient of many beautiful floral tokens. The attendance was large. The next season will open in August. In the meantime the house will be thoroughly renovated and many important improvements made. The stage is to be considerably enlarged, and supplied with entirely new scenery and a new drop curtain.

DYER'S OPERA HOUSE closed June 25, after an unprofitable season of ten weeks. The stock in "Driven From Home" played to light attendance last week. The house will reopen early in the Fall under the management of Justin Paige.

HUNTING'S CIRCUS came 25 to large business. The show was first class in every respect. Bob Hunting, the old time clown; El Nino Eddy, tight rope dancer; the Booths in their ladder balancing act; the bare back riding by Robert Whittaker and Miss Tatali on the flying rings were prominent features.

NOTES.—Capt. E. J. Gray, formerly doorkeeper at Lothrop's Museum, died in this city suddenly 20, of Bright's disease, in the fortieth year of his age. His remains were taken to Lake Port, N. H., where funeral services were held 23 .... George Johnson is painting new scenery for Stone & Shaw's Museum, Boston..... A personal letter from Mrs. J. Bernard, nee Lavinia White, states that she is enjoying herself right royally at Paris, Fr .... The members of Providence Lodge Theatrical Mechanics, visited Boston 23, and were entertained at Downer's Landing by their brethren of Boston.....A beautiful and elaborate iron front for Keith's Gaiety Opera House is now in process of construction, and will be placed in position previous to the opening of another season..... Chas. G. McVey, of Hunting's Circus, met with a serious accident while performing on a trapeze at Bristol, R. I., evening of 24. In making a flying leap with sommersault from one trapeze to another, he miscalculated the distance and fell, striking the back of his head on the bar. He struck the net in a senseless condition, sustaining injuries to his head and spine which resulted in paralysis. He was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, where he now lies in a critical condition, and little hope is entertained of his recovery. Mr. McVey is twenty-five years of age, and a native of Zanesville, O. His relatives have been informed of his condition. The show was the scene of another accident in this city 25. At the close of the afternoon performance one of the animal men undertook to dispense with the usual hook in feeding a lion. The result of his temerity was a terribly lacerated hand. .....Twenty-two Indians, including Chief White Cloud, fifteen braves, six squaws and one papoose, arrived in this city from the West last week, and will constitute a portion of the Wild West Show to be given at Crescent Park during the Summer .....Among the attractions engaged by Manager R. A. Harrington for his theatre at Rocky Point this Summer is the Lovenberg Family. This is the organization of which Prof. Chas. Lovenberg, musical director of Keith's Gaiety Opera House and amusement manager of Rocky Point, was formerly a member. The family have for several years past toured the Pacific Coast and Australia, and this will be their first reappearance in the East. Other people under engagement are Letta Meredith, Nina Bertolini, the Nelson Sisters, May Bell, Adele Clarke and Julia Mackie .... Prof. Chas. Lovenberg is engaged in writing the music for Edgar B. Smith's operetta, "Cleopatra," soon to be produced at Koster & Bial's, your city .....Eugene Sullivan rested in this city a portion of last week. He closed with the Henry Dramatic Co. at Housatonic, Ct., 22, and will join Pelham's Dramatic Co. 27.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle.—At Cordray's Theatre, "The Bonanza Mine" opened June 13, and was well received. "Held by the Enemy" drew good houses week of 7. "The Sea of Ice" 20. On 27 Pizarello will put on a spectacular production of "She."

AT LEAVITT'S NEW COLISEUM, Mosburg's Theatre Comique, the People's Theatre and the Club Theatre, variety continues.

NOTES.—J. F. Cordray's scheme for a new theatre is now on a substantial basis. Articles of incorporation, with capital stock of four hundred thousand dollars, have been signed by a number of substantial business men, and the corporation now has five desirable sites under consideration.....David Murray, leading man at Cordray's Theatre, has been transferred to the Seattle house, where he opened 27.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee.—At Schlitz Park, "Dorothy" is the bill this week. "The Merry War" was sung last week to good attendance. The company gave a fine performance, and Laura Millard, Alice Carle, Rose Leighton, W. H. Fitzgerald and Chas. E. Bigelow were happily cast. Harry Delarme was a splendid General Spinola. The chorus sang their different numbers well, and the various marches and drills were done in a spirited manner. "The Gondoliers" next week.

NOTES.—The Bijou Opera House is being repainted throughout, and will be provided with a new drop curtain for next season.....L. J. Kodiques, treasurer of Schlitz Park and the Davidson Theatre, spent most of last week at Chicago .....Charles K. GLEANINGS FROM 'FRISCO.

Stockwell's New Theatre—Dr. Carver's Success—Old Plays Continue.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—At the Baldwin Theatre, Francis Wilson's Co., in "The Lion Tamer," remain the attraction.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Natural Gas" began the second week of its engagement last evening.

STOCKWELL'S THEATRE.—The auction sale of seats and boxes for the opening night, July 7, with Aug. Daly's Co., in "As You Like It," will take place at the Grand Opera House July 5. This house, which was formerly the Powell Street Theatre, is being entirely remodeled and refitted, and converted into one of the most beautiful theatres in the State. The theatre will be beautifully supplied with new scenery and effects. The greatest mechanical skill will be used in the construction of the stage, and a magnificent and novel drop curtain is now being painted. The entrance to the house will be superior to any in San Francisco, the theatre being situated on the ground floor. The auditorium will combine luxury, elegance and comfort. The prevailing colors will be a rich ivory and gold. The opera chairs will be of the handsomest and most improved pattern. Great attention will be paid to the ventilation, so as to ensure always a healthy and comfortable temperature. In fact, every effort will be used to make this one of the most perfect playhouses. Incandescent lights will be used, and the building will be fireproof and supplied with numerous exits. Many features in the foyer and retiring rooms will be introduced which will add to its attractiveness. The house will have a seating capacity of one thousand six hundred, divided about five hundred to each floor. It has been the aim of both the architect and the proprietor to give San Francisco a theatre not only attractive in appearance, but comfortable in every respect, giving room between the seats and aisles of ample width. This theatre will be operated upon a strictly first class plan, and no attractions will be upon its stage except those that are recognized. The main floor of the auditorium will be of semi-circular shape, with twelve proscenium boxes, the dress circle at the back being separated from the orchestra chairs by seven loge boxes. The balcony is immediately over the dress circle and above this the gallery.

BUSH STREET THEATRE.—"McCarthy's Mishaps" was put on last evening for the first time here. Barney Ferguson was agreeably remembered. Haverly's Mastodons open July 4 for two weeks.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Charles E. Verner presented "Current Cash" last evening for the second week of his engagement. Wm. Redmund and Mrs. Thos. Barry begin an engagement at this house in July.

GROVE STREET THEATRE.—Dan McCarthy's "Cruiskeen Lawn" remains the bill this week. The piece has achieved a triumph.

TIVOLI.—"The Bohemian Girl" was put on last night, in which Julia Kingsley appeared in the serpentine dance.

ORPHEUM.—Arcaraz Hermanos' Grand Spanish Opera Co. made their American debut at this house, 22, in "Diamantes de la Corona" ("Crown Diamonds"). The company includes Arcaraz Hermanos, proprietor; Don Luis Arcaraz, musical director: Don Julio L. Perie, stage director; Cecilia Delgado, Felicidad Pastor, Adelaida Montanez, Julia F. de Arcaraz, Elena Alduenda, Elisa Areu, Dominga Moya, Rosa Duran, Jose Vigil y Robles, Ignacio Montane, Constantino Cires Sanchez, Carlos Camancho, Enrique Quigada, Daniel Garcia, Julio L. Perie, Fernando Trocherie, Geronimo Rangel, Ezequiel Delgado, Carlos Rodriguez, Magdalena Montes de Oca, Matilda Fernandez, Patricio Guiterrez, Senores Enrique Guerrero and Gabriel Gonzales, and a chorus of thirty.

DR. FRANK CARVER has a bonanza in his Wild West Show—"The Scout." The warriors—Sioux and Pawness—who participated in the battle of Wounded Knee, the broncbos, the cowboys and the frontiersmen, and the many exciting scenes and incidents of the play, cause the nightly display of "S. R. O." The production is one of the most marvelous pieces of realism seen here, and young California is enthused to the highest pitch.

NOTES.—Wm. Cameron, Flora Hastings, McGlore and Lucille, Crimmins and Gore, Glassman and McKenzie, Gilbert and Goldie, and T. C. Leary appeared at the Wigwam last week.....May Nannary has gone to Stockton, where she will be the leading lady at the Avon Theatre.....Scott Cooper appeared in "The Burglar" at Morosco's last week.....The walls of the Macdonough Theatre, Oakland, are nearly completed. It makes a very imposing block. The theatre will open under Geo. F. Mothersole's management early in August.

CHICAGO'S ROSY REPORT.

A General Show of Large and Delighted Audiences.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

CHICAGO, June 28.—Aug. Daly's Co. began their last week at Hooley's to a crowded house. "The Taming of the Shrew" was the bill....."The Isle of Champagne" started in on another big week at the Grand to a fine attendance.....At the Chicago Opera House, "Ali Baba" continues to attract big houses....."My Colleen" is continued at McVicker's this week to an excellent opening..... "Miss Helyett" has not lost its drawing power, as was evident at the opening, 27....."Tangled Up" at the Alhambra and "The Inside Track" at Havlin's had satisfactory houses.....The usual big house was encountered at the Madison Street Theatre....."The South Before the War" at the Lyceum and a variety bill at the Olympic and the Park, with minstrels at the Casino, completed the attractions of the week, at all of which the attendance was very good.

BOSTON SEES "BY PROXY."

Apparently the Hub Likes Charles Klein's New Comedy.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

BOSTON, June 28.—We had bad theatre weather last night, and only fair business. Chas. Klein's new play, "By Proxy," drew a very good audience to the Boston Museum. The comedy is very bright, and ably presented by Chas. H. Mathews' excellent company.....H. E. Dixey's presentation of "The Mascot" was a magnificent success, and the star as Lorenzo never appeared to happier advantage. He was ably seconded by Juliette Corden as Bettina, who easily led as the singer.....The Arena Concert Garden opened its third week to big business, presenting a strong bill of burlesque, specialty and pantomime.....Edward Harrigan, in "Reilly and the 400," was greeted by a huge audience at the Columbia, where he entered on his last week..... Manager Keith presented an abnormally fine specialty show, and the Gaiety and Bijou was crowded day and night.....The Palace Theatre had Ena Bertoto as its big card, and she drew well; and the other popular price houses did fairly good business.

ST. LOUIS' LATEST.

Minstrelsy and Comic Opera Acceptably Entertain Good Houses.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—Cleveland's Minstrels drew a topheavy house to the Grand last night....."Olivette" was presented at Schneider's Garden by Moore's Imperial Opera Co., to good attendance. ....."The Chimes of Normandy" drew a big crowd to Uhrig's Cave last night. Addie Cora Reed received several encores as Germanie. John E. McWade made an attractive Marquis, and Ben Lodge was so good as the Miser that he received two calls at the close of the second act.

BOURBON PLAYGOERS.

An Opera Troupe Do Well, but Variety Bills Languish.

[Special Dispatch to The New York Clipper.]

LOUISVILLE, June 28.—The Auditorium opened to a packed house to hear the Duff Opera Co. in "The Mikado.....The New Gem and the Standard opened to slim houses.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago.—At Hooley's, "The Foresters" was given its first Chicago presentation last week, by Aug. Daly's Co. The audiences were large. The staging was effective and the applause generous. The curtain was rung up three times on the third act in response to applause at the scene of the fairies' glen. The concluding week of the three weeks' stay began June 27 with "The Taming of the Shrew," followed by a repertory. "The County Fair" July 3.

GRAND.—"The Isle of Champagne" was given another big ovation last week. Together with the other houses a harvest was reaped, despite the incessant and heavy rains. The company remains two more weeks.

CHICAGO OPERA HOUSE.—Constant improvement is the rule with "Ali Baba." Edwin Foy entered the cast last week, assuming the role of Caslus, formerly played by Dan Hart. It is said that the new extravaganza is the most successful financially yet launched by Manager Henderson. The attendance last week taxed the big house nightly. The fifth week begins June 26.

MCVICKERS'.—"My Colleen" last week fared better than its predecessor, "Uncle Nat." It is the second of the series of "human plays" that Mr McVicker is presenting, and was effectively presented by one of the most capable companies yet seen here in Irish comedy. Owing to its favorable reception, it will be continued week of 26, to be followed by "Margaret Fleming," July 4.

COLUMBIA.—"Miss Helyett" scored some excellent houses during its third week. The piece has hit the fancy of the Chicago theatregoers. Mollie Fuller's serpentine dance was one of the new features last week. The company remains week of June 26.

ALHAMBRA.—The Ideal Juvenile Opera Co. repeated "Pinafore" last week to fair business. The opposition of the Women's Alliance to the employment of the children has resulted in the withdrawal of the venture, however, and week beginning 26 De Lange & Rising's Co., in "Tangled Up," will be substituted. "Uncle Tom" July 3.

HAVLIN'S.—"Zeb the Clodhopper" was given its first performance at Chicago 19, and played to excellent attendance during the week. "The Inside Track" will be given week of 25 closing the season at this house.

ACADEMY.—Frank W. Curtis, in "Sam'l of Posen," was the drawing card last week to excellent business. "Braving the World" 26. Frank Mayo July 3.

MADISON STREET THEATRE.—Sam T. Jack's Burlesque Co. did a big business last week and will continue another week.

CASINO.—Haverly's Minstrels continue to draw. A new feature this week will be "The Undertaker's Daughter" as an afterpiece.

WINDSOR.—"Sentenced for Life" last week wound up the season at this house in good shape. Manager Ren Leavitt will be given a benefit July 3.

PARK.—This week: Dick Crolius, Teed Bros., Leslie and Welch, Irwin T. Bush, Lottie Swan, James Thompson, Kitty Smith, H. W. Eagan, Nellie Bennett, J. B. Houlihan and J. W. Kelly.

OLYMPIC.—This week: Magu re's Golden Gate Specialty Co., including Geo. H. Wood, Boyle and Graham, Gertie Thornton, Murray Twins, Walter Fredericks the Mahers, Christian, Freeman Bros., Arthur Kherns and Bruce Baldwin.

THIRTY-FIRST STREET MUSIC HALL.—This week: Kittie Wolfe, Jennie Cook, Emma La Mause, Frank Ross and W. J. Nulls.

FREIBERG'S OPERA HOUSE.—This week "The Gondoliers" will be the attraction, presented by the following cast: Nettie Van Bieg, Lea Peasley, Annie Whitney, Mlle. Marzelle, Nellie Stowe, H. Bellmar, S. J. Wheeler, and W. J. McGee.

EAGLE'S OPERA PAVILION.—This week: Polly Holmes, Ada Melrose, Ida Howell, Lily Washburn, Blanche Washburn, Rose Sutherland, Josie Stewart, Theresa La Mar, Gus Bruno Jr. and Gus Bruno.

EPSTEIN'S DIME MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—Tao Kee (Indian princess) the Alpino beauty, and Lottie (Midget). Stage—The Martells, Murphy and Reimer, Emma La Maas, Dollie Williams and the Tuxedo Concert Co.

KOHL & MIDDLETON'S CLARK STREET MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—Whale Oil Gus, the Skeleton Family, Albino and Indians. Stage—English statue girls and Charles Diamond's Variety Co.

GLOBE DIME MUSEUM.—This week: Curio—Samson, Texas Ben, Mlle. Aldeti and performing dogs. Stage—The Black Co., and McCarthy's Star Mastodons.

NOTES.—Arthur Dunn, in "Ali Baba," will be seen in the cast for two weeks longer, as he has given the management the regulation notice of withdrawal. His loss will be felt, for some of the best hits of the piece were made by him.....The season of Summer night concerts began 18 at the First Regiment Armory before a big crowd. The orchestra, which is composed of fifty of Theodore Thomas' musicians, is under the leadership of Max Bendix, while the whole affair is managed by Manager Temple, of the New Schiller. Barnum & Bailey's Circus showed to big business on the West side ball grounds last week. They remain there week of 26. Flooded grounds prevented the change to the North side, as originally contemplated.....Extensive improvements are contemplated at Havlin's during the Summer.....The open air performance of "As You Like It," by Aug. Daly's Co., will be given at Lake Forest 29.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis.—This is good weather for the al fresco places of amusement, and they are all doing well.

UHRIG'S CAVE GARDEN.—"The Mikado" drew well last week, and "The Chimes of Normandy" is promised this week. Cyrene is engaged for dancing.

SCHNAIDER'S GARDEN.—"Olivette" this week. "The Mikado" drew well last week. Annabell Whitford did a skirt dance in the second act that drew several encores.

WINTER GARDEN.—Bertha Stead, Emma Weston and Artie Whitelaw this week.

LONDON THEATRE.—Grothe Brothers, Eugene Natowitz, Howard and Alton, Haley and Drew, Brantford, Wm. Edison, James C. Flynn, Maude Walker, Zera and the stock.

BRYANT'S THEATRE.—West and Fowler, the Edisons, M. W. Murry, La Vine Bros., Deldine, Will Brantford, Chas. Palmer and the stock.

ESHER'S THEATRE.—Bloomer and Stewart, Lillie Masson, M. P. Earl, Georgie Hillyer, Lottie Thorne, Mike Higgins, Eva Howard, C. H. Ward and the two Macs.

GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE.—Delnore and Lane, Myrtle LeMain, John and Ray Carroll, Al Drummond, Fred Kingsley, Mable Freese, Frank Bennett, Frankie Hamilton, Wm. La Clede and the stock.

PALACE THEATRE.—Two Black Macks, May Williams, Miss Ella Gomez, Shaffer and DeVere, Lillian DeFossett, M. P. Earl, Jessie Bowersoch, Dennis McCarty, C. H. Ward, Grace Hartland, Sam De Vine, Dora Goff and the stock.

CHAT.—Guy Lindsley, who will be Modjeska's leading juvenile next season, and Sig. Abeles, who goes with Palmer's Stock, gave an entertainment at Pickwick Theatre, 21, assisted by amateurs. They presented the one act comedy, "Up Honor Bound," with recitations and character sketches. The house was filled ..... Wm. J. Brinkley, of Memphis, Tenn., recruited a chorus for the Grau Opera Co. here last week..... Lelia Wolstan (McCord), of Aug. Daly's Co., is here, visiting her parents.

Kansas City.—Never in the history of the city has there been a greater dearth in theatricals than can be placed to the credit of the past week. The supplemental Summer season at the Ninth Street, at popular prices, after a brief struggle of two weeks against sweltering weather and a surfeit of out door attractions, succumbed 20. The boards went up and the lights were turned out until Aug. 20..... Cloward & Busch repeated "The Grey Nun" 25, much improved. Mr Cloward will take the new opera to Philadelphia, and negotiations are pending whereby it is to be produced in that city by the Henrich Opera Co. "The Grey Nun" achieved a fair degree of success at its presentation here, and, with the pruning which F. Percy Marsh gave it, it proved a money winner.

TENNESSEE.

Memphis.—Manager Grau has concluded to use the Grand Opera House for the Summer season of opera, instead of going to one of the parks. The house will be cooled by disc and exhaust pans. The opening occurs June 27, when "Said Pasha" will be the bill for three nights, to be followed by "The Black Hussar" the remainder of the week. Two operas a week will be given.....The Lyceum Amusement Co. has been chartered with Fred Orgill, Ed. Greenwood and several others as charter members and principal stockholders. A good part of the coming season has been booked.

UNDER WHITE TENTS

Changes in the Business.

EVA.

Is it true, Uncle Tom, when a great wrong is done,
That an Eye omniscient does bend
On the wronger and wronged, and th' unscrupulous one
Often meets with a miserable end?

UNCLE TOM.

Miss Eva, 'tis true, I hab learned, yet I ween
Dat justice is but seldom done,
Unless on futurity's mystical scene,
When on earth our life sands are run.

ACTOR (in a hurry).

I see you've a card in THE CLIPPER, dear sir,
For a man to play "general biz"—
The line I am playing; now, what is this for?
I am sure my work goes with a whizz.

MANAGER (with pomposity).

Well, yes, you're all right, my boy, but you see,
A change I think best for my Co.
I'm booking biz towns down in East Tennessee,
So I think that you'd better go

ACTORS' CHORUS.

Why, Bunk has gone under, I see, with a crash.
And salaries all are unpaid.
I thought he was solid—had plenty of cash—
Yet, still, I was somewhat afraid!
He was always a-changing and putting folks out,
Who were strong and judicious in play—
If you please—yes, thanks, mine's a beer. What a route!
I'm fixed for the season. Good day.

JUNIUS BERNARD.

HUNTING'S HAPPENINGS.—The elements are with us, and business is phenomenal, notwithstanding the opposition which seems to make our business better. At Hartford, Ct., upwards of 4,500 sheets of lithographic paper have been used, and 5,000 quarter and half sheet heralds are put out daily, and will be until the date of the show here. There are now twenty men ahead of the show, and a skirmishing brigade of ten more will join in June. Stands three and four decks high are almost a daily occurrence, and Mr. Stephens, the car agent, is laying awake many nights trying to think of a scheme whereby he can secure walls as high as the temple of Haman. Excursions are run daily, and the show is making a reputation that can do nothing but insure success. At Barnstable, Mass., June 21, over 1,200 people were brought in on excursion trains running as far down the Cape as Provincetown, and not only do we please the immense throngs of people that visit the shows daily, but our reputation precedes us to such an extent that business is uniform, whether the elements are favorable or not. Work was begun on the new Winter quarters at New Castle, Pa., on June 20, and when completed Mr. Hunting will possess one of the finest Winter quarters in the country. They will be heated by steam and lighted with electric lights throughout. Each man connected with the quarters will have a living room, and each living room will open to the animal quarters.

C. ASBEY, who was recently with Miles Orton's Circus, has signed as general contracting and advance agent for Wm. Thompson's New Australian Circus, Museum and Menagerie. It is a four car railroad show, and the prices are ten and twenty-five cents. Everything is reported to be in good condition.

FRANK B. HUBIN has the sideshow and candy stand privileges with Richards' three big shows, making his second season with them. He has six assistants, and the sideshow includes Frank B. Hubin, manager and lecturer; Millie Hubin, Circassian snake charmer, with her den of snakes; Colonel Grant, Prof. Hubin's trained monkey, sacred donkey and trained birds, ten in number; also magic and Punch and Judy. They carry a 35 by 10ft. canvas and a big front.

PROF. GEO. T. GOLT opened with S. F. Given's European Circus June 20, for the season.

ROSTER OF ANDY MCDONALD'S WORLD FAIR CIRCUS: Andy McDonald, sole owner and manager; W. C. Coup, advertising agent; Geo. H. Holland, equestrian director; Jack Reagan, boss canvas man; J. B. Gallagher, assistant boss canvas man; Prof. Williams, leader of band; Prof. Page Buckley and his trained horses and dogs; Geo. Holland, bareback rider; Geo. Holland Jr., bareback rider; Kittie Holloway, manege act; Artie Adair and wife, perch act; Chas. De Camo, juggler and slack wire; Billy Moore and Nelly Moore, Mexican ladder; Adair and Laning, brother act; Blanch Le Clair, flying rings; William Moore, balancing trapeze; John B. Wright, singing clown; Miss Leonard, contortionist; Mr. Nobels, ticket seller; Barker and Perkins, lithographers; Prof. Williams and band of fourteen pieces. Concert—The Kershaw Bros., Mable Sisson, Frankie Kershaw, John B. Wright, Nellie Moore, Clara Davis, Gibbons and Davis, and Billy Williams. The show report doing a big business, making three day stands around Chicago.

DE ALVA'S TEN CENT MUSEUM opened at Loveejoy's Park, Brantford, Can., June 18 to reported good business. The roster is as follows: E. H. De Alva, proprietor; Prof. James Brown, manager; J. W. Bailey, contortionist; Clayborne and Dodds, ariel performers; Sig. De Alva, wire walker and juggler; C. Barry, cowboy giant, and wife; Millie Soreno, human magnet; Maggie Moos, Circassian snake charmer; Prof. Jas. Wilson, equilibrist; a miniature circus and three illusions. They use a 50ft. round top, with 30ft middle piece. They are booked at Brantford for three weeks, after which they will make a tour of the principal towns in Ontario and Quebec.

NOTES FROM GOLLMAR BROS.' CIRCUS.—Business is very good. No accidents have occurred since C. C. Mather's fall. Everyone is glad to see this Nestor of aerialists so rapidly regaining his former agility. Now that the time has arrived for a just estimate of the performance, it is very pleasant to realize that the twenty two acts are features all through, and that to discriminate is nearly impossible. At last the weather is favorable, and the prospects are very inviting.

REPORTS come from the former members of the F. W. Pike Show, which went to the wall at Owasso, Mich., June 14, claiming unprofessional treatment. These people say that business had been good, and that there was money enough taken in to pay their salaries, had the proprietor seen fit to do so.

HOPSON AND HART joined Dr. Curtis' Medicine Co., June 15.

LOUIS BARTELMES, foot juggler, and wife joined the Oriental Railroad Show, June 17, at Fort Scott, Kan. The show is said to be doing good business. The list of performers is as follows: Louis Bartlemes, foot juggler; Jenero Bros., Master Charlie Long, Joseph Richards and wife, William Brown and wife, Harry Long and wife, Charles Fish, Maud Alton, Clara Dott, Sam Wright, Otto Glizer, Bee Lester, Kattie Wright, Bob Parker, George Garner, and Little Ash. The show carries a band of twelve mouthpieces, and a 100ft. round top with two 50ft middle pieces.

MR. AND MRS. TONY RYDER were suddenly called away from the Cook & Whitby Shows to pay the last tribute of respect to Mrs. Ryder's father, who passed quietly away at his home at Louisville, Ky., on June 16, at the advanced age of seventy-one years. Mrs. Ryder has the sympathy of her many friends.

SELLS BROS. recently had an experience with the intricacies of our customs laws not so agreeable as otherwise. On their return to 'Frisco from Australia the customs authorities compelled them to pay duties on not only the appurtenances of the circus newly purchased in Australia and elsewhere while away, but likewise on every foreign product. The fact that those products had been owned and possessed by Sells Bros. for fifteen years, more or less, and taxes paid on them meanwhile, cut no figure in the case. The duties had to be paid. It was a new experience for them, as they had taken their circus to British Columbia and back several times without paying duty. The Sells appealed to Secretary Foster, who thought it was unjust, but referred them to the chief attorney of the customs division, who said the law was plain. Peter Sells paid the duties under protest, and will appeal. The matter will have to be settled by the Board of Appraisers.

THE ORRIN BROS.' SHOW is still on its tour through Mexico. Dick Bell, their popular clown, has just recovered from the injuries he received last March and has rejoined the show. The Orrins have several European novelties on the card for their next season in the City of Mexico.

DR. DORE ISDELL'S MEDICINE CO. opened at Lockport, Ky., indefinitely, June 20. Harry Livingstone, Arthur Williams, Willie Furlong, Prof. Clark's goat circus, Barney Leat, Maud Darcy, Chas. Huth, leader of band. The Ghost has not failed once in twenty-two years to walk.

ANDY SPEAR and wife and their troupe of educated dogs are with E. E. Eisenbarth's tented company in Southern Ohio. This is Mr. Spear's thirty-third year in the profession.

ROSTER OF SIDESHOW WITH HUNTING'S CIRCUS AND MENAGERIE.—Zamora (triple jointed dwarf), C. A. Bonney (Albino), Senorita Marstana (Circassian skirt dancer), the Cassinoras (tattooed people), Mme. Cass (snake charmer), Adamantine (sword and razor walker), Prof. Hays (glass blower), Ed. Manley and Fred Griffin (solicitors), Nip Clark, Bob Landon, Burt Landon and Philip Walker (Congo Band), Punch and Judy, gallery of illusions, and Prof. Chas. E. Griffin, manager.

ROBINSON'S COMBINED SHOWS AND TRAINED ANIMAL EXHIBITION, traveling through Southern Missouri, report good business. The roster: Smith & Dorr, proprietors; William Dorr, equestrian director; Josie Dorr, Maude Dettie, Lillie La Rue, William Dorr, Sam Wright, Will Howard, Smith Bros., Harry Robinson, Maud Milford, Belle Sinclair, Floyd Rowe, Jim Kimball, Prof. Will Marshall, with a band of ten pieces. The sideshow is run by Lew Cole, door solicitor; Prof. Higgs, Punch and Judy and sleight of hand; the big Missouri snake, sacred owl face monk, performing ape, Brazilian gravedigger, etc. The ghost perambulates every week.

NOTES FROM THE FRED LOCKE CIRCUS.—We have just started in on our seventh week, and during this time have packed our canvas dry just six times. The roads have been simply horrible; but, with a surplus of well fed stock, we have not missed a stand or canceled a date. A very pleasant occurrence took place in the ring on last Saturday evening. Mr. Locke had forgotten that Saturday was his birthday, but his company had not. Just before the last act, Assistant Manager Curt Bailey stepped into the ring, and, with a neat and appropriate speech, presented Mr. Locke, on behalf of the company, with a gold watch. Although completely taken by surprise, Mr. Locke responded in his usual happy style, and the canvas, which was packed to the ring bank, was almost raised off the poles by the applause which followed. Prof. D. H. Hadderman attached a gold chain and K. of P. charm to the watch, and Mr. Locke, as he gave each one of his company a hearty shake of the hand, declared that his thirty-fourth birthday would never be forgotten. Since our opening several changes have been made in our roster, which is now as follows: Fred Locke, sole proprietor and manager; Curt Bailey, assistant manager; D. S. Locke, treasurer; Prof. D. H. Hadderman, musical director and leader of Band No. 1, with nine mouthpieces; Len Osborn, leader band No. 2, with six mouthpieces; Geo. E. Davis, manager side show; Emmet Snider, master transportation and superintendent privileges; Ed. De Long, master of canvas, with nine assistants; Joe Locke, in charge of stock, with eight assistants; Jas. Borland, in charge of ring stock; Dick Borjaro, boss property man, with two assistants; W. W. Everett, in charge of lights; E. E. Pratt, chief cook, with four assistants; L. T. Rusk, manager advertising programme. Performers—Wm. De Boe, four Zaro Bros., Joe Douglas, Harry Long and wife, Prof. Borland's trained dogs and goats, E. F. Cristo, Billy Sheppard, Master Ernie Powers' stud of eight performing stallions, Claude Melnotte, Frank Florence and wife, two Beasley Bros. and John Kane. The canvas, which is all new, is as follows: One 80ft. round top with two 40ft, middle pieces, 30ft. dressing top, 40x60ft. sideshow, eight paintings, two horse tents, two cook tents, sixteen wagons and forty-two head of stock. The advance is in charge of Cready Smith, and the roster remains the same as before published. The ghost has not failed to make his appearance every Sunday morning, and everybody is contented and happy.

NOTES FROM THE F. J. TAYLOR CIRCUS.—We have had a hard pull through the mud, and such mud as was never seen before. We were one week at Nebraska City, water bound, and could not get out by either rail or wagon road for several days. Since then the show has been doing good business. We carry this season 100ft. round top, with a 50ft. middle piece; one 80ft. round top, with two 30ft. middle pieces; 110 head of horses, eight cages of animals with an open den of lions, four camels and one elephant. Chang Brady, boss canvas man, has twenty assistants. Lee Coldman, with two assistants, look after the lights, and Dick Brown, boss hostler, has twenty-four assistants. The roster: F. I. Taylor, owner and manager; Dick Hunter, general agent; Dick Farnum, equestrian director; James King, John F. Batchelor, William Devan, Fred Welcome, Lon Moore, Don Divo, Abe Bishop, George Payne, Charles Gardner, James Farnum, Dick Farnum, Harry Wilson, Mrs. Josie Farnum, Mrs. Fanny Moore, Nellie Moore, Mrs. James Farnum, Mrs. Abe Bishop, Mrs. J. Schidler, Mrs. Walter McCafferty, Walter McCafferty, John G. Schidler, William Farnum Jr., Prof. John Marshall, Thomas Mar

ROSTER of the Umatilla Indian Medicine Co., Party No. 11: Frank Grant, manager; Dr. Hague, lecturer; Jack McGee, Mrs. Frank Grant, Sam Golden, Split Moon, Deer Foot, Falling Crop, Bright Eyes and two Indian children.

THE fact that Manager J. T. McCaddon, of the Adam Forepaugh Shows is making it warm for those who endeavor to make the show a cloak for their wrong doing is causing the crooked element to keep clear of his organization. At Worcester, Mass., a person named H. A. Wagner, representing himself as being connected with the show, was arrested, convicted and is serving a six months' term in jail for swindling. He was known as Charles Wilson and Frank Kelly.

THE ARABS traveling with Forepaugh's Circus, which showed at Brockton, Mass., June 23, got into trouble with a gang of idlers when the circus reached town. A free fight was started on the main street. The Arabs were routed, and took refuge in a store. A gang of five hundred men and boys surrounded the store and threatened to lynch them, but, as they remained out of sight, the police succeeded in dispersing the mob. The Arabs were too badly frightened to appear at the performance.

SADIE, eldest daughter of Ben Nathan, the old time manager, celebrated her birthday June 21, at her father's house. She received many costly gifts.

DR. WHITE CLOUD'S big tent was totally destroyed by a hailstorm at Addyston, O., June 18. The damage is nearly six hundred dollars, but, luckily for the large company of performers, not one was hurt, and about nine hundred people got out of the tent in time to save their lives. A new tent was secured, and on 20 people were turned away.

E. G. FLADELAND'S GREAT BRITISH CIRCUS.—We have not turned people away so far this season, but we have played to winning business ever since the opening at St. Paul, May 2. We have now left the cities, and are playing one day stands through Northern Minnesota. We are showing a town at this writing (Princton, Minn.,) that has never had a circus. The people were out on the country roads looking for the elephant six hours before the show was due. We run a first class wagon show, and carry seventy-five head of stock. The main canvas seats 3,000 people, and we have a 70ft. menagerie. Kirk art runs the dime museum, and is doing well. Lenord and Hart, two New York boys, are the principal clowns. The show carries 125 people, and is one of the finest and neatest wagon shows on the road.

RAYMOND'S CIRCUS showed at Salt Lake City, Utah, June 17, 18 to fine business. They turned people away from the doors on both evening performances.

A NEW "Monarch" sleeping car has been adding to the T. K. Burke Show. Excellent business through New England is reported.

RINGLING NOTES.—Charles W. Fish joined at Grafton, N. Dak., June 17. His world famed equestrianism, introduced in our middle ring with special announcement, is a most attractive feature. Mrs. Lou Nichols, of our sideshow, mourns the loss of three giant boa constrictors, but Equestrian Marks, of the big top, rejoices in possession of their beautiful mottled skins, which were tanned by an expert. Al. Ringling lately saw the Robinson Show, returning well pleased with his trip. Johnny Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gill Robinson, Frank De Mott and Orrin Hollis visited, at Little Falls, Minn. The Robinson train passed ours at that place, and a gang of old Cincinnati friends stayed up till 3 A. M. to see our welcome visitors off, preluding which was a clinking of glasses and a pouring of ruby red wine in Gill Robinson's private car. Walter L. Main visited at Litchfield, Minn., and Manager Wallace, with about forty more of the Cook & Whitby Circus, crossed eighteen miles of country to see us at Marshall, Minn. Mr. Goetze, of the Model Minstrels, also visited there. A Dakota blizzard blew a cage off our train, from whose broken top leaped a frightened kangaroo, hopping over the plains at twenty feet a bound. He was captured a day later, but died. Two new kangaroos came from New York today, and one gave birth to a baby kangaroo within an hour after receipt. That's a fair sample of Ringling luck—to be out one kangaroo and in another.

FOREPAUGH'S CONCERT consists of the following well known people: Phil Gibbons, Ada Devere, Wm. Kilpatrick, Wm. Beattie, McCloud and Melville, Gallagher and Devere, Gallagher and Reynolds, Bowery Four, Blanche Noice, Mamie Heeney, Ada Powell, Ada Templeton.

HUNTING'S CIRCUS.—This has been a week of gloom, although we have done a brisk business. Chas. McVey, of Pettit and McVey, aerial team, while doing a twister forward somersault, at Bristol, R. I., struck the outward bar with his head, which caused him to fall on his neck when he struck the net, causing a compound fracture of the spine. Everything was done for his relief, but it was of no avail. He was removed from the train to the Rhode Island Hospital, where he is now lying in a critical condition, with but slight hopes of his recovery. His friends at Zanesville, O., were immediately notified, and are expected on. [Later.—A telegram as we go to press, June 28, informs us that Mr. McVey died on that date, at one o'clock P. M.—ED. CLIPPER.] Millie Sereto, barrell kicker and juggler, while leaving the dressing room tent on her horse, struck a guy rope, causing her to fall from her horse, breaking her arm and hurting her head. She has gone home until she recovers. Doc Manley is doing effective work for Mr. Griffin.

DEMPSEY & DAVIS, proprietors of World's Musee, Altoona, Pa., opened their large canvas show at Johnstown, Pa., June 20, to packed business the entire week, which caused them to cancel other dates and remain one more week. The canvas has been enlarged by the addition of a new 30ft. middle piece and ten lengths of new seats; also an entire new stage outfit, much enlarged. The roster of the present company is as follows: Dempsey & Davis, proprietors and managers; James J. Morton, amusement director; Emery Bourque, contracting agent; Chas. Davis, treasurer; Human Hamlin, leader of orchestra; Tom and Gertie Grimes, Sadie L. Godfrey, John Raynor, John Max, Billy Clayton, James J. Morton, Maud Revelle, Ed. Williams and a brass band of eight pieces, Prof. Schoof, leader. The route lays through Virginia and Pennsylvania.

NOTES FROM WASHBURN'S CIRCUS.—Business continues large, and our Eastern tour has been highly profitable. Eight large dapple horses were recently added. Pedro Leon, late of Pubillones' Cuban Circus, has joined with three head of ring stock. A new side show outfit is an addition. Maj. Kibble, late of Al. G. Field's Minstrels, has joined the concert, and Theodore, magician and ventriloquist, the annex. Marco Castagni and wife, in their knife throwing and impalement act, are creating a furor.

DOINGS OF DOWNIE & GALLAGHER'S SHOW.—We have just finished our eighth week of continued success. We have had many blow downs and storms, and other accidents, but the first to cast gloom was the drowning of J. Sullivan near Geneva, on the morning of July 22. Every effort was made to save the young man, but without avail. We showed Dresden 22. It is one of the oldest towns in the State, and ours was the first circus that ever pitched a tent there.

CHARLES SIMCOE, late of Simcoe and Palaro, acrobats, will hereafter be known by his own name—Parker. He has doubled up with Nellie Liberty, late of the Liberty Family.

NOTES FROM JIM TRAVIS' "BEST SHOW ON EARTH."—Our opening week at Reed's Lake was a grand success, and, despite the rain and mud, we gave fourteen performances. All that time we had to work in a ring with from four to six feet of "mud and muck." Frank Melville says that in his thirty years of riding he never saw so muddy a ring. During our stay at the lake a large passenger boat was launched, and our entire company were invited to go aboard and slide into the water. It was a grand sight, amid the music of our band and the waving of the national colors. Chas. P. Watson, our hurdle rider, was the last to board the boat, and, as it was christened the Watson, Charlie says it was named after him. We played against the Richard Railroad Show, and on Sunday received a visit from Dick Sutton. As he gazed on our large crowd he said: "This is the first big house I have seen this week." We moved to the South End on the 20th, and played to the capacity on the week. On the 25th we gave a children's matinee in honor of Colin B. Melville, our boy rider, when twelve hundred children were present. The first accident of the season happened 24, when Geo. Dunbar, in doing his breakaway single trapeze, with his wife, Lottie, took a header from the top of the tent, and landed on his head outside the ring bank. He was stunned for a moment, but quickly ascended and finished his act amid great applause. Our concert is a feature. We move to the West Side 27 to July 4, when we take the road. This is the only twenty-five cent show that has ever played the town three weeks. Mrs. Goine and Mrs. Stanton have the candy and lemonade privilege, and Wm. Borden is our new steward. Mr. Travis is making final arrangements for a sideshow, as an invoice of animals arrived from Texas yesterday. Willard Stanton is making arrangements to boom the northern part of the State. Judd Shore, our treasurer, is kept hustling in the ticket wagon, and every Saturday appears as the man in white. Geo. Dunbar is kept busy supplying the boys with CLIPPERS on their arrival.

VARIETY & MINSTRELSY.

Our Darling's Dying Prayer.

The winds were sighing mournfully,
The stars were dimmed with tears;
The birds were singing sadly
For a friend they'd loved for years.
A mother sobbed with grief and pain,
And gazed in mute despair,
And knelt down by her dying child,
And kissed her golden hair.

From those pale lips, in plaintive tones,
"Make papa good!" she cried.
Her blue eyes up to heaven raised;
She then fell back and died.
The flowers drooped their pretty leaves,
The dew forgot the rose;
The moon had lost its brightness, too,
And hid in sad repose.

'Twas then that father staggered in,
A drunken, bloated sot,
To where that frantic mother knelt
By her dead darling's cot.
"Why, what's the matter?" he cried out,
"Speak, have you lost your breath?"
When she so sadly pointed down:
"It's her, she's starved to death."

Then frantically that father cried,
And knelt beside the bed:
"I will never touch another drop,
I swear this o'er my dead."
Then round his neck two loving arms
Were once so plump and fair,
"Oh! thank the Lord," she murmured low,
That was her dying prayer.

BY THE LATE JOHNNIE PRINDLE.

AL. G. FIELD'S AMERICAN MINSTRELS will begin rehearsals at Columbus, O., July 6. Among the features to be introduced the coming season will be a spectacular first part, entitled "In Camp;" the Utopian minstrel creation, "Boys and Girls;" a magnificently costumed march, "The Norman Knights;" the watermelon ballet; Clayton and Jenkins, and their trick mule, Jasper; the burlesque, "The Dark Town Circus," introducing a circus street parade, grand entre and leaping and tumbling by a host of acrobats. The company will open their season July 19.

BARRY AND ELLA GRAY are summering at Tea and Herring Cottage, Cleveland, O.

THE GIRARDS have been engaged to appear on the Casino Roof Garden, this city, for a fortnight or more, commencing July 4.

TONINA AND LILY, the clever little daughters of Mrs. George H. Adams, made a decided hit with their dances at the Kirmess Festival, under Prof. Marwig's direction, at Denver, Col., June 17. They are now at Atlantic City, N. J.

MINNIE AND LAURA SEARLES are in the city. They will soon make their New York debut.

LUCIERS' CONSOLIDATED MINSTRELS closed their season of sixty-seven weeks at Yarmouth, N. S., and will open their city show Aug. 1 on the New England circuit. They will carry thirty-five people. Straffin and Luciers have gone to their Summer cottage at Onset Bay, Mass., where they will rest until their Fall season opens.

THIS week's people at Winter's Teutonic Casino, Brooklyn, N. Y.: Barry and Bannon, the Keegans, Bobby Mack, May Hornby, Joe Fields and Phil J. Mathews.

JOS. F. VIAU, of "Keep It Dark" last season; James E. Orr, of Williams & Orr's Meteors, and Wm. F. Fay, of H. W. Williams' Own Co., are running a lemonade stand and rifle range at Atlantic City, N. J., for the Summer. Mr. Fay sailed for Europe June 29 on business and pleasure. Chas. J. Newton will look after Mr. Fay's interests while he is abroad.

A. R. WILSON, advertising agent of Huber's Palace Museum, this city, is on a visit to his home, Chillicothe, O.

WHITTEY AND LEONARD, Stirk and Zeno, Tom Jackson and Frank C. Rice are enjoying themselves at Coney Island. They were trolling for blue fish, June 26, in Mr. Jackson's yacht, and met with considerable success. They were well supplied with refreshments, and had an enjoyable time.

AZILDA LOZONE, singing and dancing soubrette, formerly of Hart's Boston Novelty Co., has signed with Mallory & Richard's "Full Moon" Co. for the season of 1892-3, to play the leading soubrette role.

ADMIRAL DOT, the well known midget, is to wed Lottie Swartwood in August. The Admiral's bethrothed is very attractive in face and figure, and is one inch taller than himself. The pair have just closed with the Royal Midgets, and will spend the Summer at Rockaway Beach, L. I.

CARMENCITA has smoothed over her difficulties with Koster & Bial. The popular Spanish dancer has signed a contract to appear under their management for one year, beginning in January next. Meanwhile, she will make a tour of the Summer resorts in the East, accompanied by the Spanish Students and several singers. In the Fall she will visit Cuba, to fill a special engagement at the Tacon Teatro.

EFFIE HEUSTED has subjected her pet dog, Little Trix, to the eye of the camera. The position of the pup is cute and interesting. He is seen poking his shaggy and sagacious head through a copy of THE CLIPPER, and his eyes seem fairly snapping with delight. We treasure one of the photos. Miss Heusted and her partner, Mabel Geyer, are doing a tiptop character turn with Lester & Williams' "Me and Jack" Co. They are strong favorites in the vaudevilles. Miss Heusted formerly worked with the late Polly McDonald in song and dance.

GEORGE KEMBLE and Tony De Gabrielle have formed a partnership to take out a specialty company next season. The roster will include Mlle. Lotonda, Mons. Ludivico, Carrie St. Clair, Lola Elting, Gertie Molyneaux, Prince Koko, Signor Elting, Chas. G. Maurer, Jas. D. Lee and Franklin Scott.

BLANCHE DU POIS, formerly of Donovan and Du Pois, is very ill at her boarding house, 240 East Eighty-sixth Street, this city. She is in distress, and from all accounts stands sadly in need of a friendly, helping hand.

ROSTER of the Wizard Oil Co., now touring South Dakota: John E. Masters (manager and lecturer), Mrs. J. E. Masters, Geo. Gregor, Fawn Saxon, Pauline Saxon, Dot Saxon, John B. Rotnour, James R. Beaton, Charles Muzzy and Charles Cruikshank.

BERTINA LESLIE has been quite sick for several days, but hopes to resume work shortly. She has signed with the May Russell Co. for next season. For the past five weeks she has been at Vacca's West End Casino, Coney Island.

AT the Mammoth Pavilion, Phœbus, Va., this week: Lillie Hall, Kate Wright, Ethel Lake, Gussie O'Neil, Prof. Grosse, Al. Lloyd and Paddy Miles.

BILLY EMERSON is forming a minstrel party for an interior tour in California, thence to Australia. William Cameron, Gilbert and Goldie, and Crimmers and Gore are already engaged.

OLIE ARCHMERE has returned to New York from Paris, where she had been studying vocalism under a noted teacher.

PROF. HENRY PARKS, the clever aerialist, has been filling a special engagement at Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, Mass., during the past fortnight. He says that his new act proved to be a veritable novelty. This, by the way, was Prof. Parks' American reappearance, after a long absence abroad.

NIBBE'S FRENCH BURLESQUE Co. have closed their season of forty weeks. New scenery and new wardrobe will be prepared for next season.

JACK C. GREEN, orator and lecturer, is still with Prof. Edmonds, the Australian magician and ventriloquist, and reports good business at the Canadian Summer resorts.

THE THREE ALBIONS, acrobats—William, Charles, Herbert—and Abe Aronson opened with Jas. Pain & Sons' "Last Days of Pompeii" at Chicago, June 25, for the Summer season.

HUGHES AND FARRON are rusticating with the Ventinis at the Ventini Cottage, Red Bank, N. J.

LOTTIE RICE will spend her Summer vacation at Saratoga, N. Y.

HARRY THOMPSON and the Lloyd Sisters are appearing at the Grand View Hotel, Port Hamilton, N. Y. The first hop and reception will be given tonight, June 29.

DAVE L. SCOTT, general agent of Swe ney, Alvido, Gorman & Goetze's Minstrels, has fully recovered his health, and is enjoying his vacation at his home at Galesburg, Ill.

AL. WEATHERS and James L. White have joined hands. Their team name is White and Weathers, and they are doing well with the Nashville Students.

LEW HUTCHINSON is rapidly regaining his health.

MILLIE CERITO, of Hunting's Circus, accidentally fell from her horse June 21, and sustained injuries of a serious nature. She will probably be unable to work again this season.

CLIPPER POST OFFICE.

☞ A STAMPED ENVELOPE, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the person addressed should be given in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canada must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

NEW JERSEY.

Atlantic City.—The last week in June, preceding the opening of the Summer season at this well known resort, is usually productive of numerous rumors of proposed Summer amusements, and this year is no exception to the rule. Many of these projects never reach beyond the rumor state, and some that do materialize realize later that the seaside pleasure seeker is most fickle, and his appetite, sated with the amusements and theatregoing of the gay Winter season, is apt to turn up to the other pleasures to be found at all the seaside resorts. It is an oft demonstrated fact that outside of the board walk attractions, such as the variety pavilions, where light amusement and liquid refreshment combine, and the big open air spectacles, with fireworks accompaniment, theatrical ventures in this city by the sea seldom attain success. This, of course, refers to the Summer season only, as the

Osric	Franklin Bernard
Ophelia	Lillie Joyce
Queen	Carrie Jamison

Such performances as a lady as Hamlet are novel, if not interesting, though they "make the judicious grieve" that ladies who may have some personal charms should attempt what Heaven never intended they should do, and no one but themselves and a few misguided friends seem to be specially interested in. She played Hamlet in purple, under the idea, evidently, that when he refers to his "inky cloak" purple ink was then a fashionable article of stationery. "A Crown of Thorns" followed 27, and continued the balance of the engagement.

James O'Neill opened in "A Celebrated Case" Monday afternoon, April 3, for the benefit of the Actors' Fund. The cast:

Tooting Our Trumpet.

George H. Summers, manager for Chas. J. Stevenson in "Enoch Arden," blows a blast for us thusly: "I feel it my duty to write you of the success of our advertisement in your valuable paper week before last. I inserted a three column ad., which brought me 260 answers in less than five days after the issue of the paper, and I am glad to say that I think THE CLIPPER the very best advertising medium for theatrical purposes in America."

WORLD OF PLAYERS.

An Echo From Sligo.

I sat one night in a theatre,
And I heard a singer sing
A song that touched a responsive chord,
In my ears its notes still ring.
I saw myself on a foreign shore,
And the lad I loved so well,
Said: "Where you go I will follow, too
In your land I fain would dwell."
"Thy land's my land!"
Was ever so sweet a refrain?
"Thy land's my land!"
I sing it again and again.
As Ruth of old to Naomi told
The story of love and its ways.
'Twas sung to me then, and I hear it again,
It will dwell with me all my days.
As I heard the song it seemed to me
The singer melted away,
And in her place I saw a face
That will haunt me many a day,
And the well known voice of long ago
Came back through the gates ajar:
"Tho' Heaven is mine, if it never be thine,
I must still be where you are."

EARLE REMINGTON.

— Frazer Coulter and Grace Thorne are engaged by Manager Harry Williams for prominent parts in Katie Emmett's new play, "Killarney," which will be the opening attraction at the Star Theatre, this city, Aug. 22. Manager Williams has arranged with Will Rossiter, the well known music publisher, of Chicago, to publish all the new songs which Miss Emmett will sing in her new Irish play. Lyon & Healy, of Chicago, have made for Miss Emmett a copy of the celebrated Brian Borothme harp, from drawings secured by friends of Miss Emmett's in Dublin, where the original harp now is, in Trinity College. The harp was the property of King Brian Borothme, who ruled Ireland in the tenth century, and its authenticity as the oldest harp in Irish history is well established. Miss Emmett has had this harp made for use in her new Irish play.

— James F. Horne, Horace Lewis, Robert Harold Jr., Charles J. Jackson, Joseph C. Callahan, Ben Ryer, Annie Lockhart, Portia Albee, Jean Harold, Bell Rose, Carrie Treat, Allie Hunt, Master Walter Lewis and Annie Mayer have been engaged for C. B. Jefferson, Klaw & Erlanger's "Soudan" Co.

— Edwin A. Kerr, who played the Detective in "Eight Bells" last season, has given up his Summer engagement with the Spencer Opera Co., owing to an injured ankle, and gone home to Kansas City. He has signed with the Dowling-Hasson Co. for next season.

— Joseph Ott, the comedian, last week became a benedict. He was married to Florence Wood, of Wells, Vt., formerly of Hackensack, N. J. The lady is a daughter of Isaac Wood, a former well known business man of this city.

— One of the leading roles in "The Fencing Master," which will be seen in September at the Standard, this city, will be originated by William Broderick.

— "The Little Tycoon" will go out again next season, under the management of Samuel Stackhouse.

— Graham J. Henderson has been engaged for a comedy part in "The White Squadron."

— W. S. Reeves has engaged Claire Childs for "Hands Across the Sea."

— H. S. Sykes and Drucie Gilmore, of "The Little Nugget" Co., have arrived at Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., where they will spend the Summer.

— Anna Belmont, of the Sol Smith Russell Co., is Summering at Toledo, O., with her parents.

— David Hanchett opened with Frank Mayo at Toledo, O., June 13, as Gideon Bloodgood in "The Streets of New York."

— Col. William E. Sinn and his son and partner, Walter L. Sinn, will visit Alaska together, stopping for a time in the Yellowstone Park.

— John Whiteley, who for five seasons has successfully managed MacLean and Prescott, will return to Katie Putnam in that capacity next season.

— The American rights to E. E. Rose's play "Captain Paul" have been secured by H. S. Taylor, who is quite enthusiastic over his purchase.

— Caro Piatti, a young society girl, will be added to Aug. Daly's Co. next season.

— George Brennan has been engaged for character business in support of Sadie Scanlan, being his third season with that star.

— "Rohan the Silent" is the title of a new play which Alexander Salvini has purchased of the Boston playwrights, "Evan Shariand." Another play by these collaborateurs, "Drifting," has been accepted by the Theatre of Arts and Letters.

— Charles Leonard Fletcher was quietly married to Albertine Dube, at Boston, June 14.

— The engagements for "Imagination" next season include Harry Hotto, Mrs. Georgie Dickson, W. W. Wilson, Lizzie Hudson-Collier and Helen Kinnaird. Edwin H. Price is booking the piece.

— Agnes Huntington's season closed June 18. She sails 29 for Europe.

— Henry Pierson has been re-engaged for "Hands Across the Sea."

— Wright Huntington, having closed his engagement with "The Golden Giant," has gone with his wife, Florida Kingsley, to their country home, at Moodus, Ct., for the Summer.

— George Brennan and Lon Byrne are recent engagements for the Sadie Scanlan Co.

— Emma Bell will hereafter be known as Marguerite Holt.

— R. E. Graham's operetta, "Larry the Lord," will be produced at Atlantic City early next month. Mr. Graham's tour will be under the direction of J. M. McNamara and Henry Greenwall. Rita Selby and Lillian Swain have been engaged.

— Harry Corson Clarke and Dan Daly have resigned from the cast of "Sinbad." Dan Hart will play his original part, and W. A. Mack will take the place made vacant by Mr. Daly's resignation.

— Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Enos (Gertrude Berkeley) and their little son, Master Georgie, have been engaged by A. Y. Pearson.

— Josie La Fontaine has been engaged for Joseph Murphy's Co.

— Sol Smith Russell's season will open on Aug. 8, at Denver. The company will go from that city direct to California.

— Fanny Gillette has been re-engaged for "A Fair Rebel." Thomas B. Dunn has also been engaged.

— Maurice Darcy will play comedy parts with Patti Rosa.

— Elmer E. Vance and Mr. and Mrs. Clay T. Vance, of "The Limited Mail," will be guests of Agent Chappelle, at his famous "Expense Account Cottage," Great Bend, Pa., during a portion of July. It is said the black bass, pickerel and pike in that section have already commenced to emigrate, in anticipation of certain annihilation of their species.

— This is the full roster of "The Harvest Moon" Co. for the season of 1892-3: Louise Rial, Ida Sollee, Helen Bell, Harry Booker, H. D. Clifton, Paul R. Everton, T. J. McGrane, N. Compston, J. M. Martin, H. M. Evart and Max Loewenthal.

— Allene Crater joined Reed & Collier's "Hoss and Hoss" Co. at Denver, Col., to play leading soubrette. Miss Crater was one of the unfortunates of the People's Theatre fire on June 10. She is young and pretty, and possesses a sweet, soprano voice.

— C. S. Wilbur, stage manager of the People's Theatre Stock Co., Denver, lost an extensive and valuable wardrobe, as well as manuscripts and music, in the fire at that house, night of June 10. He will spend the Summer at Denver and vicinity.

— About two hundred members of the New York Arion Society sailed for Germany June 25 to make a voted to charity. They will return early in September.

— Fanny Davenport sailed for Europe from this city June 25. She will play only "Cleopatra" next season.

— Marie Tempest, who is to create the leading part in "The Fencing Master," an original comic opera by Reginald De Koven and Harry B. Smith, will sail for New York from Liverpool Aug

— Charles Frohman returned June 15 from his annual visit to Europe. He had been busy securing plays as usual, and comes back with a goodly number of them in his possession, or in prospect. In regard to his acquisitions and plans, Mr. Frohman said: "At Paris I secured the new comedy which Victorien Sardou was under contract to write for me. I also made a contract with M. Sardou for all the work which he does in the future, except such plays as he may write for Sarah Bernhardt. I made the same kind of contract with Alexandre Bisson, with the exception, of course, of the clause in regard to Bernhardt. He delivered to me the comedy to be produced at the Madison Square Theatre, this city, in August. The adaptation will be made by William Gillette, and it will be called 'Settled out of Court.' Bisson and Carre are also at work on a play for John Drew, of which only two acts have yet been delivered. It is a light farce, as it has been decided that Mr. Drew shall play works of this kind for his first season with me. I have the refusal of a new comedy by the authors of 'Miss Helyett,' and Audran is to compose a march called 'The Empire' for the opening of the new Empire Theatre. M. Bisson is also at work on a musical comedy, and I shall have the present Parisian success, 'M. Chasse.' At London I secured Oscar Wilde's 'Lady Windermere's Fan,' which is now running at the St. James Theatre. This will be played by my stock as the second production at the Empire Theatre, the first being an American play now being completed, also acted by the stock. Oscar Wilde will probably come here to superintend the final rehearsals of 'Lady Windermere's Fan.' He wants to come to America again. George R. Sims and Cecil Raleigh are also under contract to me for a comedy to be ready at the end of next season, in which Johnstone Bennett will play the leading part. I am to have the refusal of all Mr. Sims' works for the future. I have a new comedy by Jerome K. Jerome, which my stock, which started for the West 15, will produce at Chicago in August. I am now arranging the companies for Mr. Drew's opening at Palmer's Theatre Oct. 1, and for the new play by Bronson Howard, which is to follow his engagement there. At the Columbia Theatre, Boston, I am to produce a new English comedy called 'The New Wing' in September, and it will be followed by a new play by Augustus Thomas, entitled 'Surrender.' I have arranged for the production of 'Men and Women' at London, and 'The Lost Paradise' will be given there under my management. 'The Wife' is to be played by the Kendals at the Prince of Wales' Theatre."

— The proposed removal of Edwin Forrest's body from old St. Paul's graveyard, at Third Street and Willing's Alley, Philadelphia, to the Forrest Home at Holmesburg, will not be accomplished without some opposition. Those in position to know say that it was always Mr. Forrest's wish to be buried in the vault that held the remains of his father, mother, sisters and brothers. His father was buried in the old churchyard nearly a century ago; his mother followed not long after, and one after another were buried there until none of the Forrests, save Edwin, remained. The tablet bears the name of his brother, Loredo, who died in South American waters, and was buried at sea. It was Edwin Forrest who saw that his brother's name was placed on the slab, and at the time he said: "I shall some day rest with him forever." Until within a short time of his death, the actor visited the churchyard at every opportunity. On each of these occasions he hunted up the sexton and presented him with $5, and ever enjoined him to see that harm did not befall the sacred spot. He attended St. Paul's Sunday school when a child, and the church when a man. He always had it understood that the old yard was to hold his remains, and those who knew this will oppose the removal, notwithstanding the movement to erect a splendid monument in his memory at the Forrest Home.

— The Harris, Britton & Dean Opera Co. report prosperous business at the Star Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y. The company: Richard Howe, J. K. Murray, Frank David, H. Richards, John Broscius, Fred Huntley, Geo. H. Broderick, J. S. Murray, Felix Haney, Britton Stephens, Charles Bertram, Paul Bracket, D. Risley, Grace Golden, Clara Lane, Mabella Baker, Jenny Eddy, Jennie Maillard, Margaret Mills and Robert Vance.

— May Donaldson, formerly of the D'Ormond "See of Ice" Co., is dangerously ill at her home, Brookfield, Mo.

— Daniel J. Mann is spending his Summer vacation at his farm, near Milfordton, O. Mr. Mann goes with E. D. Stair's "A Barrel of Money" Co. again the coming season, making his fourth season with Mr. Stair—one with "A Chip of the Old Block" and three with "A Barrel of Money."

— Neil Scully's stock company, alternating between Omaha, Neb., and St. Joseph, Mo., will close their season July 3. Mr. Scully, John W. Burton and W. W. Bittner will arrive in New York about Aug. 1. Their season has proved very satisfactory.

— The Crockett Comedy Co., now organizing at Chicago, will open their season early in August. Mattie Goodrich will be featured. George E. Kempton is the manager of the company.

— Wade Tait closed with the Frank Mayo Co. at Cleveland, O., Jan. 22, and is spending his vacation at Saratoga, N. Y.

— Roy Hair, musical director of the Spooner Comedy Co., celebrated his twenty-second birthday last week. The company presented him with a gold watch.

— The roster of Johnstone & Lavarnie's "Our Dorothy" Co., now tenting Illinois, is: O. H. Johnstone, Frank Lavarnie, Harold Chalmers, Albert Caspar, Jos. Burchard, Harry Freeman, Harry Smith, Ed. P. Bower, Prof. E. Oppenheim, Jessie Le Seur, Gussie Johnstone, Anna Jamison. The company open the new Opera House at Clinton, Ill., July 11.

— Burt Imson, E. A. Bates, A. D. Gerin, R. A. Hughes and Ollie Halford have signed with Carl Brehm's "Reddy the Mail Girl" Co. for the coming season, opening at Erie, Pa., Sept. 5.

— Jerry McAuliff, of the Thomas E. Shea Co., is spending his Summer vacation at his home, Lynn, Mass.

— Fred Mower, of Lynn, Mass., will travel next season with "The Old Homestead" Co., under the management of Archie Boyd.

— Lutie Page Mower, wife of Fred Mower, of Lynn, Mass., will be a member of Ullie Akerstrom's Co. next season.

— John Wesley Sheridan, infant son of J. W. Sheridan, of Anderson's "Two Old Cronies" Co., died June 22.

— W. M. Campbell, of Chicago, has gone to Australia to fill a six months' engagement as press agent with the Australian Amusement Co.

— The tour of Rich & Harris' "Tukedo" and Geo. Thatcher's Minstrels is now under the management of W. H. A. Cronkhite.

— George Weaver, comedian, is enjoying a brief vacation at his sister's home at Uhrichsville, O.

— Jennie Burleigh is not the author of "The Black Spider." She writes that she is only the owner of the play, and doesn't wish to claim credit where none is due.

— The Theatrical Protective Union, of this city, have elected the following officers: President, Philip Kelly; vice president, Rufus Williams; secretaries—Louis Fredericks, Ignatius Lonergan and Irving Ormiston; treasurer, C. V. Moore; walking delegate, John Reilly.

— The second annual convention of the Associated Billposters' Association of America will be held at the Osburn House, Rochester, N. Y., July 12 and 13. A large attendance is expected by President Ed. A. Stahlbrodt, representatives from a dozen or more State billposter's associations having signified their intention of taking part in the proceedings.

— Henry J. Sayers, twelve years the business manager of Geo. Thatcher's Co., left the "Tuxedo" Co. at the close of its engagement at Kansas City June 19. Next season Mr. Sayers will manage a new venture called "Cupid's Chariot," in which a bicycle race upon the stage will be a feature.

— The Edgar Strakosch Comic Opera Co. are doing well at Schlitz Park, Milwaukee, Wis., according to all accounts. The roster includes Laura Millard, Alice Carle, Rose Leighton, Margerite Elsfeldt, Florence Wilson, Harry De Lorme, G. Taglieri, W. Broderick, W. H. Fitzgerald, Chas. A. Bigelow, Burton Colliver, J. Riversdale, J. K. Adams, Miles Parker and a band and orchestra. The company will play week stands only after leaving Milwaukee in August.

— Charles Burnham, acting manager of the Star Theatre, this city, is spending his Summer vacation in the Adirondacks.

— The Arion Opera Co. have closed their six weeks' season at Greenwall's Grand Opera House, New Orleans, La., and returned to this city.

— Proctor & Turner have assumed the management of Robert Mantell's business affairs under a contract which covers a period of five years. Mr. Mantell will open his Autumn season at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, this city, and his starring tour will include most of the important cities of the United States and Canada. His trip to Europe will include visits to the North of Ireland and the Scottish Highlands, where his relatives reside. It is not improbable that Mr. Mantell will, while abroad, secure the American rights of one or two successful manuscript plays for which negotiations are now pending.

— Hope Booth, the star of the "Euchred" Co., will spend a few weeks abroad during July and August. Miss Booth will return in time to open her season Aug. 20, under the management of Harry Elting, who has already twenty-seven weeks booked solid in good houses.

— Scott Raymond's Surprise Comedy Co. closed their tour June 25, in Kansas. Manager Raymond and his wife have returned to Chicago for a brief rest.

— Oliver Taylor's new five act comedy, "The Moonshiner," was originally acted at the Harmeling Opera House, Bristol, Tenn., June 21. The company: George Taylor, Henry Kindrick, Sam Mitchell, Harry Dodd, Alex. McKenzie, James Hawley, Oliver Taylor, Charles Linville, George Dunham, Frank Bickley, Will Pile, Maggie Hobson, Jean McNeil and Carrie Lamont. The piece is said to have met with success.

— Ed. F. Summers, business manager of the Spooner Dramatic Co., says that the report, widely circulated in the West, of little Allie Spooner's death, is without the slightest foundation. Miss Spooner is in the best of health. The company are well booked into September, playing Fair dates principally.

— Al. H. Wilson has been engaged to play the German comedy part next season in Hallen & Hart's "New Idea" Co.

— Etta Reed will be the leading lady of the Corse Payton Co. the coming season.

— E. Kinsberger, musical director, and A. Ambrose and wife, of "The Broom Maker" Co., are at London, Can., taking sulphur baths.

— Nat. M. Wills, last season with "His Nibs the Baron" Co., has signed for next season with Kittie Rhoades, as singing and dancing comedian.

— Proctor & Turner have assumed the management of Robert Mantell's business affairs under a contract which covers a period of five years. Mr. Mantell will open his Autumn season at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, this city, as already announced, and his starring tour will include most of the important cities of the United States and Canada. Meantime his trip to Europe will include visits to the North of Ireland and the Scottish Highlands, where his relatives reside. It is probable that Mr. Mantell will, while abroad, secure the American rights of one or two successful manuscript plays, for which negotiations are now pending.

— The City of Paris will hold a jolly theatrical galaxy Wednesday, June 29. There will be Agnes Huntington and Laura Schirmer Mapleson, Col. Mapleson, Marcus Mayer, Manager Oscar Hammerstein, Harry Neagle and others.

— Leslie Chester, the pretty young woman whose good looks made such a hit when she first appeared here with Rosina Vokes, will return here next season with that lady.

— Edward J. Henley, who is a guest at one of the hotels at Asbury Park, N. J., was severely injured in both legs, June 24, by being thrown out of a phaeton in which he was riding with two friends. Henley's horse became unmanageable while pursuing a butcher's wagon that had collided with it, and in his efforts to get the reins he was thrown out and run over.

— T. D. Kennedy has signed with the Josie Mills Co. for 1892-3. Manager Chas. H. Haystead reports that on June 20 some miscreant stole his valuable St. Bernard dog, "Nekah." A large reward has been offered for his return, but in vain.

— Jules Trees and Charles Cody joined Pelham & Chipman's Co. June 22. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morton and George A. Sanger close July 2, for a rest, previous to opening their Fall engagements. Jas. K. Mills and Mae Powers join Aug. 1.

— Adelaide Randall has resigned from the New American Opera Co. to accept a very tempting offer from Dennes. She left Philadelphia June 24.

— James E. McElroy, comedian, will rest during July and August at his farm at Thornton, R. I.

— The Blande Sisters are resting at their home in this city. They were with the "Nabobs" last season.

— John W. Palmoni, who last season acquired note for his hustling abilities in behalf of "Little Lord Mac Leroy" and "The Midnight Alarm," is in town, casting about for 1892-3. He is very popular, a faithful worker and a courteous agent.

EDWARD WEBB.

This popular and talented tenor singer, whose portrait forms THE CLIPPER'S frontispiece this week, is a native of London, Eng., and is now in his twenty-sixth year. In his youth, "Teddy," as he is familiarly called, had a splendid soprano voice, and was a favorite solo boy at the Italian Cathedral and subsequently at St. Andrew's, both prominent London churches. Mr. Webb made his first appearance on the stage at the age of ten years, playing the part of John Gilpin Jr., in the pantomime of "Dick Whittington," at Sanger's Theatre, London. He studied music under Sig. Edoardo Barri, and came to America about a half a dozen years ago with D'Oyly Carte's opera forces. For two years he he was leading tenor of Trinity Chapel, in New York City. He afterwards joined J. C. Duff's Opera Co., and played the roles of Sindulpo in "Gasparone" and Lord Tolloler in "Iolanthe." He then signed for two years as leading tenor with Edward E. Rice's Co., and achieved a notable success for his excellent interpretation of the role of Petit Pierre in "The Pearl of Pekin." His next hit was scored as Ensign Toddles in "Ship Ahoy!" under the management of J. M. Hill. Last season Mr. Webb was especially engaged to create the tenor role in "Fleurette" at the Standard Theatre, this city. He has just returned to town from New Orleans, La., where he had been filling a special six weeks' engagement with the Arion Opera Co. at Greenwall's Grand Opera House. Mr. Webb has sung in nearly half a hundred operas. Besides possessing a fine, cultivated voice, wonderful in range and exceptionally sweet in tone, he has considerable dramatic ability, and is a capital musician. In fact, as an actor he is 'way ahead of the average comic opera singer. Mr. Webb's attractive personality has helped him no little in securing high histrionic honors. He has a good physique, remarkably handsome, clear cut features, and is graceful and courtly in bearing. He has appeared in nearly every city of importance in this country and Canada, and his admirers are legion. Prior to visiting America, Mr. Webb was wedded to Dora Percival, a pretty and accomplished contralto singer, who also made her American debut under the direction of D'Oyly Carte.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington.—The Carleton Opera Co., at Albaugh's Grand Opera House, rendered "Fra Diavolo" June 20-25 to fair business, making the eighth week of Summer opera at this house. "Erminie" 27-July 2. They have in preparation a new opera by Mr. Goold, a Washingtonian, which will probably be produced at an early date..... The only other chance we have for amusement, as all our other houses are closed, is at Riverview, a delightful resort on the Potomac, a short distance by boat from the city, where Little Dot Zeno makes a daily balloon ascension and a parachute jump. Pain's fireworks are promised week of July 4-9. Grant Parish is the amusement manager of this place ..... Fred G. Berger, Sol Smith Russell's manager, has been added to the theatrical colony of the Capital City, having purchased a valuable piece of real estate upon which he intends building, and will make it his home between seasons. Among others in the colony we have Robert Downing, Manager David Towers, Charles B. Hanford and Annie Lewis. Lotta Crabtree owns considerable property here, and Neil Burgess is a prospective purchaser ..... Robert Downing advertises his horses, carriages and farm live stock for sale, with the announcement that his theatrical engagements will render it necessary for him to be absent for the next two years.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City.—At the Salt Lake Theatre, "Natural Gas" drew fairly well June 13-15, Richard Mansfield 21-22, Haverly's Minstrels 23. Reed and Collier 27, 28, "Lost Paradise" 29-July 1.

WONDERLAND.—Curio hall: Herbert Albini, Nellie McGuire and Fred Rontey. Theatorium: The California Opera Co., under the skillful management of Burton Stanley, continues in public favor. Rose Southern is a favorite.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—The people: Oatley Sisters, Durell Bros., Jennie Kimball, Stanley and Mason, Pearl Ardine, Murray and Gray.

VARIETY & MINSTRELSY

"The Season of 1891-2."

I came from "The Old Homestead" the city to view,
But stopped at "The Country Circus" one day or two;
I traveled "Incog.," for, strange as it seems,
My very best dress was a suit of "Blue Jeans."
"The Grey Mare" brought me safely to town,
With a fresh "English Rose" pinned on my gown.
"The City Directory" was the first thing in mind,
For "Reilly and the 400" I surely must find.
"The American Minister" I think did his best.
We took "A Trip to Chinatown" along with the rest;
But "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" were so much afraid,
That "Col. Carter of Cartersville," with the aid of a maid,
Had to light "A Parlor Match" every time we turned 'round,
For fear we would fall in "A Hole in the Ground."
"A Night at the Circus" was such "A Jolly Surprise,"
For there was "The Lion Tamer" from "The Lost Paradise,"
And "The Waifs of New York," sliding down "Grimes" Cellar Door,"
But they got "A Straight Tip" to do so no more.
We went "Across the Potomac" to "The Charity Ball,"
And there we met "Evangeline," "Niobe" and all
Of the "Friends" that we knew in "The Struggle of Life"—
Even "A Child of Fortune" and "A Husband and Wife."
"Wang" was there, too, with "Jupiter" so witty,
Who told all about the "Dangers of a Great City."
"The Last of the Hogans" we did try to save,
But he was determined to become "The White Slave."
Our last night in town was truly quite jolly,
We went with the Night Owls in search of French Folly,
And tired and frightened by the "Spooks" of the night,
The light of "The Harvest Moon" was a most welcome sight.

* * * * * * *

In the season of eighteen hundred and ninety-one two,
All these plays passed before my view,
I enjoyed them all. Some were sad, some chipper.
For all this pleasure I'm in debt to THE CLIPPER.

A NEW CANDIDATE for first place in the vaudeville field the coming season will be the Marie Sanger Royal Burlesque and Specialty Co., new being organized by Cooper & Little, who, by the way, have had experience enough in the specialty line to know just about what the average variety patron wants. The company will appear in week stands only, most of the season of forty-two weeks being filled in the best houses. A big olio will be featured, and it is promised a very novel one. The Four Vivids, a European dancing novelty, and the Three Barketts, consisting of a gentleman and two ladies, rifle and pistol experts, will be another importation. Nettie Von Bieg, the well known burlesque actress, will have the principal boys' parts assigned her, supported by Maggie Crollius in principal girl parts—certainly a strong pair of leaders. A new musical burlesque and comedietta will be presented. Every stitch of wardrobe will be furnished by the management, and will be of the handsomest and costliest description. The season will open early in September, at the People's Theatre, Milwaukee. From there the company come East, opening in New York in October.

NELSONIA is in town this week, having completed his three years' tour of the Western Hemisphere. He is at Koster & Bial's.

THE LA PAGE SISTERS, Ada and Viola, will hereafter be known as the Sisters Orlando.

BEN WAKELEE, of the Two Wakelees (Ben and Millie), has been very ill for the past eight weeks, at Buffalo, N. Y., but is somewhat better at present, and his wife has strong hopes of his recovery.

MILDRED AND HARRY ROUCLERE leave for Havana next week. They return in time to sail for England the latter part of August.

JULIA REDMOND, soubrette, is resting at Peak's Island, Portland Harbor, Me. She has had several good offers for next season.

AL. HAYNES will manage Greenwood Garden, Peak's Island, Me., this Summer.

PEARL LIVINGSTON will join hands with Lillian Ackermann next season in a singing and dancing turn.

ON June 18, in the Superior Court, San Francisco, an absolute divorce was granted to Kate Silbon, of the well known Silbon Family, from William James, professionally known as Billy Rollins.

THE following people are working this week at the Casino Theatre, Columbus, O.: The Austins, the Wilsons, the Wirettas, Billy Lyons and the Wallace Sisters, Hattie and Grace, who have been re-engaged for four weeks.

J. BRINNAN'S SENATE THEATRE, Marietta, Wis., was opened May 22 last. Staff: J. Brinnan, proprietor and manager; Jake Bradley, leader of orchestra; H. Heising, pianist; Lou A. Parker, stage manager. People for this week: Wm. Maloney, Billy Curtis, Prof. Mason, Wm. Madden. Lou Parker is on the sick list.

A SCENE not billed was provided for the edification of Koster & Bial's patrons night of June 24. During the performance of the burlesque "Pocahontas," Jennie Joyce, leading lady of the company, playfully plucked the big wig off the head of Harry Le Clair, the impersonator of Lula, and pushed him with great force against James T. Kelly, the comedian, who played Dr. O'Callahan. Mr. Kelly was taken unawares, and was precipitated head first among the performers in the orchestra. There was considerable excitement until it was discovered that Mr. Kelly was not seriously hurt.

AT the West End, Brighton Beach, Coney Island, the people this week are: Samson, McBride and Goodrich, Nellie Hesse, Arno and Veazey, Rosa Fully, Joe Natus, Ella Kirchner, and Siegfried. Last week: May Wentworth, the De Acos, Sparrow, Davenport Bros., Fraull Gay.

ADMIRAL DOT AND MABLE GLADIS, the well known midgets, will soon wed in this city.

J. W. BINGHAM informs us that he contemplates putting out Bingham's Novelty Co., to be made up of his family and a clever musician.

BINNS AND BURNS are enjoying themselves at Bay Ridge.

AT the New Park Theatre, Great Falls, Mon., up to June 25, were these performers: Lovell Sisters, Ollie Sulter, Georgie Comstock, Walter Le Ray, Joe Creamer, Caprice, Wm. De Vere, Florence Clayton, Florence Peasnall, Virgie Videll, M. L. De Forest, Mollie Thompson, Wm. Malan and Christy and Brown.

F. R. BLITZ AND WIFE are summering at Seaside Station, Rockaway, L. I.

THE SCHRODE BROS. are putting in a few weeks for M. S. Robinson at Ontario Beach, N. Y., before they start with Pain.

CLAYTE E. WHITE was at Keith's Bijou, Boston, last week. After filling an engagement at the Palace Theatre week of July 4, he will rest for the Summer.

BERT LESLIE, the comedian, was married to Minnie Plumley at Chicago, June 17.

BASSETT AND SCOTT, have closed a twenty-seven weeks' tour with the Custer Novelty Co., and are playing dates.

PROF. CHAS. F. AND ORLAN W. RHENTELL, illusionists and magicians, have joined hands with Lillian Arno, the soubrette, and they will hereafter be known as the Three Rhentells. They have closed season, and are at Grand Rapids, Mich, reconstructing and remodeling their acts.

HEATH AND DE ROSSETT closed with the National Circus at Baltimore June 25, and will sail for Europe July 6.

MANAGER W. H. WALSH'S TROUPE OF GLASSBLOWERS have closed a season of forty weeks on the New England circuit.

MONROE AND MACK have closed with Tony Pastor's Co., and are resting at their homes at Philadelphia. They go with Weber & Fields' Co. next season.

LIVELY AND HOWARD, the burlesque boxers, go with Sweeney, Alvido, Gorman & Goetze's Minstrels.

THE TEXAS CHARLIE CO., while filling a short engagement at Doniphan, Mo., were entertained by L. B. Covell, former manager of the Kansas City Museum.

A ST. THOMAS, CAN., reader informs us, in answer to a request for information, that Little Dot is lying seriously ill in Grace Hospital, Detroit, Mich. It is feared that she will not recover.

TINEY CARR, of the Two Carrs, musical team, presented her husband, Tom Carr, with a fine boy baby, at St. Louis, June 20.

DELMORE AND WILSON closed their second season with Carncross' Minstrels, and are now on their way to California with Haverly's Mastodons. The boys are enjoying themselves immensely. On June 24 Wilson and Delmore had been together as a team twelve years. They have been engaged by Mr. Haverly for the Casino, Chicago, for 1892-3.

MILLER AND MACK have dissolved partnership.

THE following people have signed with McCabe & Young's Minstrels: D. W. McCabe, Billy Young, Gorton Collons, Will Burton, Johnny Green, J. M. Roberts, Don Marranna, Prof. Henderson, James Turner, Will Taylor, G. Burnes, Frank Young, Will Preston, J. Jefferson, Master Freddy Newman, Harry Singleton, George Jenkins, Willey A. Weston, John Berry, S. S. Santagga, Jas. Patrick, J. S. A. Dobbin, Carter Yumpkins. The company will consist of thirty people. It will open Aug. 10, at Cincinnati, O.

T. H. CHRISTAINER, of Christainer & Co.'s Minstrels, writes from Manchester, Eng., under date of June 14: "Our minstrel enterprise made an excellent start at the Comedy Theatre 13. Billy Buckley, Alf. Gibson, Dick Hume, John Callan, Henry Yorkey, James Carroll, Billy Hobbs and Ed. Trautman quickly established a popular verdict, and only want to get acclimated to make the hit of their lives. Times are very slack here, with fine Summer weather and outdoor attractions, and Parliamentary election pending. We shall have a few weeks lumpy water to weather, and then everybody says the light little ship will sail the ocean of popularity like a bird."

BILLY YEAGER, of Yeager and Clifton, eccentric colored comedians, is spending the Summer at Far Rockaway, L. I. They will do a new act next season, entitled "The Colored Aristocrats," which Mr. Yeager is now writing. They will play dates, opening Sept. 5. Mr. Clifton is spending the Summer at his home at Philadelphia.

FRANK MANNING AND MARK WOLLEY have not separated, as reported. They are still working together in a new act.

THESE people opened at the New Theatre Comique, Scranton, Pa.: Brady's Athletic and Vaudeville Co., Madden and Watson, Jennie Brady, Manning and Wolley, Eve Lamont and James and Jennie Brady.

RAMZA AND ARNO are filling an engagement at the Arena, Boston, this week.

THE GLEASON CHILDREN—Johnny and Bertha—have returned to their home, Cleveland, O., after a successful tour of twenty weeks. They are anxious to play the East, but fear Mr. Gerry's society.

ISIDORE WITMARK, of the well known music publishing firm of M. Witmark & Sons, writes an interesting letter from London, Eng. Mr. Witmark went to Europe in the interest of the firm. He has visited Paris and all the places of interest in that gay city and London. He says the American performers are all doing well.

CORA ERNEST has signed with Calder & Waldron to go with the Early Birds Burlesque Co.

CORA BECKWITH, swimmer, has been engaged as a special feature by Manager Chas. E. Cook, of Nahant Beach, to give exhibitions at the above place for the Summer.

STELLA MORTON is quite ill at Columbus, O. Her address is 748 Henry Street, and she would like to hear from her friends.

EDDIE EVANS, the club juggler, has signed as one of the features with Gorman Bros.' Minstrels for next season.

"FOY" requests us to state that he has signed to do premier ballet with Al. G. Field's Minstrels next season.

SIM WILLIAMS, stage manager for the past four years at the Eden Theatre, New Orleans, and Casino Theatre, Hot Springs, will sever his connection on July 1, as the Casino Theatre closes on that date. He will play dates for the remainder of the Summer season, opening at St. Louis July 4. He will also visit New York during the Summer to engage people for the opening of the Eden Theatre, New Orleans, and the Casino Theatre, Hot Springs.

WILL C. ZAEGER, musician, formerly with Cleveland's Minstrels, has signed for next season with Gormans' Minstrels.

JAMES J. FENTON, the boy baritone, has been engaged by Manager Sam T. Jack, for his Lilly Clay Co., for the coming season.

R. H. BROCK has formed a co-partnership for five years with the well known negro comedian, Frank H. White, for the production of repertory farce comedy, under the firm name and title of White & Brock's Comedians.

FLYNN & SHERIDAN'S CITY SPORTS BURLESQUE Co. closed a prosperous thirty-five weeks' season at Worcester, Mass., June 22. They claim to have made money and met all their obligations when due. They are negotiating for several novelties for next season, about which they do not wish to speak at present. Mlle. Zittella and Chrissie Sheridan will be among the strong features next season, which opens in September.

THE people announced for week of June 27 at the People's Theatre, Ashtabula Harbor, O., are: The Sisters Daniels, McCarl and Daniels, Bessie Clarke, Hill and Edwards, Agnes Mitchell and the stock.

THE BISON CITY QUARTET have begun an all Summer engagement at Kissel's, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O. Charles Miller, first tenor, has closed with the quartet, and as a token of good fellowship was presented by his partners with a handsome silver headed cane. Frank Girard, late of Rice's "A Knotty Affair" Co., replaces Mr. Miller. The quartet have signed with Neil Burgess' "The County Fair" Co. for next season. Frank Girard, Ben Cook, Louis Miller and Lester Pike make up the quartet.

A TEAM of bright boys have been appearing at Miner's Eighth Avenue Theatre, this city, during the past week. Quinn and Forbes are their names, and their act is strong. The former is an expert harmonica player, and the latter as a dancer has never been excelled upon the stage of this theatre.

THIS week's people at the Buckingham Concert Hall, Hamilton, O.: Geo. F. Ames, Chas. Taylor, Nellie De Fay, Bertha May, Edna Earl, Mattie King, Clara Smith, Ben Potter and the Williams.

LEW BAKER has closed with Gorton's Minstrels, and will rest for a few weeks at Yellowstone Park before commencing a special engagement at the Theatre Comique, Spokane, Wash.

HERE'S a characteristic word or two from Ed. Kendall, dictated at Boston, Mass., to Paul Allen, "Mayor of the Ohio River:" "I am right in it. Thirty-two weeks booked and at cuckoo percentages everywhere. Placed a $4,500 order for printing 30 days ago. Prospects great for Kendall's Comedians. S. H. Cox, late of 'Old Jed Prouty' Co., says I am a 'corker' at booking, but the best of it is I never did such a thing before in all my experience. I'm going to have A show, and will feature the band. Of course, they play 'Wood Up.' My wife, Ruby Marion, is busy on wardrobe, principally her serpentine dress. I think she told me there were 3,247 yards in it, if I am not very much mistaken. Manager Austin says I have a winner, but perhaps he's wrong. I think I am O. K., for the only man that says I will go under is 'Jim' Randolph. He won't give me a reason for his opinion, except, as he says: 'Because you will.' That is the only satisfaction I can get out of him. We all hope for the best, however, and I think, like Grover, I'll get there."

MARIE VALERIE, late of Sam T. Jack's Creoles, is spending her vacation at Cleveland, O.

JAMES CARMANELLI, the musical knife grinder, closes his season at Detroit, Mich., week of June 27, and will spend the balance of the Summer at his home, Pittsburg, Pa.

"COLONEL" MATT GALLAGHER, of Gallagher and West, and James E. Black made their debut as a team June 15, at the Casino De Paris, Paris, Fr. The "Colonel" is quite pleased with the giddy French capital, and his act is said to go like wild fire.

JAMES RICHMOND, of Richmond and Glenroy, writes from London, Eng., in his usual breezy way, to wit: "We are enjoying ourselves immensely. Weather lovely. Americans here enough to elect Cleveland. Regards to friends."

W. M. SCHOOLEY, flutist, closes a twenty-four weeks' engagement July 8, at the Sterlingworth Inn Lakewood, N. Y. It is his third season at Lakewood. He has signed with Dockstader's Minstrels for the coming season.

GUS JENKINS, tenor, has joined the Royal Star Quartet. He will Summer at Bay Ridge, Md.

WM. F. GRAY, late of the Three Polka Dots, was divorced from his wife, a non-professional, June 14.

EMMA REDMOND, soubrette and vocalist, was divorced from her husband, Eddie Delaney, late of Campbell and Delaney, June 20.

THESE people are at the Novelty Theatre, Phœbus, Va., this week: Master Haney, Ada Haney, Charley Gilroy, Lillie Bartow, Edith Lamar, Mamie La Mar, Bessie Steele, Josie M. Russell, Billy Ryan and Jno. Sherman.

JACKSON AND JONES have closed with Whallen & Martell's Co. They have signed to play Kohl & Middleton's circuit, opening at the Olympic Theatre Chicago, July 4.

AT Bordwell's Opera House, Saginaw, Mich, week of June 27: The Three Dashington Bros., White and Wilkes, Lillie Hall, Delia Davis, Lizzie Strong, Dollie Robinson, Major Delmar, Frank Burns, Jennie Cramer and the stock.

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Doings.—Duiness marked the big town's theatricals all through the week which began uneventfully on June 20, and ended with equal quietude 25. The season is at its most torpid point, it would seem.....Few houses were open, and at nearly all of those music was the offering. The continued bills were "The Robber of the Rhine" at MINER'S NEW FIFTH AVENUE, "A Trip to Chinatown" at HOYT'S MADISON SQUARE, "Jupiter" at PALMER'S, "Robin Hood" at the GARDEN, "The Vice Admiral" at the CASINO and "Old Jed Prouty" at PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET. For "Jupiter's" fiftieth performance, night of 20, there was a souvenir, in the shape of a silver plated bell. The stage was decorated with ferns and plants, and the house was filled. Bessie Clayton, the dancer, has been added to the cast of "A Trip to Chinatown." The Bostonians closed a very successful six weeks' engagement at the Garden night of 25.....Variety held on tolerably well—under the commonwealth plan—at the LONDON and MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE and BOWERY THEATRES, while TONY PASTOR'S had its usual Summer support.....The Hebrew playgoers continued to patronize the THALIA and the EIGHTH STREET. .....The CASINO and MADISON SQUARE ROOF GARDENS, although they presented no novelties, were crowded nightly. Gilmore's Band continued to play in the MADISON SQUARE AMPHITHEATRE to small gatherings.....All the other theatres were in darkness.....The WINDSOR was occupied night of 20 for a boxing exhibition. On 25 the season closed with the production of "Shamus O'Brien." The performances, which began 21, were in aid of the strike of the granite cutters. Joseph Callahan interpreted the title role with efficiency. The minor parts were acceptably filled by Harry D. Clifton, Walter Horton, James Cooper, Frank Opperman, Robert Harold, Harry Darlington, Wm. Worthington, Wm Dale, Geo. Andrews, Edwin Cuny, Tessie Deagle, Josie Sisson and Emma Vance.

JUSTICE ANDREWS, in the Supreme Court Chambers, June 23, listened to the arguments of ex-Judge Dittenhoefer and Commodore Gerry in the case of Charlotte Ewer, the mother of "La Regaloncita," who recently danced at the Broadway Theatre. Mrs. Ewer was held by the police justice for trial in the Court of General Sessions, for allowing her daughter to appear on a stage in a theatrical performance. Mr. Gerry appeared for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in fact, although in the record he appears for the District Attorney. Mrs. Ewer was held in $500 bail, and her counsel immediately secured a writ of habeas corpus, upon which Mrs. Ewer was taken before the Supreme Court. Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer declares that the law which gives the authorities power to interfere with parents in the care of their children is unconstitutional. Mr. Gerry contends to the contrary. Judge Andrews took the papers and reserved his decision.

THEODORE THOMAS' pet violinist, August Zeiss, was in trouble before Judge Andrews, of the Supreme Court, June 24. His trouble surges around his marriage four years ago to Emma Schraitt. After two years the couple separated, Mrs. Zeiss going to live with her mother, Mrs. Louisa Schraitt. Zeiss went to his father. It is alleged that the separation was due to the cruel treatment of his wife by the violinist. He drank heavily, it was averred, and thrashed her often. He promised to pay Mrs. Schraitt $25 a month for his wife's board. Mr. Zeiss, however, owes his mother in law $723 for this purpose, and she is now suing him. A motion to serve defendant by publication with notice of the suit was granted. Mr. Zeiss is at Chicago. A suit for separation has also been instituted.

WORTH'S MUSEUM.—The week past, with its scorching hot weather, fully tested the judgment of the management in keeping open through the Summer solstice. As they appear to be satisfied with the box office returns, and attractions for all departments are already booked for each succeeding week, the policy of remaining open all Summer may now be considered an assured success. The museum features for this week in the way of transient attractions are Nickodemus Senoj, nondescript; Nayo, Guatamalian dwarf; Ghuliem Houssein, Persian wizard; Alice Raymond, banjoist and vocalist; Cordons, musician; Stephen Stephens, Punch and Judy; Yetsuma, Japanese fruit maker, and the entertaining and instructive lectures of Prof. Worth upon his special object of interest. The stage people are: Watson and Keenan, Lillian Granger, J. H. W. Byrne, and Bailey and Bailey.

MRS. KATE JEPSON'S suit to recover $350 from Robert Fulford was tried June 23 before Judge Bookstaver in the Court of Common Pleas. Mrs. Jepson was engaged to take an Irish character part in "The Deacon's Daughter," a play in which Mr. Fulford's wife, Annie Pixley, was the star. The engagement was for ten weeks at $35 a week. After two rehearsals, at which Mrs. Jepson merely read the lines, she was discharged.

THE GARDEN THEATRE is closed this week until night of June 30, when it will open for the first New York production of "Sinbad," by David Henderson's Co. An elaborate and smooth performance is confidently looked for, as rehears

"A TRIP TO CHINATOWN" will reach its 2569th performance at Hoyt's Madison Square night of July 8, when, of course, there will be a souvenir. Its run will close Aug. 6.

MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—The commonwealth plan is still in vogue here, and the business apparently suits those performers who prefer work to idleness. The houses on some occasions are quite fair. This week's bill includes several members of the Lester A. Williams "Me and Jack" Co. Myrtle Tressider, Paul Allen, Frankie Haines, John Marion, and Byron and Blanche are among the features of the bill.

"OLD JED PROUTY" is still an attractive and seasonable comedy at Proctor's. It is in its second month.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—Kenyon's Congress of Stars are booked for this week. Good sized houses witnessed the two performances on Monday, June 27. The Gilmores, in a society sketch, opened the olio, folowed by Joe Hardman, who now does a single blackface comedy act with much success. The Sheerans, clever singers and dancers, were greeted with applause. Emma Lee sang sweetly. The Mellinis, in "Black Art," mystified and amused. A. E. Burton's tenor singing was applauded. Ripley and Risbee in their act, introducing the serpentine dance, did not lack hearty endorsement. They gave place to Chas. Heywood, male prima donna. The Paynes, introducing several new acts and some good songs, appeared here for the first time in five years, and did well. The performance concluded with Kenyon's exhibition of head and hand balancing, mid loudly expressed approval. Next week, Whitley & Leonard's Show.

LONDON THEATRE.—With the fall of the mercury up went the box office receipts for the afternoon and evening performances Monday, June 27, and very good houses were drawn by the Henry Co., a well selected galaxy of vaudeville talent. Daly and Curdy, in songs and dances, were first on the list. Lillian Granger sang "Sligo" and several other songs with the usual effect. Cook and Clinton displayed their skill with their rifles and their graceful forms to advantage. Will West made a hit in his songs. Grapewine and Wilson did a novel act, introducing several changes of costume, and concluding with a performance on the swinging hoop by Mr. Grapewine, while Ella Wilson performed a very sinuous dance. Both were very well liked. Mlle. Texarkanass shuffled herself into the affections of every one present. She improves with every performance, and her dancing is now perfect. Baldwin and Daly, in their acrobatic act, work hard and accomplish some very difficult tricks. The De Witt Sisters sing well and play musical instruments with much skill. Chas. M. McDonald concluded the olio in his usual impressive manner to much applause. Ernest Roeber then met a New York wrestler, and the two furnished an interesting bout. For next week, McIntyre and Heath and some more good ones are announced.

JOSEPH SEAGRIST, who was buried Monday afternoon, June 27, from the residence of his nephew, F. W. Seagrist, at the Boulevard and One Hundred and Forty-first Street, was a well known ticket speculator, and for nearly thirty years was a conspicuous figure in front of the Academy of Music when grand opera was given. After the Metropolitan Opera House was built he transferred his field of operations to the uptown house, although never his allegiance. Although exceedingly quiet and unobtrusive in manner, Mr. Seagrist was so singular in appearance and so eccentric in dress that he attracted attention wherever he was. He was born in 1818, at No. 44 Leonard Street, opposite the Tombs. He was married in 1837, his wife living only one year after the marriage. He was a brother of ex-Alderman Seagrist, better known among politicians as "The Sage of Bloomingdale," who still survives him. Mr. Seagrist was a warm friend and admirer of Mme. Patti. Three years ago, when she left here for Europe, he bought, it is said, $3,000 worth of flowers, with which he had the deck of the steamer on which she sailed strewn, and her stateroom filled, saying he could well afford to give Patti the profits of one week's ticket sales when she sang. Although he made a fortune from his thirty years of ticket speculations, Mr. Seagrist left very little money.

AT THE Star Theatre, evening of June 28, Maurice Francis Egan's new play, "The Rosary," was acted by the male pupils of St. Brigid's School. Brother Ildraston, the director, prepared a choice programme in addition to the play.

HOYT & THOMAS introduced on Monday night, June 27, a new specialty in "A Trip to Chinatown." Four young women—Mollie Thompson, Ricca Allen, Cad Wilson and Madge Davenport—who have well earned reputations as graceful and high kickers, gave a dance entitled "The Widows' Dance." The four young women looked charming in black skirts and great black bonnets. They kicked up their heels and displayed an abundance of lace trimmed skirts, black silk hose and small slippers. The dancers were heartily encored, but when they sang "Ta-ra-ra" the result was disheartening.

THREE judgments obtained in the City Court against Parke Godwin as a director of the American Opera Co., by creditors of the company, were reversed June 27 by the General Term of the Court of Common Pleas, Judge Bischoff writing the opinions. The judgments were obtained under a statute imposing on a director liability for debts where a false report as to liabilities and assets has been filed. The American Opera Co. filed such a report in 1887. Judge Bischoff followed a ruling already made in the Supreme Court to the effect that to hold the director liable the debt must have been incurred subsequent to the filing of the report. The debts for which judgments were obtained against Mr. Godwin were incurred previous to the report.

IT is charged that none of the company which played in "Shamus O'Brien" at the Windsor last week received any salary for his or her work.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Although attraction after attraction and theatre after theatre have been bowled over by the prevailing cyclone of depression in things theatrical this house holds its own ably and unflinchingly. The programmes keep up to the mark, and the best favorites in the varieties are often bunched together with the most pleasing results. This week's bill is no exception to the rule. What better team could possibly be picked out to head a hot weather show than those tried and truly famous Dutch dialect comedians, Weber and Fields, who are without equals in their particular line. Their character essays seem never to grow stale. The quaint epigrams they voice with such a side splitting show of earnestness are always refreshing and laughable, while their biffs and bangs and slaps and swats would enthuse the most jaded playgoer. The "German Senators," as they are popularly termed, are surely always in order. Then, again, how delectably the moments pass when one is listening to the trained trilling of the topical songstress, Lottie Gilson, and the sweet and joyous warbling of dainty little Bonnie Thornton. Both are singers of the same school, and each has a large and loyal following. Besides this quartet of favorites the current programme employs such sterling and popular entertainers as the Julians in their highly agreeable and always interesting acrobatic specialty; Littlefield, a mimic of the first water, whose excellent travesties on men and women invariably call forth peals of praise; Theo, a pretty, stately woman and an accomplished musician; Elmer Ransom, a skilled prestidigitateur; C. W. Williams, a clever ventriloquist; Charles Jerome, a capital comedian, assisted by the charming soubrette, Julia Mackey, in a very amusing sketch, and the brilliant singer and dancer, Amy Swain, whose jubilee chants are beyond compare. Miss Swain, by the way, is a graduate of the John P. Hogan school of dancing, and her terpsichorean trips and skips are a positive revelation in their neatness and thorough execution.

AT THE MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, the attendance is about the same as last week, and there has been but little variation in the programme. Sig. Campanini, Ida Klein and Mlle. Bicard have been in the concert bills, and the same performers are on the roof garden. This week, the last of Gilmore's concerts, the programmes include several members of the Bostonians' troupe, Camille D'Arville, Flora Finlayson, Edwin Hoff and Eugene Cowles.

THE FOLLOWING are at the Mammoth Pavilion, One Hundred and Thirtieth Street and Third Avenue, this week: Felix and Clayton, Rosina, Edgar and Curran, Saunders and Burdell, Tom Carter, Daly and Devere, and Jerome. The entertainment closes with the farce, "Our Husbands." Next week, Dick Gorman, in "Conrad."

NEW YORK STATE.

Buffalo.—At the Star Theatre, the Harris, Britton & Dean Opera Co. began their second week June 27, singing "The Gondoliers." The opening week was highly successful.

MUSIC HALL.—The collapse of the Shackford Opera Co., which occurred 25, was not wholly unexpected. The management had been reported in financial straits for a month past, and the salaries of many of the people are said to be in arrears.

ROBINSON'S MUSEE-THEATRE.—This week: Marie Layton, Flossie La Blanche, Silver Bells Quartet, Kamochl, Yankee Moore, Julia Kelly and J. Marcus Doyle.

SHEA'S MUSIC HALL.—Week of 27: Peggy Pryde, Daly Sisters, Coulson Sisters, Harry La Rose, Allyn and Lingard, and William F. Denny.

THE first production of Pain's "Paris from Empire to Commune" occurs at the Driving Park July 2, under Meech Bros.' management.

Newburg.—We have very little to offer now days in the way of amusements, excepting now and then a local entertainment at the Academy of Music. In the meantime the house is being thoroughly renovated, preparatory to the coming season, which, judging from the extended list of attractions already booked, promises to be brisk and prosperous..... The Casino remains open, and reports excellent business, notwithstanding the evenings, at times, are rather warm for indoor amusements. The usual variety bill is given. Opening June 27: Jennie Linden, Clifford and Brunette, Rosa Willis, Lottie St. Clair, Jennie Devere, Rose Montague and the Electric Trio, introducing George Kidd. Joseph Broucher and Willy Kelly. Prof. Gus Vincent assumed charge last week as musical director, vice Prof. Frank Tripp who, owing to continuous illness was forced to withdraw..... Roll's, Wrigley's and Gerhart's Music Halls and Garden are all closed indefinitely, pending a decision of the courts as to their being licensed and run as amusement houses.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia.—The four local theatres that were open last week provided warm weather entertainment for crowds of grateful stay at homes. The week was uneventful, and the dramatic critic continues in the possession of a "snap" which excites the envy of his newspaper associates. His respite, however, will be brief, for the Summer season will be short and sweet. Managers are already busying themselves with thoughts of the coming campaign, which will be upon us almost before we know it.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—An interesting feature of this week's bill is the presentation on the same evening of both of Mascagni's operas, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "L'Amico Fritz," with their original American casts, save in a few minor instances. This event occurs June 29, and will be repeated July 1. "Ernani" opened the week and "Lucia" was given 28 for the first time this season. "The Daughter of the Regiment" and "Carmen" complete the repertory. "La Juive" is underscored for next week. The class and quality of the attendance at the Grand increases rather than diminishes as the season grows older. The audiences come from no particular district, but from every section of the city and from numerous suburban towns. Opera parties from places fifty miles distant are not rare, and this is sufficient proof of the fame of the performances.

PARK THEATRE.—"Erminie" was revived 27 with Fay Templeton as Javotte. William Blaisdell is specially engaged to do Ravenna's. "The Grand Duchess" was brilliantly presented to large audiences last week.

BIJOU.—Here the theatre goer takes no account of seasons. All he knows is that in Summer the house is cooler than in Winter. He is confident in anticipation of a great bill, solid comfort and a good time. And no one wonders that the house is always crowded. In this week's bill are: May Adams, Bijou Quartet, Fostell and Emmett, William Rowe, Morton and Coleman, Paddy Wish, Binns and Burns, Joseph W. Smith, Myles Morris, John and Harry Dillon, Clivette, Von Leer and Barton, Sam Dearin and Maud Huth.

GIRARD AVENUE THEATRE.—"Our Boarding House" was staged 27 by Manager Holland. "A Mint of Money" excited the admiration of fair audiences last week, July 4, "Three of a Kind."

PAWNEE BILL'S WILD WEST.—Pawnee Bill and his people will swoop down on Forepaugh Park July 2, there to remain for an indefinite period. The colony includes May Lillie, Mustang Walter, Deadwood Dick, Don Ze Anno and many others. Performances will be given every afternoon and evening.

ARCH STREET THEATRE.—Under the management of William J. Gilmore, this famous old theatre will open its season Aug. 27 with the Howard Athenæum Co. It is Manager Gilmore's intention to give during the coming season a number of weeks of melodrama, farce comedy and spectacular performances. Only the lighter class of vaudeville attractions will be presented.

NOTES.—Manager John G. Jermon, of the Kensington and Lyceum Theatres, is taking his ease at Atlantic City.....William H. Voltz, press agent of the People's Theatre and Ninth and Arch Museum, has been seriously ill, but is now convalescing and on the road to recovery. He is resting at Atlantic City.....An asbestos curtain is being put in the National Theatre..... A baseball match will be played July 1 between members of the Park Theatre Opera Bouffe Co. and the attaches of the house.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston.—At such of our regular theatres as are still open, there is really very little novelty or importance in the amusement line since the Summer season set in so vigorously. At the Boston Museum June 27, Chas. Klein's "By Proxy" had its first presentation in this city. The comedy is said to be neat, bright and clean in its construction, and will be fittingly staged by Manager Field. It will be presented by Chas. H. Mathews' Co., the cast being as follows: Redfield Winters, A. S. Lipman; Hon. Percy Medwyn, Stanislaus Stange; John Bennett, Harry Brown; Lord Clanmorgan, Lionel Bland; Dr. Paxton, J. S. Maffitt Jr.; Stokes, John Wood; Johnson, Arthur Monell; Olga Claremont, Helen Russell; Josephine Bennett, Katherine Florence; Florence Paxton, Helen Lowell; Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. Mary Meyers. "Little Tippett" closed 25 a very fair run, which began 6.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The popularity of Edward Harrigan and his excellent company with Bostonians was never more fully demonstrated than during his present engagement at the beautiful Columbia, and it is a matter of sincere regret that the current week is the last of the talented actor's stay among us. As for "Reilly and the 400" I can write no words too warm in its commendation as a laughter provoking production. Besides the star, every other member of the company is deserving of unqualified approval, but that "tough girl," Kitty Lynch (Ida Lewis), and Emma Pollock, as Maggie Murphy, have just "caught the town," while Mrs. Annie Yeamans, as Mary Ann Dooley, gives a spirited and unexcelled interpretation of her assigned role. The season at the house will close with the Harrigan engagement, July 2.

GLOBE THEATRE.—Popular Henry E. Dixey had an excellent fortnight's business with "Iolanthe," which had its final presentation evening of 25. This week he revives "The Mascot," which has had constant and careful rehearsals, and will be presented with every stage adjunct and a cast which, I feel warranted in saying, will ensure a perfect production of this favorite light opera. Right here may be noted the fact the popularity of this operatic emanation from Audran's pen has never waned since it had its first American performance at the Gaiety Theatre in April, 1881, now Manager B. F. Keith's Gaiety and Bijou. Appended is the cast in full: Lorenzo XVII. H. E. Dixey; Bettina, Juliette Corden; Fiametta, Yolande Wallace; Frederick, Kate Uart; Pippo, J. C. Pearce; Rocco, W. W. Allen; Serg't Parafante, Phillip Greeley; Matheo, E. H. Aiken; Francesca, Sophie Brahan; Paola, Louise Osborne; Angelo, Maud Evelyn; Luigi, Edith Burbank; Guiseppe, Frank Herman.

GAIETY AND BIJOU.—During the recent very hot spell in this city the temperature in Manager Keith's house was admirably regulated, and the thousands who patronized this favorite resort enjoyed in thorough comfort a fine vaudeville and specialty bill. Another extremely acceptable feature is the distribution of handsome fans and pure, cold water in abundance to every patron, although really those latter attentions were hardly needed, so efficacious in producing a cool and constant current of air was the work of the huge fans driven by an electric motor in the rear of the house. This week Manager Keith adds two more of the same devices, which will be driven in the same manner, and used for the purpose of ventilating the balcony, and then the theatre will positively be the coolest one in Boston. The programme for the present week contains the names of three dozen stars in the vaudeville and specialty line, and that the show will be an excellent one it is safe to assume from the appended list: May Sears, who will begin her seventh week here with a fresh selections of popular ballads; McIntyre and Heath, Frank Moran, Bellac and Aouda, Burke, Forrest and McCart, Master Leon, Mendoza Sisters, Dixon and Lang, Leslie and Collins, James B. Macks, Ferancrys Sisters, Wesson and Walters, Fitzgibbon Family, Jessie K. Giles, the Rosalis, Charles K. French, Delmanning Bros., Maud Beverly, Willard and Hall, and McDonald and Franklin.

ARENA CONCERT GARDEN.—At this new amusement resort business has been driving since the place was opened, and Manager Thayer is being congratulated on all sides upon the well deserved success which has attended his latest enterprise. An entire change of bill is made this week. The Robbers of the Rhin-o" (a burlesque on "Erminie") being presented for the first time, introducing Geo Marion, Geo. E. Melville (his first appearance here), Lillian Harper, Lillie Allston, Kate Mayhew, Dorothy Chase, Josie Lafontaine, Collin Varry, John Reynolds, Bernard Riley and a chorus of thirty. Supplementing the burlesque a vaudeville entertainment will be presented, in which appear the La Porte Sisters, Ramza and Arno, Matthews and Bulger, Minnie and Maggie Devere, and T. A. Devere, the show closing with "Flick and Flock." An excellent class of people patronize the garden.

PALACE THEATRE.—"Beacon Lights" is the strong card at the Palace this week, and Press Agent Paul West informs me that it will be produced with new scenery, elaborate costumes, a large auxiliary force of "supers," and an excellent company, all of whom are well and favorably known in Boston. Manager Geo. Millbank has spared neither time, labor nor expense to insure a perfect production of the drama, and George always makes out to "get there with both feet." In the olio entertainment are Prof. Frederick and Lulu Martines, Laura Bennett, John F. Reynolds, the Sisters Delphine, Frank Diamond, Harry Lewis, the Fish Trio, Denny Gallagher, Mart Stevens, Nellie Burt and others.

WORLD'S THEATRE.—This house closed after the performance evening of 25, and during the recess extensive alterations and improvements will be made in the entire establishment. Genial Abe Spitz will be the right man in the right place as manager of what will virtually be a new theatre.

GRAND MUSEUM.—The farewell engagement of the favorite actress, Katherine Rober, begins at Manager Lothrop's house 27, when will be presented "Esmeralda," with special new scenery and stage settings, and the following cast: Esmeralda, Katherine Rober; Old Rogers, Chas. Burnham; Dave Hardy, J. C. Fenton; Esterbrook, Richard Lyle; Jack Desmond, John Phillips; Marquis de Montessin, Chas. K. Harris; Geo. Drew, W. C. Richardson; Servant, Geo. Williams; Esmeralda, Katherine Rober; Lydia Ann Rogers, Hattie Morris; Nora Desmond, Frankie Bell; Kate Desmond, May Prindle. Following the drama the olio will be provided by "Spider" Sefton, Mr. and Mrs Sam Lucas, Healy and Costello, John W. Powers, Gussie Gill, John R. Hartz, Susie Howard and J. W. Wilkes, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hammond, J. C. Davy.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—The round dozen—or dozen of round—fat, fair females have proved such an attraction at Stone & Shaw's house that they have been retained for another week. It's no use talking, they are veritable "mountains of flesh," and great to gaze on, especially dainty Maud Muller, with her 672 pounds of adipose tissue, while Big Alice and Lydia Heath rank next with 650 and 624 pounds respectively, while the "fairy" of this bouquet of beauties, petite Dottie Dimple, only scales 490 pounds, poor thing! In the lecture hall also are Razoretta, who dines and supa on keen edged knives, razors and similar implements; Chittenden, with his curios from Alaska; Floretta, the beautiful Grecian maiden, and Prof. Codman's Punch and Judy show. The stage shows are given by Leonard & Flynn's All Star Comedy Co. and the "Avoy & Rogers Specialty" Co.

GENERAL GOSSIP.—Courteous Mart Hanley, Ed. Harrigan's manager, will enjoy in Europe soon a well earned vacation. It is rumored that he has sold his new play, "Irish Inspiration," to Joseph Murphy. Edward Harrigan will vacationize at his cottage on the borders of Schroon Lake, in the Adirondacks..... Manager William McAvoy, of the Grand Museum, will spend his vacation on his farm at Everett, Mass. The house will be closed during the month of July for a thorough overhauling, repairs and improvements from top to bottom.....Alex. Salvini will produce three American plays next season.....Clara Dayne will be a member of the Boston Museum Co next season. She is now resting with her mother at North Conway..... Annie M. Clarke will enjoy the summer season at Wiscasset, Me. She has recently been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mason at New Rochelle..... Manager Eugene Tompkins is still at Paris, booking special novelties for the productions of the big panto mime next season at the Boston Theatre and "The Black Crook" at the Academy of Music, New York..... Mananger Frank P. Stone, of Austin & Stone's Museum, is treating at Rangeley Lakes, and has gladdened the hearts of a number of his Boston friends with generous contributions of "speckled beauties." Jolly John C. Patrick, of Bristol's Equines, is with Frank, and there is not only fun beyond doubt, but death to the trout where the pair hold out..... Evelyn Campbell will be the guest of Mrs. Fred Sidney (Vida Croly) in July; also of Mollie Metcalf, at West Newton, during a portion of August and the remainder of that month she will visit her friends, Mrs. Homan and Olive Homan, at Hyde Park..... Austin & Stone's Museum will not close at all during the Summer.....Lowell Mason was in town last week, attending to some of his brother's business for next season..... Wm. Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry started 25 for California, where they will produce several plays during the Summer season. They will return in time for next season's business.....Dr. D. A. Collins and wife (nee Miriam O'Leary) have sailed for Europe..... Mrs. Geo. Millbank, wife of Manager Millbank, of the Palace, is enjoying a European trip..... Ida Fuller, who has had the advantage of the tuition and training of her sister, Loie Fuller, in the serpentine dance, will make her Boston debut in "Puritania" 27, and will present the beautiful special dance in act two of the opera..... The many friends of James S. Maffitt Jr. will be glad to welcome him in "By Proxy" at the Museum. Ten years ago Mr. Maffitt began his dramatic career as a member of Boston's celebrated stock company, and he returns to his old home in the important position of stage manager of Charles Mathews' organization. Mr. Maffitt's excellent work in "The Burglar" caused his transfer to "By Proxy."..... The lighting system of the Grand Opera will be changed next season. Instead of gas the incandescent electric light will furnish illumination, and handsome chandeliers will supplant those that have been in the house since its opening. The season will begin Aug. 13, and already several bookings have been made. F. F. Proctor, who will be the sole proprietor, intends making the house first class in every respect.....At the Columbia Friday evening, 24, a massive floral tribute was passed over the footlights to Edward Harrigan from a number of his Boston friends and admirers. It was an exact imitation of a barrel, the body being composed of white pinks, the hoops of red pinks, and the head of white pinks and red roses. On one head was the inscription: "Reilly and the 400." The piece is on exhibition in the lobby of the Columbia, where it will remain during the balance of Mr. Harrigan's engagement.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville.—At the Auditorium, Duff's Opera Co. produced "Paola" to large audiences last week. Week of June 27, "The Mikado" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be presented.

NEW GEM THEATRE.—The same people that appeared last week have been re-engaged for 27.

STANDARD THEATRE.—The same people in last week's bill hold over 27.

WILL A. MYERS, late manager of the Grand Central Theatre, has been engaged as manager of the Standard Theatre.

IOWA.

Des Moines.—At Foster's Opera House, the Isaac Payton Comedy Co. did a good business week of June 13. The Woolford-Sheridan Co. week of July 11..... The Grand Opera House is dark. The Woolford Sheridan Co. come July 4..... The Bijou and Wonderland Museum is dark for the Summer season.....Treasurer Millaird left June 24 for a few days at Kansas City.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta.—At De Give's, the Deshon Opera Co. did a good business June 20 and week. They close July 2..... At Edgewood Avenue Theatre, the MacCollin Opera Co. are drawing large crowds. The first two weeks of their engagement was quite a success. June 27 and week they present "Iolanthe."

WYOMING.

Cheyenne.—Richard Mansfield had a magnificent house June 27. Duncan Clark's Female Minstrels did a great business 25.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria.—At the Victoria Theatre, "Jane" came June 20, 21, Carroll Johnson, in "The Gossoon," 23, 24, "Blue Jeans" is due 28-30, Sam Jack's Creole Co. July 1, 2. A general rearrangement of the seating accommodations of this house, greatly to its improvement, has been effected, and Manager John Cort has completed his extensive alterations. The reopening was June 20..... The Imperial Theatre will be reopened shortly..... An endeavor is being made to obtain a charter for a lodge of Elks in this city. Should the promoters be successful, this will be the first lodge in Canada.

COLORADO.

Pueblo.—At the Grand, Haverly's Minstrels played to a fair house June 20. "Hoss and Hoss" is due 21, Richard Mansfield 24, and "The Two Old Cronies" 26.

WONDERLAND.—New attractions in the curio hall: The Lynch Children. Theatorium: "Passion's Slave," with Willis E. Akers, Marie Delano and Ella Bittner in the leading characters. Business is very good.

STANDARD.—The Hewlettes, Hughes and Sandford, May Smith, still retained. St. Leon, Maude Bruse, Jennie Paulain, hold over. The only feature this week is the sparring of two black pugilists, Kid Roberson and Geo. Thompson, each announced as a champion. Business is fair.

NOTES.—A variety entertainment is given every Sunday at Dissler Park by several performers at present idle in the city.....Prof. Frank La Van has given three very successful ascensions and parachute drops at Lake Minnegna under the management of the Pueblo Electric Street Car Railway, and the ascensions have proven the leading feature of that Summer resort.

Leadville.—Haverly's Minstrels played to good business June 21, at the Tabor Grand. Richard Mansfield 22, and "Hoss and Hoss" 23, had crowded houses. "Two Old Cronies" 30, July 1.

TEXAS.

Houston.—At the Palace Theatre, business excellent. Opened June 19: Nellie Cook, Fay Delmer and the Five Pardos. Retained: Chas. Gates, Frank Howard, Ella Conkling and Frank Lowe.....A suit was filed 21 in the District Court by Frank Martin, formerly a performer at the Palace Theatre, against John W. Bell, proprietor of the Palace, and his business manager, Charles Gates. He asks judgment for $6,000 for personal injuries received at the hands of Messrs. Bell and Gates on May 4, when they beat him so badly that he could not work, besides suffering bodily pain. This affray occurred at night in a lodging house occupied chiefly by girls employed by Mr. Bell, and where Mr. Martin, it is charged, was found underneath one of their beds, from whence he was ousted and received a thrashing for his indiscretion.

INDIANA.

Evansville.—Manager Graves has returned from Chicago with plans and specifications for the rebuilding of the People's Theatre, destroyed by fire Feb. 23, 1891. The theatre will occupy the ground floor of the old site and will have a seating capacity of one thousand six hundred divided as follows: Parquet and dress circle, 800; balcony, 400; gallery, 400. The stage will be 60ft. wide by 37ft. deep, with a height of 80ft. from floor to gridiron. Work will be commenced at once and completed by Nov. 1, when the house will be opened, playing the best shows at popular prices.

WORLD OF PLAYERS.

My Dudheen.

The greatest joy I ever had
Was smoking my dudheen;
I learned the habit when a lad,
Of smoking my dudheen.
I lay contented, after meals,
Upon the lounge—how good it feels!
A nameless languor o'er me steals,
While smoking my dudheen.

I watch the circling cloudlets rise,
While smoking my dudheen;
A vision comes unto mine eyes,
While smoking my dudheen.
An Autumn day—a cloudless sky—
A tender glance—a gentle sigh—
A lover's vow—a humid eye—
While smoking my dudheen.

A little home—a wife so true—
While smoking my dudheen;
With comfort just enough for two—
While smoking my dudheen.
Life seems a day-dream for the bride,
Whose joy and love warm blushes hide;
Her heart's her world—the world is wide,
While smoking my dudheen.

A lowly bed—a wasted form—
While smoking my dudheen,
Feebly battling life's fitful storm—
While smoking my dudheen.
The stream is swift, the waters cold;
And the eyes of the dying in their enfold
See the Gates Ajar—the City of Gold—
While smoking my dudheen.

The vision's passed. 'Twas years ago—
While smoking my dudheen;
We'll meet again in Heaven, I know—
While smoking my dudheen.
Until we meet my heart will prove
E'er constant to my one time love
Who roams with angels up above—
While I smoke my dudheen.

WILSON T. BENN.

— There is a movement on foot to form a National League of Stage Employes. Organizations of stage hands at New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, St. Louis, Chicago, Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, Columbus, Toledo, Detroit, Louisville and New Orleans have signified their intention of going into such a union. The convention will probably be held at Chicago in the near future. The Cincinnati union will be represented by Edward Kelley, who was stage manager of the Cincinnati Co. last season.

— Harry C. Dietz, comedian and vocalist, is, we hear, making a hit with Moore & Burgess' Minstrels, at London, Eng.

— The Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, the well known song writer, and composer of "Shall We Gather at the River?" was quietly married at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, this city, June 27, at 5 o'clock, to Mary L. Runyon, oldest daughter the late Judge Enos W. Runyon, of Plainfield, N. J. Dr. and Mrs. Lowry will leave for Europe 29. Dr. Lowry's first wife died two years ago.

— Jolly Marshall P. Wilder is having a fine time abroad this year, according to a recent letter from him. Two weeks ago he visited Mme. Patti at Craig-y-Nos Castle, South Wales. During his stay there, in fact on June 15, the diva gave an entertainment at her private theatre, in which Mr. Wilder took part, together with Patti and a dozen or more of her visitors.

— Dulce Durant who had arranged to star in J. S. Berger's new comedy drama, is at liberty, for the reason that she would not sign for five years, and Mr. Berger did not care to contract with her for a shorter period.

— Ada Godfrey will spend her Summer in the country.

— M. B. Leavitt has returned to the city.

— Lucie and Belle Dawson have signed with Dottie Pine for next season.

— Hugh Fay contemplates a trip to Scotland before opening his next season.

— L. Kabis, one of the founders of the Turnverein, Cheyenne, Wyo., and the acting manager of their handsome theatre, arrived in this city June 27.

— Melytha Adams, the prima donna, who attached the Shackford Opera Co., at Buffalo last week, has arrived in the city.

— H. W. Brinkley is Summering on his farm at Noroton, Ct., and spending his time, incidentally, on board his yacht, Stella.

— Will F. Phillips has been engaged as stage manager for Pearson's "Midnight Alarm" Co.

— Harry Askin has not severed his connection with the Digby Bell Opera Co., all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

—Harry Lacy is spending his Summer at New Haven, Ct. He will open his season about Sept. 1 in "The Planter's Wife," playing it until after the Presidential election, and then putting on "Jack Royal." It is quite likely that he will produce a new three act comedy before the season closes.

— "Larry the Lord" is the title of a new musical comedy which R. E. Graham will take out next season. He will try it at Asbury Park, N. J., about July 9, and, after a week on the road, will open at the Union Square Theatre, this city, 18.

— E. L. Snader is Summering at Clark's, O.

— Barton Hill is at his country home in Paradise Valley, Pa.

— Grace Huntington will be the leading lady for Mrs. Bernard-Beere.

— The new play by Bronson Howard which will be produced at Palmer's Theatre, this city, in November will be called "Aristocracy."

— Agnes Miller, for several seasons the clever ingenue of A. M. Palmer's Co., was engaged by Charles Frohman in London. She will make her first appearance with Charles Frohman's Comedians in W. H. Gillette's new comedy, "Settled Out of Court," at the Madison Square Theatre Aug. 8.

— Charles Frohman's "Gloriana" Co. will leave for the Pacific coast July 2 in a special car. The company will include Henrietta Crosman, who has completely recovered her health. The other principals in the company will be E. J. Henley, Fred. Bond, Edwin Stevens and May Robson. Mr. Stevens will appear in the interesting curtain raiser, "The Major's Appointment."

— Thomas McCarthy has signed to play leading comedy roles in support of Sadie Scanlan. Marcus Moriarty and W. D. Turner will share the old men parts.

— Edward P. Sullivan does not go with "The Oath" Co. next season. He has signed to support Louise Aydelle in "The Runaway Wife," commencing early in November. Mr. Sullivan will play a short season as stock star at the Standard Theatre, Philadelphia, during September and October.

— T. C. Howard, Edward P. Sullivan, Clarence Arper and Lorene Atwood (Mrs. Arper) have gone to Peak's Island, Me., for a two months' vacation.

— Fred Lotto sailed for Europe June 25. This is his first visit home in eighteen years.

— Loui Royce, of the Tivoli, San Francisco, Cal., arrived in town past week. She has signed with "The Tar and the Tartar" Co.

— Louise Aydelle has purchased the right to present "The Runaway Wife" from McKee Rankin, and her tour will be managed by George Campbell and Al. Riel, two members of the business department of the Barnum Show. Miss Aydelle has engaged Edward P. Sullivan for Mr. Rankin's former part of Arthur Eastman, and T. C. Howard will play the comedy character of the Doctor.

— Ethel Winthrop is with a stock company in Canada.

— Harry Hanscombe goes with Gertrude Andrews next season.

— Comedian William H. Crane will start on his annual yacht cruise June 29 on his new yacht, The Senator. The comedian will sail from Boston, and will make his first stop at New London, where he will witness the yacht races. From there he will go to Newport, which he will leave for Buzzard's Bay, where he will call on Jos. Jefferson. His next stopping place will be at Bar Harbor. Mr. Crane intends spending most of the Summer on the water.

— Mattie Aubrey has signed to play Roxey, the principal soubrette part, in E. D. Stair's "A Barrel of Money" Co. Matt Harrington will play the character part of Jim Rich, and will also manage the stage.

— The Rusco & Swift "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. closed a prosperous tour at Baraboo, Wis., June 20. The closing house was one of the largest of the season. The majority of the people went to Chicago after the performance. Manager W. L. Swift is busily engaged in arranging a Wild West Show.

— Percy Lindon, late of the Pavilion and Britannia Theatre, London, Eng., arrived in this country last week.

— Gus Williams' Co. closed at Duluth, Minn., June 18. Several members of the company remained at Chicago and others came to this city, arriving 21.

— Virginia Bray goes with Charles A. Gardner next season.

— E. T. Webber and wife go with "The Private Secretary."

— Andy Morris, the clown, has been re-engaged for M. B. Leavitt's "Spider and Fly" Co. for next season.

— Good companies are rapidly booking time at the Albany Theatre and the New Haven Opera House, where two performances will be given daily at popular prices. There will be a particularly strong boom at New Haven this year, as the New Haven Opera House has always played at regular prices in the past.

— Cornelius Mahoney, father of Mrs. M. E. Hanley, died at his home, Anomosa, Ia., June 16, aged seventy-two years.

— "The New York Managers Amusement Syndicate," a stock company incorporated under the laws of the State of Connecticut, with a capital of $50,000, is among the latest amusements. The object of the corporation is to do a general amusement business, buying and selling dramatic and musical compositions, and the production of meritorious plays. "The Planter's Daughter," a sensational melodrama, will be the first attraction the syndicate will offer.

— George M. Wood, the actor-manager, and husband of Marguerite St. John, is now superintendent of the Pulitzer Building, this city.

— Bernard Dyllyn is at Mount Clemens, Mich., a guest of Harry Kelly. He has signed with Brady's "Sport McAllister" Co. for next season, at the largest salary he has ever received during his theatrical career.

— Timothy Hayes, the president of, and one of the largest stockholders in, the new Fountain Square Theatre, Cincinnati, is a familiar daily figure "on 'Change," being a prominent member of the Cincinnati Board of Trade. Mr. Hayes is not only a very wealthy property owner and business man, but he is also gifted with that "go ahead" necessary to introduce modern improvements in the Queen City. He is well liked by all whose good fortune it is to come in contact with him, either socially or in business. Mr. Hayes never does anything by halves. His theory is that "the best is none too good," which in itself means volumes for the future of the theatre.

— The following people have been engaged for Beach & Mabin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co.: The Pierces, Tottie Playter, Ella Letcher, Harold Lockwood, James Hall, Thos. Finnigan, Alfred Davis, John F. Whitney and Clara Thornton Beach.

— Mrs. J. H. Wallick has retired to her home for the Summer.

— George Clarke will play the role of Prospero in "The Tempest," under the management of Aug. Daly. There is considerable speculation as to who will be the leading man of Mr. Daly's Co. next season, now that John Drew is to go a starring. George Alexander, of Henry Irving's Co., Herbert Gresham and George Clarke have been slated as the favored one at various times.

— Minnie M. Kisselle is lying dangerously ill with peritonitis at her home on Lexington Avenue, this city.

— The dramatic company that went to St. John for seven weeks, under T. D. Frawley's management, will close their engagement there July 2 and go to Halifax for two weeks. Emma Maddern Stevens returns to this city, and Mr. Frawley goes to San Francisco, Cal.

— "Little Tippett" is to lie on the shelf next season.

— Frederick Rella and Josephine Woodruff are resting at Pittsburg, Pa. Mr. Rella is suffering from a severe attack of nervous prostration, on account of which he was obliged to close Miss Woodruff's tour.

— Frank T. Graham, critic and biographer, was married to Alice Maud Beardsell, non professional, at Montreal, June 22.

— "Le Truc d'Arthur," the play from which "Gloriana" was adapted by James Mortimer, has been done into another English form by F. C. Phillips, author of "As in a Looking Glass." Mr. Phillips calls his version "Lady Paddington."

— Marcus Moriarty's play, "Irish Loyalty," has been purchased from its author, and will be sent on the road next season.

— Bella Vivian presented her husband, Wm. ("Yankee") Moore, with a fine girl baby June 27, at Buffalo, N. Y. Mother and child are doing nicely.

— The Silurian Opera Co. opened their season at Silurian Park, Waukesha, Wis., June 25 under very auspicious circumstances. "The Mikado" was the inaugural bill.

— Charles Popp, an ex-professional now residing at San Francisco, Cal., was presented by his wife with a bouncing boy baby June 11. The newcomer will be christened Waldo Whipple Popp.

— W. J. Chappelle, the energetic and well known advance representative of "The Limited Mail," is enjoying his vacation to the utmost at his home at Great Bend, Pa. Mr. Chappelle calls his home "Expense Account Cottage." He sends us an excellent photograph of it

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

JAMES F. JOYCE.—News of the death of James Joyce, at Washington, D. C., about six weeks ago, has just reached us. He was well and favorably known to members of the profession. He was born at Baltimore, Md. During the late war he was associated in that city with M. A. Kennedy in the recruiting office. He afterwards was clerk at the National Hotel, Washington, where he made many friends in the profession. He entered the show world as advance agent for Joseph Murphy, and was afterwards with Charles Erin Verner. He was very well known among the Washington amateurs.

JOHN GALLAGHER, who died of cancer of the tongue, June 21, at Philadelphia, was in his early life a member of the stock company at the Arch Street Theatre, and was one of the originators and the president of the Wheatley Dramatic Association of that city, at the time of his demise. He was known to the entire dramatic profession, and his pocketbook was open at all times to aid them. He was paying teller in the City Treasurer's office; had held many positions of trust in the Controller's, Sheriff's and Pension offices, and was appointed as Consul to Rio Janeiro, under President Garfield, but he did not accept the position. He was a brother in law of Charles E. Warburton, proprietor of The Evening Telegraph. He was buried June 23, when, although the funeral was to be of a private nature, many actors were present at the Church of the Mediator, Nineteenth and Lombard Streets. Among those present were Adam Everly, William H. Wallis, Frank G. Cotter, Daniel Farrow, Dan Reilly, Wm. Danvers, E. E. Huldsh, City Treasurer George McCreary and employes of that department, together with hundreds of others. The remains were interred in St. James the Less Cemetery. He was of a very genial disposition, and his many friends will hear with sincere regret of his demise.

B. F. STERETT, one of the oldest theatrical printers at San Francisco, died of asphyxiation by gas June 5. at his residence in that city. He was subject to nervous prostration, which is assigned as the cause of the accident. He owned a large establishment, and at one time had practically a monopoly of the show printing of the city. He gave up a large part of his business in that line a number of years ago, as previous to the advent of Al Hayman and M. B. Leavitt, money was hard to get and payments were slow and uncertain; but at the time of his death he had greatly rebuilt that portion of his business.

JULES CALLETT, a French gymnast, died at Paris, Fr., June 5. He had been practicing a new aerial act at the Gymnasium Christman, and sustained a bad fall in the net, breaking his back. He was taken to a hospital, and died the following day. He had been several years with the Mayol troupe of trapezists. He was going to start in a new act with two partners, under the name of Freres Erie, when the fatal accident happened. He was thirty-three years old.

LYDIA FOOTE, English actress, died May 30, at Broadstairs, Eng. Miss Foote was an artist of exquisite sensibility, who excelled in such parts a Esther Eccles and May Edwards. Owing to ill health, she had done little or nothing for quite a decade. Lydia Foote, whose real name was Legg was a niece of Mrs. Keeley. She made her debut on the town stage at the London Lyceum in April, 1852, in a child's part in "A Chain of Events." Trace of her doings is lost until November, when during 1864-66, at the old Olympic she appeared as Enid Gryffydd in "Hidden Hand," Miss Hargrave in "Settling Day," and Clara in "Frozen Deep." She became a member of the famous old Prince of Wales' Co., and in 1867 played Esther Eccles in the first run of "Caste." Subsequent engagements were: In 1868, at the Holborn, in "Blow for Blow," in 1869, at the Globe, as Minnie Vaughan in "Minnie, or Leonard's Love," and the heroine in "Progress;" in 1870, at the Holborn, in "The Odds" and "Jezebel;" in 1870, at the Prince of Wales', as Esther Eccles, "Caste" being revived, and later at the Gaiety as Mary Thornberry in "John Bull" (1872), at the Adelphi as Smike in "Nicholas Nickleby" (1875), and at the St. James as Anna in "Les Danisheffs" (1-76).

THOMAS T. DUFF died June 14, at Quincy, Ill., in his sixty-ninth year, after a long illness. Mr. Duff came from a family of actors, his mother, Mary Duff, being a distinguished woman of the stage. Mr. Duff was born at Boston, Dec. 27, 1823, but his childhood and youth were spent at Bellaire, Md. He early took to the stage, and in Shakespearian roles supported Edwin Forrest and the elder Booth. He made his first appearance on the stage at Pittsburg, Pa., in 1841. He was afterwards connected with the Walnut, Philadelphia, under E. A. Marshall's management, the Arch and the Chestnut Street Theatre, under W. E Burton His New York debut was made in August, 1848, as the Jibbenainosy, in "Nick of the Woods," at the Bowery. In 1850 he managed a theatre at Richmond, Va. Nearly forty years ago he managed a theatre at Keokuk, Ia., and from there went to Quincy, where in 1861-2-3 he managed a theatre. Here he gathered a strong stock company, taking part in plays himself upon occasion, but soon retired from management and acting and began the practice of law, in which he was very successful. From the time he settled at Quincy up until 1878 he occasionally appeared. His last appearance was in 1878, as Roderick Dhu, in "The Lady of the Lake." All through his life he taught dramatic elocution, thus theoretically maintaining a connection with the theatre. Mr. Duff was specially notable as a student of Shakespeare, every line of whose works it is said he could recite without error. He was also a great traveler, and had twice gone around the world. His fund of information was extensive, and he was a brilliant conversationalist and a man of courtly habit. His wife died at Chicago three years ago. Two children survive. Deceased was a zealous church member.

ALPHONSE LE DUC, the French music publisher, died recently at Paris, aged 49 years. He was the proprietor of the French edition of "Aida," and had done much towards encouraging the talent of young composers like Gabriel Pierne, Ernest Pessard, Hillemacher, etc.

EMILY RALF, music hall singer and comedienne, the daughter of Amelia Tedder and wife of Tony Griffin, died June 6, at Liverpool, Eng., aged twenty-five years.

GERTRUDE DAWES.—Mrs. Gertrude Campbell, known on the stage as Gertrude Dawes, an old time New York actress, died at her home, 113 Sixth Avenue, this city, June 22 and was buried 24 at Greenwood. Mrs. Campbell's maiden name was Briant, and she was born at Savannah, Ga., July 21, 1835. She made her debut at the National Theatre, Philadelphia, as one of the fairies in "The King of the Mist." She first appeared in New York at Barnum's Museum as a danseuse. She was afterward a great favorite at the old National, Chatham and Bowery Theatres, where she did fancy dances between the acts. Her first appearance as an actress was in 1852 as Catherine Kloper in "Lola Montez." In 1853 she played Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Bowery. Mrs Campbell was married in 1854 to Cornelius W. Campbell, a successful gold finder from California, and retired from the stage. Five children survive her, two of whom, Gertrude and Helen, are on the stage. Helen was known as Helen Russell in Wallack's Co.

HERBERT MILLWARD, A. M. Palmer's stage manager, has suffered a severe loss by the death of his father, Charles Millward, at London, Eng., June 7, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. The deceased had been an invalid for nearly twelve years. He was formerly one of the foremost lights in the theatrical and literary world of London He was the author of many pantomimes and a clever writer for several of the best known newspapers He was the only surviving life member of the celebrated Savage Club, being one of the original members Artemus Ward was buried from his house at London He was a gentleman of wide experience, great ability, a devoted father and loving husband. He will be greatly missed by all who ever had the pleasure of knowing him.

EFFIE NEWCOMB GOLDSMITH (wife of the well known performer, Walter Goldie) died at San Francisco June 8, aged twenty years. She was one of the three daughters of the late Bobby Newcombe, one of the best and neatest of minstrel comedians and dancers on the stage some twenty years ago, and inherited a good share of her father's talent.

MAX RADICKE pianist, died at Norfolk, Va., June 24 He was born at Berlin, Ger., and was about forty-four years of age He came to this country some fifteen years ago, and was chiefly engaged in variety theatres. He was connected with the Odeon Theatre at Baltimore, Md., until the close of the season in May, when he went to Norfolk to the Novelty Theatre. His body was transferred to Baltimore for interment. He leaves a widow and one child.

JOSEPH SEAGRIST'S death is referred to in our City news.

HOW A BOY MADE MONEY.—I notice what Mr. Wilson's son said about making money selling a corn husker. I would like to tell him how I made money with a plating machine. H. F. Delso & Co., Columbus, Ohio, sent me a fine machine for plating with gold, silver and nickel, for $5 all ready to commence work. I made $3.10 the first day, plating tableware and jewelry. $23 the first week. Anybody can make money in the plating business, because at every house they have some things to plate, and everybody is willing to help a boy along. You can plate right before the folks, and they like to see it, too. I sold three platers to three friends of mine at a profit of $5 apiece that was $15. I would advise any boy who wants to get along in the world to commence with the plating business. He can make money and help his folks at home along a little, too.—ED. BUTLER, in American Tribune.

PAWNEE BILL'S—A REAL WILD WEST SHOW.—For once in their lives, a good many people in New Haven can say they have seen real Indians, real cowboys, real Mexicans, real Texan burros, real broncho horses and real feats of horsemanship and shooting such as is only possible by the happy, reckless and good natured man of the plains. The Indian method of cremation of the dead, with the accompanying death dance, the scene of a stage attacked by Indians and the rescue, the wonderful shooting with the rifle by Miss May Lillie, a Western young woman, riding a horse at full gallop, the attack on an emigrant train by Mormons and Indians, all these and more, were received with hearty applause by a large and appreciative crowd. Pawnee Bill has not a circus, but a true Wild West show with not an objectionable feature in it—New Haven Daily Palladium, June 25.

THE NEWEST PLAYS.

"Side Tracked."

"Side Tracked," a four act comedy drama, was originally produced at Benton Harbor, Mich., April 25 last, under the management of Walters & Rawson. It is a new version of Dave McCord's "A New Tramp in Town," which was played by that actor in the far West several years ago, and was sold by him to the present owners. The story is well told, and the comedy element is original and strong. Miles Wellington, a mail agent on the E. and W. R. R., is in love with Sarah Reynolds, who, with her sister, Bessie, has charge of the lunch counter at a station on that line. James Montague, the superintendent of the road, has defrauded their father. In order to conceal his rascality, he determines to make Bessie his wife, and in the opening scene proposes marriage to her. She rejects him, and gives him to understand that she knows his true character. Stung by her taunts, he makes an attempt to silence her by force, but is stopped by Horatio Xerxes Booth, a tramp, who has entered the lunch room in search of a breakfast. Montague has succeeded in winning considerable money from John Reynolds, the father of Bessie and Sarah, at cards, and now determines to ruin him completely. With that end in view, he calls at the Reynolds' home, and proposes that they continue the game. Mr. Reynolds consents, but on examining the cards which Montague has brought, discovers that they are marked, and accuses him of cheating. A quarrel ensues, and in the struggle Montague stabs Reynolds to the heart, and escapes, as he believes, unseen. Wellington having been discharged through the machinations of Montague, determines to seek his fortunes in another part of the country, and calls to say good bye to his promised wife, Sarah. He discovers the murdered man, and in his excitement, picks up the dagger with which the deed was done. He calls for assistance, and Montague returns with an officer, points to the knife in his hand, and, upon his accusation, Wellington is arrested. Montague learns that Booth was in the house at the time of the murder, and, fearing that he may fasten the crime where it rightfully belongs, engages a detective to watch the depot, and, should Booth attempt to take a train for the scene of the trial, to arrest him on a trumped up charge. But the tramp learns their plans and conceals himself in a freight train until it starts, when he appears at the door of a box car, waving his hand to the baffled conspirators as the train disappears in the distance. The last act is in the court room, where Wellington is on trial for his life. The evidence against him, while entirely circumstantial, is very strong, and it seems that he must be convicted, when the tramp arrives from his box car ride, is placed upon the stand, and swears that he witnessed the murder from an adjoining room. Wellington is released, Montague is placed under arrest and all ends happily. Incidental to the action of the drama specialties are introduced by Walters and Llewellyn, Murphy and Mackin, Rawson, Frank Healey, German Comique and J. T. McEnary. The cast: Jule Walters, Horatio Zerxes Booth; James Montague, Harry Sheldon; Miles Wellington, James F. Mackin; John Reynolds, John A. Murphy; Officer McGinty, J. T. McEnary; Fritz Grabholt, Frank Healy; Frank Green, S. J. Rawson; Judge Snifkins, John Murphy; Detective Pike, James Mackin; Sarah Reynolds, Addie M. June; Louise Llewellyn, Bessie Reynolds.

"Between Men."

This new society drama was produced for the first time on any stage, at Music Hall, Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 7. The scene is laid at Montreal, Christmas eve and day, 1877. Agnes Proctor, rich and beautiful, is engaged to be married to Robert Blaylock, of New York. The wedding is to take place on the morrow, and the curtain rises on a sort of a family reunion on Christmas eve. Among the late arrivals is William Childs, president of a New York bank. He recognizes in the prospective groom a young man, formerly in the employ of his bank, who six years previously had disappeared, and, after his departure, it was found that the bank had been robbed of $11,000, and made the victim of a forged check. The groom to be was supposed to be the culprit, and Childs, believing him to be a thief and a forger, quietly gives him the alternative to leave Montreal before the wedding hour, or be humiliated with arrest. Robert neither declares his innocence or guilt, for the very good reason that his brother, the idol of a widowed mother, is the real thief, and Robert had compelled the brother to refund the stolen money, with interest, and then swore to his brother never to reveal the secret. Of course this discovery does not occur until the final act. In the first act Childs is just about to publicly accuse Blaylock, when the chimes of Notre Dame sound, announcing the birth of Christ, and from the cathedral nearby comes the chant of the "Adeste Fidelis." The guests in Agnes' home, bow their heads and instead of an accusation, Childs grasps the hand of the supposed thief and forger. In the second act Childs still hounds the young man; the wedding is postponed on the pretense of sickness on the part of the groom. Blaylock is brought before Agnes' father, and then accused by Childs. Richard Lee, Blaylock's friend, and groomsman to be, defends the accused. So does Paul Reynard, a veritable seadog; and herein comes a very nice bit of comedy. Blaylock still refuses to answer. Of course it remains for the last act to clear up this very complicated affair and make every one happy. In the meantime Richard Lee and Eugenia Beaumont meet. Richard belongs to the States and Eugenia to Canada, but she is not averse to annexation. Then there is another tangled up story. Edward Durant is making the life of Philip Proctor's wife, claiming her as a former sweetheart, and the mother of his illegitimate child. Edward is the real thief, and a very bad man after women. He threatens to separate Mr. and Mrs. Proctor, but just at the right time it develops that Mrs. Proctor had a twin sister, and it was she who sinned, and thus ends the drama. It is in reality a triple drama.

"The Duel in the Snow."

This pantomime, by Thos. S. Dare, is in one act and two scenes, suggested by M. Gerome's companion paintings, "The Challenge" and "The Duel After the Ball." It was first presented at the Palais Theatre, Paris, Fr., Sept. 15, 1882, and was afterwards performed in different Continental cities and at the Oxford, London. Its first American staging, previous to its revival at the Grand Opera House, Brooklyn, week of May 16 last, was at J. T. Maguire's benefit at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, in July, 1890, after five hours' rehearsal. Scene 1: Ballroom, dancing, stopped by appearance of Count Bainbouche, with whitened face and wig of clown, who insults Baron De Maufras by throwing glove in his face. Immediate change to scene 2: Forest, appearance of principals, seconds and umpire; preparations for duel with foils; burlesque fencing, with supposed funny business of slapping across the back with the foils; substitution of pistols for foils, with "business" of shooting before command; attempt of clown to gain courage by drinking from bottle abstracted from pocket of umpire, and chasing every one around by enough promiscuous shooting to stock a Western drama. Clown finally falls, believing himself shot, a consummation devoutly wished for by the audience. Countess Alexandrine appears, falls on body of clown and has a bracelet abstracted by resuscitated clown. Countess withdraws, and De Maufras takes the place of clown, who escapes. Reappearance of Countess, discovery of the deception and end of the scene in confusion. Cast of Brooklyn presentation; Count Bainbouche, Thos. S. Dare; Baron de Maufras, Henri Lynn; Doctor Rouband, Tom Browne; Mons. Denizet, Paul Barnes; Mons. Cabuche, Philip H. Ryley; Countess Alexandrine, Ada Dare.

"A Nutmeg Match."

William Haworth's comedy, "A Nutmeg Match," written for the starring tour of Annie Lewis, was originally acted at the Grand Opera House, St. Paul, Minn., June 6. Prior to the opening of the story, Jack Hartley, an uncle of the hero, William Hartley had eloped with the wife of Jem Saunders, the villain of the play, the guilty pair taking with them the baby girl of Saunders and his wife. Saunders starts in pursuit of the runaways, but they are killed in a railroad wreck, and the child is lost sight of. The story opens with an exterior view of the home of Bob Lucas, or Uncle Bob as he is called, in Connecticut. Cinders, a waif, whom he has adopted in her infancy, has grown to be seventeen years of age, but has been allowed to grow up thoroughly uncultivated and uneducated, her great friend and companion being George Washington Littlehales, a half grown booby, between whom and Cinders there exists a strong friendship. Jem Saunders, in the meantime, baffled in his attempt to wreak his vengeance on Jack Hartley, turns his attention to wrecking the lives of his brother and his family. To do this, he leads the niece of Jack Hartley, Grace, astray, thus breaking the hearts of her father and mother, both of whom die of grief, leaving Will Hartley, with the shadow of his sister's wrong doing on his life. Will Hartley returns home, after an absence of several years, having secured the contract to build a new dock at Huyler's Bond. He is warmly

Theatrical.

T. B., Philadelphia.—See the notice at the head of this column. A letter thus addressed will undoubtedly reach him in due season.

J. H. W., Chicago —1. We cannot say who are the "champions" in that line. There never has been a championship competition. The family you name are phenomenally clever, and that is as much as we care to say. When they appear here you will read all about them in THE CLIPPER. 2. Yes. 3. This query, too, we will not pass upon. It is entirely a matter of individual opinion, and we refrain from obtruding ours.

F. B. H., santa Fe.—You should advertise her in our columns. We cannot intercede with managers or agents in behalf of performers. That is clearly outside of our province.

E. H., Saginaw —1. Neither was adapted from a novel. 2. "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is by Bronson Howard. 3. The other play is by Hal Reid. 4. See the notice at the head of this column.

S. L. Portland —See answer to "F. B. H., Santa Fe."

"A B C," East Saginaw.—See the notice at the head of this column.

O'BRIEN, Chicago.—You might succeed in obtaining such position. Try an advertisement, setting forth your desire.

GEO. E. C., Watertown.—We do not recall its title at this moment. You had better write to one of the performers in question.

H. F.—See the notice at the head of this column.

MRS. A. M., Washington.—We have discovered no trace of her whereabouts. You will do well to advertise in our columns for information.

L. H., Chicago.—See "Deaths in the Profession," on another page.

J. W. D., Vandalia.—See the notice at the head of this column.

S. MCE., Pittsburg.—See the notice at the head of this column.

H. C., Joplin.—That play has never been published. If you will write to Lotta, no doubt she will put you on its track.

C. G., Lexington.—A full list of all fairs will be printed in our columns in a few weeks.

SUBSCRIBER, Carrollton.—See answer to "J. W. D., Vandalia."

"PANDORA."—1. "The Fast Family" was acted at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre Jan. 27, 1874. 2. "Love and Money" (first in America), at Wallack's Lyceum Nov. 7, 1863. 3. Answer in a later issue. 4. Write to Lotta, who produced it. 5, 6. Answer later

L. P. C., Chicago.—1. He has had only one daughter. 2 and 3. See Miscellaneous answers.

Baseball, Cricket, Etc.

J. C. Findlay.—The bet is a draw on account of the interference of the police.

J. M. P., Vicksburg.—It is the custom of some umpires to give the base runner the benefit of the doubt when it is a close play, although there is no rule to that effect. No answers by mail.

C. B. G., Syracuse.—Address A. G. Spalding & Bros., this city.

T. H., Chicago.—The bets are decided by the results of he four games then played, including the exhibition ontest.

J. D. P., Pittsburg.—Your decision was correct. The bet was decided by the result of the second game, which is considered the regularly scheduled contest.

W. R. W., Philadelphia.—Elevens representing Philadelphia and Chicago played for the championship of the United States Sept. 11 and 12, 1891, at Philadelphia, the home team then winning by an inning and 359 runs.

Cards.

E. R. K., Cleveland.—A was not in error He played his hand properly, and is entitled to the pot. The man who mixed the cards was the one at fault. The discards and the deck should remain untouched until the end of each round.

S. A., Albany —You must beat the lead if you can.

W. H. B., Buffalo.—You win.

GOLDSMITH, Salem.—He is out of it. The privilege of passing and coming in later belonged to the age man solely.

SUBSCRIBER, Newellton.—The order named is correct, with the exception of straights and straight flushes, which have no value unless an agreement to play them is made Custom places each in the position you outline, when they are recognized.

A. G., Long Island City.—You must make another and more explicit statement. You failed to state the number of points B needed to go out.

W. S., New Bedford.—C wins, his high so determining.

M. B. K., Kalispell.—A turned jack scores at once.

W. G. G., Hinton.—You are not compelled to expose your discarded card.

M. T., Cambridge.—1. The ten spot has no particular value. 2. No answers by mail or telegraph.

MERCHANTS' HOTEL, Toledo.—1. Sixes are high at poker dice, when no agreement to the contrary is specified. 2. No answers by mail or telegraph.

Ring.

D. F. K., Chester.—Cannot give you the weight of Charley Mitchell the evening he boxed John L. Sullivan at Madison Square Garden, this city, as his correct weight was not stated. He had no occasion to go to sale.

J. R., Newport.—We are not in that business. Write to John Wood, photogrpher, 208 Bowery, this city.

G. J. H.—John L. Sullivan broke the radius of his left arm during a glove contest with Patsy Cardiff, at Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 18, 1887.

PILGRIM.—1. Yankee Sullivan was found dead in a cell at San Francisco, Cal., May 31, 1856. 2. He did not.

W. D. C., Maynard.—John L. Sullivan was knocked down once only while engaged in either a regular ring contest or a glove fight. That was by Charley Mitchell, in their glove encounter at Madison Square Garden, this city. We believe he was knocked down during a setto with the late Jack Hogan at a sparring exhibition at Providence, R. I., before he had become generally know.

Miscellaneous.

C. M., Danbury.—The fastest mile ever ridden on a safety bicycle is 2m. 18s., by W. Windle. You will find the other particulars among the records in THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1892.

C. H. O., Lancaster.—Unless other stated conditions governed the competition, A takes the first prize and B and C either divide or shoot off for the second and third prizes. D and E have no claim on any prize.

SUBSCRIBER, Bowling Green.—We give it up. An answer would involve an expression of purely personal opinion. We don't care to put ours forward.

BINGHAM.—Of the many "guides" issued in recent years, not one has been complete or accurate. We cannot conscientiously recommend them.

J. F. M. S., Kansas City.—The wager would be off. There must be such action on the wager as both bettors contemplated.

A. J. H.—Letter has been claimed.

A. J. K.—The wager was valid. You lose.

W. S. T., St. Paul.—The wager is off. It is a case of six of one and a half dozen of the other.

G. L. M., Davenport.—A wins. Boles was not the candidate nominated by the convention. B could not rightfully claim the stakes on the quibble stated.

W. C. D., Wallace.—Automatic Phonograph Co., No. 44 Broad Street, this city.

J. B. H.—Write to the Hon. W. C. Whitney, this city.

J. W. D., Falouse.—We prefer not to express in this department an opinion as to the merits of any of the machines.

....Captain N. Money, the English crack wing shot, won the silver cup at the Overture handicap pigeon shoot at Hollywood Park, Long Branch, N. J., on June 28. There were seventeen contestants and the conditions were miss two birds and out. Money knocked over twenty-three straight, Henry Duryea taking second prize with twenty-two, while George Work took third with eighteen straight kills.

CHESS.

To Correspondents.

R. H. RICE.—You are welcomed to the chess editorial fraternity; thanks for the compliment. But unless you have more time than ordinary mortals, you will adopt the rule we all have—not to accept problems unless displayed on diagrams. The trouble and the risk of error are too great.

C. O. JACKSON.—There is a mate as announced in today's problem, but not as you propose. If, instead of "moves," Black plays 4..P to K B 5, the move you indicate does not mate. If you play that move, it costs three more to mate, we think.

EMIL KEMENY.—Please see suggestion below.

BLACKBURNE-LASKER.—The British lion has not only had his tail twisted, but pulled clean out by the roots. When the "greatest native born English player" doing his utmost cannot win one game out of ten, it looks very much as though the championship of "the three kingdoms" was to be held for at least one generation by a foreigner. The victory was a crusher, and requires no further comment. The final score was: Mr. B., 0; drawn, 4; Herr L., 6. This result has wonderfully cleared the view of the chess horizon. Now let the projected match, Tarrasch vs. Tchigorin, eventuate, and the winner play Lasker; then the winner will strike for the crown and sceptre so long held by King Steinitz. The victor in this match will, of course, be the champion of the world. If Tarrasch won't fight, the championship of all Europe now lies between Lasker and Tchigorin.

BRIEFLETS.—Our City Club has moved from its old home at 13½ Second Avenue to more elegant and commodious quarters at the Cafe Europa, 126, in the same avenue..... The N. Y. State Association has decided to hold its Summer outing tourney again at Skaneateles, the chess capital of the State. Great as the meeting was last year, it is positively decided to make this one still greater. For the officers of the N. Y. S. C. A. to decide upon a thing is to accomplish it, sure. A set match, Delmar vs. Hodges, has been provided The last, ninth, match, City of London vs. St. George's C. C., was won by the former, 9 to 4. Total score—drawn, 1; St. G., 2; C. of L. 6 matches. The Baltimore Sunday News adds the interesting note that, Bro. Pollock has twice fought at board No. 1 in the City's lines, beating Mr. Gattie in '88 and drawing with the Rev. Dr. Wayte in '87.

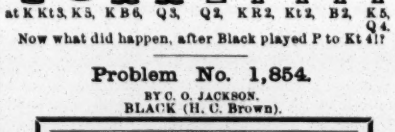
BY JACOB HALPERN.

We rarely give an ending in the following form, because we do not, generally, like the method; but here is a case of exceptional pith and interest. Under the caption, "Two Nice Endings," Bro. Pollock gives an ending from the recent team match, City Club, of New York, vs. Philadelphia "Juniors." Mr. Halpern for the former, Mr. Young for the latter. "Mr. Y. (White) is merely hanging on to the game on the Micawber system, and this position was formed:

at Q 2, Q B 6, K Kt, Q R sq, Q 8, K Kt 3, B 4, K 3, Q 4, Q Kt 2, Q R 3.



at K Kt 3, K 5, K B 6, Q 3, Q 2, K R 2, Kt 2, B 2, K 5, Q 4.

Latest Doings and Sayings of the Baseball Fraternity.

The Bristol nine visited Camden, N. J., June 22, and were defeated for the fifth time this season by the Camdens, the score being 9 to 2. The visitors did not score until the seventh inning. In the third inning the visitors had men on second and third bases, when Stephenson, seeing that Mahan was playing well off the base, ran to second unnoticed, put the runner out and returned the ball in time to complete a double play.

The New York Club has released Bassett, Fields and Murphy, and has signed J. J Doyle as catcher, recently released by the Cleveland Club.

Manager Chapman, of the Louisville Club, received a letter on June 22 from President Stuckey saying his resignation would be accepted. Chapman, however, has a contract with the Louisville Club as manager for 1892, and will bring suit to enforce said contract.

The St. Louis Club has released Catcher Bird.

The Orange Athletic team defeated the Montclair Athletic Club's team June 25, at Orange, N. J., by 5 to 4.

The Manhattan Athletic Club's team and the Oritani Field Club's nine played the first game of a series for a silk banner June 25, at Hackensack, N. J., the former team winning by a score of 7 to 2.

It required no fewer than fourteen innings to decide a game between the Knickerbocker and Westwood teams played June 25, at Closter, N. J., the former then winning by a score of 9 to 8.

Frank Foreman, one of the pitchers of the Washington Club, has been given a ten days' notice of his release by that club. Gastright was also given a notice of his release.

The championship games of the Brooklyn Amateur Association played June 25 at Prospect Park resulted as follow: Fulton, 10; Augustinian, 8. Fern, 8; Resolute, 0. Atlen, 22; Long Island, 12. Lincoln, 18; Oxford, 8.

It took ten innings to decide the game between the Roseville and Dauntless teams June 25, at Roseville, the former then winning by a score of 5 to 4.

The Chattanoogas defeated the New Orleans team June 13, at Chattanooga, by a score of 9 to 0. The visitors made only one safe hit off Baker's pitching.

Manager Harry Wright, of the Philadelphia Club, in a recent interview is quoted as saying: "After the injuries sustained by the national game during the last three years through revolts, it could scarcely be expected that the public would at once show the same enthusiastic spirit as in former years. The people are, however, studying more carefully now the position of the clubs, and the successful ones are commanding more attention as the season progresses. The people have to study the make up of the teams on account of the shake up of the players, and many of them have been dissatisfied with the release of some of their favorites. Others have been disappointed at the failure of their favorite club to take a good position, but as the season advances the crowds will increase, at least such is the indication from the way things have been going on so far. I do not share in the fear that some baseball lovers entertain that the twelve club league will have to be abandoned after this year. I don't think when the season ends that there will be so many of the last six clubs with percentages so small as to make them inferior to the others. The double season, I believe, will surprise most baseball patrons in this respect. For instance, there is St. Louis and Baltimore, both strong teams, but at present very low down in their percentages and occupying the last two positions. When the second season opens in the middle of July I expect to see them go up among the leaders, and some of the clubs that will occupy positions in the first divisions when the first season closes will likely drop into the second division, and thus things will be comparatively equalized. I am opposed to Sunday games, and do not expect to see them played in the East at any time. My opposition is based as much on business reasons as on moral scruples. I think, in towns where Sunday games are played, the week day games suffer, particularly those scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Monday. Many people who would attend on those days, I notice go to races or something else, knowing that a ball game will be provided for their amusement on Sunday. The regular attendance on Sunday does not make up for the falling off on week days."

President Gunnels, of the Toledo Club, of the Western League, says that his team will in the future play games on Sundays at Toledo, allowing the authorities to administer the Sunday law as they wished. The council voted to repeal the ordinance against playing recently, which leaves it with the Sheriff to serve warrants for breaking the State law. This cannot be done until Monday, allowing the games to be uninterrupted. The ministers' tirade against the press has resulted in all the city papers denouncing them, and the open Sunday law people have thereby practically won the battle.

The Pennsylvania State League championship games played last week resulted as follow: June 20, at Allentown, Allentown, 5; Altoona, 0. At Reading, Harrisburg, 7; Reading, 2. At Wilkesbarre, Wilkesbarre, 6; Danville, 0. June 21, at Allentown, Altoona, 6; Allentown, 4. At Danville, Danville, 11; Wilkesbarre 6. At Lebanon, Johnstown, 4; Lebanon, 2. At Reading, Reading, 6; Harrisburg, 4. June 22, at Lebanon, Harrisburg, 5; Lebanon, 4. June 23, at Allentown, Allentown, 2; Wilkesbarre, 1. At Danville, Johnstown, 9; Danville, 8 (ten innings). At Lebanon, Lebanon, 12; Altoona, 6. At Reading, Reading, 11; Harrisburg, 6. June 24, at Allentown, Wilkesbarre, 6; Allentown, 2. At Danville, Danville, 7; Johnstown, 3. At Lebanon Lebanon, 7; Altoona, 6. At Reading, Reading, 11; Harrisburg, 1. June 25, at Allentown, Allentown, 13; Wilkesbarre, 5. At Danville, Johnstown, 13; Danville. 12. At Lebanon, Altoona, 10; Lebanon, 9 (eighteen innings). At Reading, Harrisburg, 10; Reading, 3.

In Southern League championship games some curious features are noted, one on June 15, at Atlanta, being that the home team was beaten by the Memphis by a score of 5 to 3, although Atlanta made eight safe hits against five made by Memphis, and the Atlantas were shut out by the Mobiles June 16, at Atlanta, although they made five hits against three made by the Mobiles, who then scored four runs. The Montgomerys defeated the Chattanoogas June 16, at Chattanooga, by a score of 3 to 0. The victors made only four safe hits against eight made by the Chattanoogas.

Fred Peffer has finally succeeded in having himself appointed as manager and captain of the Louisville team. It remains to be seen whether he will be a success in either position.

P. J. Donovan, who was recently released by the Washington Club, has signed with the Pittsburg Club, of the same league.

The Cincinnati Club has released Duryea, one of its pitchers, and Burke, an outfielder.

A championship game between Williams and Amherst College teams, of the American College Association, was played June 21, at Williamstown, Mass., and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 4 to 2. It was the first victory scored by the Williams College team in the series, and they are now tied with the Amherst team for second place, each having won three and lost four games.

The Staten Island Athletic Club's nine defeated the Leontine team June 22, at Staten Island, by a score of 14 to 1. The latter made only three safe hits off the pitching of Clare and Van Zant, who alternated in the box for the victors.

The New Jersey Athletic team scored six runs off five safe hits June 22, at Bergen Point, N. J., against the three runs off nine safe hits made by the Brighton Athletic team, their opponents.

The Manhattan Athletic Club's team had the team from the College of New York for opponents June 22, at Manhattan Field, this city, the former then winning by a score of 15 to 3.

The Brown University team defeated the Princeton College nine June 22, at Providence, R. I., by a score of 5 to 2. The Princetons made only one safe hit off Sexton's pitching, and sixteen were retired on strikes. Young held the Brown team down to five scattering hits.

The Crescents defeated the Morristown Athletic Club's nine June 22, at Plainfield, N. J., by a score of 3 to 1. Powers pitched effectively for the winners, and was well supported behind the bat by Hofford, a well known professional.

The Westfield (N. J.) Club has signed Tom Esterbrook as third baseman, and Clare, who has also played professionally.

C. Mitchell, of Pittsburg, has been made an umpire on the staff of the National League and American Association.

The Buffalos succeeded in shutting out the Albanys June 22, at Buffalo, by a score of 7 to 0. The visitors failed to make a solitary safe hit so effective was Schlerman's pitching.

Manager Leonard, of the Binghamton Club, of the Eastern League, has been released.

A curious feature of the game in which the Evansvilles defeated the Quincys June 12, at Quincy, Ill., by a score of 3 to 2, was that the victors made only three safe hits against the eleven made by the home team. Another instance was afforded June 14, at Jacksonville, when the Jacksonvilles scored one run off five safe hits, and were then beaten by the Terre Hautes, who scored two runs off three safe hits.

The Rockfords defeated the Auroras June 14, at Rockford, by a score of 22 to 0, the latter making only one safe hit off G. Nicol.

President White, in speaking of the disbanding of the New Haven Club, of the Eastern League, says: "The whole loss of the stockholders by the venture, amounts to about $3,500. The capital stock of the company was $3,000, instead of $2,000, as stated. The liabilities of the company amount to $879.10. There is still to be raised among the stockholders $779.10, in order to meet the bills, which we hope to pay in full."

The game between the Toledo and Milwaukee Clubs, of the Western League, June 24, at Toledo, O., was interrupted in the first half of the fourth inning by a contest over a decision by Umpire Guenther. Guenther declared the game in favor of Milwaukee by a score of 9 to 0. The score up to that time was 1 to 0 in favor of Milwaukee.

It is said that the Lexington (Ky.) Club will join the Southern League after the first half of the championship season, taking the place of the Macon Club, which is not thought strong enough.

It has been announced that an amicable agreement has been reached by the Louisville Club with Manager Chapman. He will receive his salary, and hold himself subject to the orders of the directors. Pfeffer will be manager and captain during the remainder of the season.

President Young has announced that the directors of the National League and American Association have unanimously decided to set aside the decision of Umpire Lynch, in giving the game scheduled to be played May 21, at Cleveland, between the Cleveland and St. Louis Clubs, to the Cleveland Club. The St. Louis Club was delayed in reaching the grounds and the umpire declared the game forfeited. The game will now be played at a future date.

The Mobiles made six runs off five safe hits June 9, at Chattanooga, they then defeating the Chattanoogas, who scored four runs off twelve hits. On June 10, at same place, the Mobiles succeeded in shutting out the Chattanoogas by a score of 5 to 0, the former making seven safe hits on this occasion against eight for the Chattanoogas.

In speaking about the clubs of the New England League, Secretary Morse recently said: "The prospects for success were never better than this year. There is not a club that is not within the salary limit, and the clubs paying the highest salaries have not profited by it at all. The leading club, the Portlands, has a salary list of $855. The race is one of the best ever seen in New England. At the present writing the eighth club is only seven victories behind the the leaders, and the season is not half over. A good spurt would quickly bring this club among the first. Very few of the clubs are getting the support from their public that they ought to have. In Manchester, with the club winning and playing wonderful ball, the support of the public was anything but encouraging. It will be too bad if such an organization is allowed to leave that city, but I think there will not be the least difficulty in finding several clubs willing to take the Manchester franchise. It is not like a tailender leaving the race. The Pawtucket people tell me that they are in the fight to stay to the finish, and there is not the least doubt about any other club."

An Australian was recently interviewed in Chicago about our national game, concerning which he said: "Of course, as an outdoor athletic sport, in Australia cricket has the upper hand, because it is a longer established game there. When the American teams visited us three years ago our people did not take to it very readily, but now that they are beginning to understand the points of the game and to see its merits, the interest is rapidly increasing and baseball clubs are organizing in every city and town in the country. I suppose it will not be a great while before a league will be formed and it is my belief that one day, which is not very far distant, will see the national game of America the most popular game in Australia."

An intercolligiate championship game was played June 23, at Cambridge, between the Harvard and Yale College teams, and resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 5 to 0. Highlands held the Yale team down to one safe hit, a scratch triple bagger, by Case, after two men were out in the seventh inning. Bowers was safely batted by the Harvards ten times, including a triple bagger by Mason. No fewer than fifteen of the Yale nine were retired on strikes. Catcher Carter of the Yale team came into collision with Hallowell at the plate, while the latter was trying to score in the second inning, and Carter's nose was broken. He insisted on catching in the third inning, however, but then had to retire. Mason caught cleverly for Harvard, accepting all of sixteen chances, and he scored three of the five runs credited to his team.

Frank Dwyer, the pitcher, recently released by the St. Louis Club, of the National League and American Association has been signed by the Cincinnati Club, of the same league.

It required no fewer than thirteen innings to decide the championship contest between the Elmira and Providence teams, of

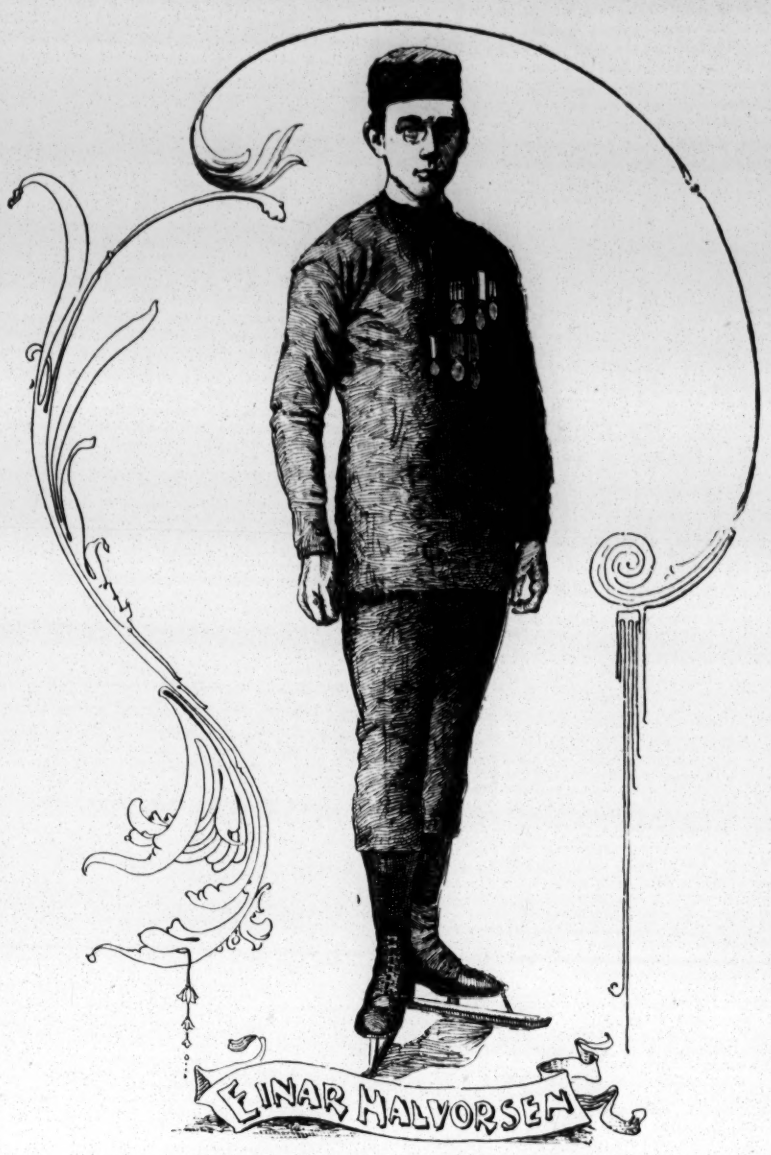
The Bloomsburg and Berwick team met June 25, at Scranton, Pa., the former then winning by a score of 6 to 0. Each team was credited with two safe hits. Shultz pitched for the former and Yerrick for the latter.

The Central New Jersey League games played June 25, resulted as follow: At Elizabeth, Y. M. C. A. team, 13; Westfield, 3. At Somerville, West End, 10; Crescent, 9.



We present above the counterfeit presentment of one of the most celebrated exponents of the art skatorial in all Europe, Einar Halvorsen, of Norway. During the past two Winters he has figured very prominently in the numerous skating tournaments which are held every season on the continent, and succeeded in capturing many valuable prizes from older and more experienced competitors. He was born at Hamar, Norway, twenty years ago, and in condition weighs about 120lb. His first appearance in a race was made at his native town in the Winter of 1889-1890, when he met with success, winning a handsome silver medal. The distance was one mile and seven furlongs, and his time was 6m. 31s. In the Winter of 1890-1891 he engaged in a half mile race at the same place, taking second prize, in 1m. 23⅗s. Last season he first appeared on the race course at Frondhjem, in a three mile race, in which he finished second, his time being 8m. 59⅘s. On Jan. 3, at Hamar, he had better luck, taking first prize, a gold medal, in a one mile race. Time, 2m. 53⅘s. On the same day he added a mile and a half race to his list of victories, his time for the journey being 4m. 24⅘s., which constitutes the fastest record. At the same place, on Feb. 28, he won three races, at 500 metres, 5,000 metres and one mile, his times, all breaking record, being 50⅗s, 9m. 10s., and 2m. 47⅗s., respectively. The prizes were gold medals. He also visited Stockholm, Sweden, during the Winter of 1890-1891, and won second prize in a one mile race, his time being 3m. 14⅗s., the ice being very poor. Last Winter he made another visit to the Swedish capital, where he swept the board, taking first prize in a race of 5,000 metres, the time for which was 9m. 56s. Before he was seventeen years of age he won several prizes for figure skating, but since that time he has devoted his leisure time and his energies to distance racing, striving always to improve upon the best time made by others in previous contests.

A Close Contest Between the Philadelphias and Brooklyns for Second Place in the Pennant Race.

Boston vs. Brooklyn.

The Brooklyns beat the Bostons for the third time June 21, at Boston, and thus evened up the victories in the series. Haddock held the home team down to one safe hit in the first five innings, and was only batted in the ninth, when three singles brought in two runs. Kelly batted the ball over the fence in the eighth inning, and, stopping a while on third, the ball was returned to Haddock, who touched him before he reached the plate, but the umpire refused to allow the out. Stovey gave way to Quinn after the sixth inning, and Lowe was shifted to left field. Stivetts prevented the Brooklyns from making more than six safe hits, five of which, however, were luckily bunched in successive innings, and yielded six runs and the victory. Corcoran excelled in fielding, accepting all of nine chances, including several splendid stops of seemingly safe hits.

The seventh and last game was played June 22, when the Bostons blanked the Brooklyns and scored the deciding victory of the series. The visitors were shut out, making only three scattering safe hits off Nichols, who was splendidly supported. Long had a lame arm and exchanged positions with Lowe. Wild pitching by Stein gave the home team their first four runs, two being forced in by bases on balls in the third inning. Two more runs were earned by timely batting by Tucker and Nash in the seventh and ninth innings. Kelly's catching was the fielding feature.

Washington vs. New York.

Two games were played for one admission June 21, at Washington, the home team then winning both. Killen kept the New Yorks from making more than six scattering safe hits in the first game. Rusie was batted hard the first two innings, six safe hits then yielding a like number of runs. Dowd led off with a triple bagger, and Hoy followed with a home run drive to centre. Rusie pitched effectively during the remainder of the contest, but the lead then secured could not be overcome by the visitors. An error by D. Richardson, followed by two bases on balls and two singles, helped the New Yorks to four runs in the second inning. Dowd did the best batting, making four safe hits, with a total of six bases.

The second game was more closely contested, the New Yorks holding the lead up to the ninth inning. King held the home team down to four safe hits, two of which were made in the ninth and brought in the winning run. Errors by O'Rourke and King et in the first two runs scored by the home team. H. Richardson made three of the five scattering safe hits credited to the New Yorks, and scored the two runs that saved them from being shut out. Robinson's third base play was the fielding feature.

The Washingtons won again June 22, when they secured sixth place in the championship race. Abbey pitched effectively until the fourth inning, when he hurt his hand trying to stop a batted ball. He gave way to Killen, who was hit hard, as was also Knell, who pitched during the remainder of the contest. The New Yorks bunched eight safe hits in the sixth and seventh innings. Crane was batted out of the box in the seventh inning, when the home team made six runs off five safe hits. Rusie was then substituted and the home team tied the score in the eighth inning, and batted out the winning runs in the tenth. Both teams batted hard and often, Radford leading with four safe hits that included a home run and a double bagger. Ewing did the best batting for the visitors, making a home run, triple and single.

Louisville vs. Pittsburg.

Two games for one admission were played June 21, at Louisville, each team then scoring a victory. Terry, late of the Brooklyn and Baltimore Clubs, made his first appearance with the visiting team in the opening game, when he pitched very effectively, especially when men were on bases. Jones also kept the hits well scattered, but he was poorly supported. Pfeffer reappeared with the home team in this game, while McFarland was shifted to right field. Miller made four successive safe hits, including a double bagger. Bauer accepted all of ten chances at second base.

Sanders pitched for the Louisville team for the first time this season in the second game, and he kept the few hits made by the visitors well scattered. Ehret reappeared with the Pittsburgs and his wild pitching proved costly, helping the home team to four of the five runs scored in the game. Mack hurt his hand in the fourth inning, and gave way to Burns who scored the only run credited to the visitors. Brown's outfielding and Weaver's batting were the chief features of this contest.

The seventh and last game was played June 22, when the Pittsburg scored their third victory of the series. Baldwin held the home team down to four safe hits, three of which were made in the eighth inning and yielded their only run. The Pittsburgs pounded Meakin freely in the first and eighth innings, five safe hits then bringing in four runs, three of which were earned. Weaver in the first inning stole second, Shugart dropping the ball, but the umpire, however, decided that he was out for knocking the ball out of Shugart's hand. The weather was very warm, causing a small attendance.

Chicago vs. Cincinnati.

The Cincinnatis scored the fifth consecutive victory of the series June 21, at Chicago, but only after an exciting struggle of no fewer than twelve innings. The visitors batted Hutchison freely, but their hits were scattering except in two innings. Three singles yielded one run in the first inning, and Browning made a double and Comiskey and Smith successive singles that sent in the winning run before a man was out in the last half of the twelfth. A double by Dungan and a single by Canavan in the ninth inning gave the home team their only run and tied the score. Chamberlain was very effective when men were on bases. Latham and Dahlen excelled in fielding.

Washington vs. Brooklyn.

The fifth game was played June 23, at Washington, the Brooklyns then scoring their fourth victory of the series. Haddock was batted freely in the first inning, when the home team bunched four singles and scored two earned runs. He, however, afterwards kept the hits so well scattered as to stop all run getting until the ninth inning, when Foreman drove the ball to the fence at left centre for a home run, it being the longest hit yet made on the local grounds. The Brooklyns batted Killen hard, knocking him out of the box in the sixth inning. Foreman was then substituted as pitcher and stopped further run getting. Ward and Brouthers each made four safe hits and led in batting, the former's including a triple and a double bagger. Joyce hit for a home run with two men on bases. The Brooklyns played perfectly in the field, Burns making several catches cutting off runs. A thunder storm delayed the commencement of the game.

Two games were played June 24 in order to complete the series, each team being credited with a victory by blanking their opponents. The Washingtons were shut out in the first game, making only three scattering safe hits off Stein. The Brooklyns batted Abbey hard and often, especially in the fifth and seventh innings, when they bunched ten safe hits and scored nine runs. Joyce and Brouthers each made a double and two singles and led in batting. Hoy, who led off with a single and made in the ninth a double, did the best batting for the home team.

Knell kept the Brooklyns from scoring in the second game, when their four safe hits were widely distributed through as many innings. Hart held the Washingtons down to ings helping them then to two runs. Young held the St. Louis down to only two scattering singles during twelve consecutive innings. Breitenstein also proved equally effective, the first seven safe hits made by the visitors being widely scattered throughout the same number of innings. A single by McAleer, however, enabled the visitors to tie the score in the ninth inning, as it sent home McKean, who had reached first by an error. Each scored a run in the fifteenth inning, the home team making their run off a wild throw by Tebeau and the visitors earning their run on a double bagger by O'Connor and a single by Young. Brodie and Carroll made great catches, the latter starting a brilliant double play. Caruthers did the best batting.

Another double programme was given June 25, when each team was again credited with a victory. In the opening contest Gleason pitched effectively, especially in the third and seventh innings, when the Clevelands made five hits and scored only one run. Crooks had led off with a home run, and the score stood a tie up to the eighth inning, when the St. Louis bunched four scratch singles and scored four runs, after Tebeau had lost a chance to retire the side. The Clevelands had three men on bases in the seventh, when a fine throw by Glasscock to the plate retired the side.

Galvin, late of the Pittsburg Club, made his first appearance with the St. Louis team in the second game, and was given a hearty reception. He kept the visitors from bunching their hits, except in the fourth inning, when errors by Buckley and Pinkney, together with three safe hits, helped them to three runs and the victory. Cuppy pitched with telling effect after the first inning, shutting out the home team during the remainder of the contest with only four scattering safe hits. Virtue did the best batting, making three singles.

New York vs. Philadelphia.

The Philadelphias scored their thirteenth consecutive victory by beating the New York team June 23, at the Polo Grounds, in this city. H. Lyons, of the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, played for the first time with the New York team, taking the place of Gore at centre field. Carsey prevented the home team from making more than six singles, which were scattered through as many innings. His wild pitching, however, twice gave D. Lyons a chance to score, and saved the New Yorks from being shut out. The Philadelphias batted King only in the second inning, when Allen by a timely triple bagger brought in an earned run. The third inning virtually decided the contest, as Boyle then missed a third strike and made a wild throw that brought in three unearned runs, a fumble by Fuller and wild pitching having previously filled the bases. Another fumble by Fuller gave the visitors their last run, King keeping them down to three scattering hits during the last seven innings. O'Rourke made two clever running catches.

The seventh and last game between these clubs was played June 24, when the Philadelphias scored their third victory of the series, and thereby secured second place in the championship race. Doyle, late of the Cleveland Club, caught for the New York team for the first time. Rusie was batted hard in the second inning, Thompson then leading off with a double bagger, and Cross making a timely single, that drove in two runs, after Doyle and Ewing had missed a chance to retire the side by their failure to catch a high fly that dropped safely about half way between home and first base. Keefe was also batted hard, but fine fielding saved him, Cross and Hamilton being credited with great catches. Cross captured a foul fly within a few inches of the ground, after a very long run, and also caught a very hot liner low down, while Hamilton secured a foul fly after running a great distance. Allen and Fuller fielded finely at short stop, the former spoiling a great slop by a poor throw that gave the New Yorks their last run.

Cincinnati vs. Louisville.

The fifth game between these clubs was played by mutual consent June 26, at Cincinnati, the scheduled date having been brought forward. Chamberlain held the Louisvilles down to six safe hits, three of which were made in the sixth inning, and aided by an error by McPhee, brought in two runs. Pfeffer had previously scored a run after making a triple bagger. Smith made three of the six scattering safe hits credited to the Cincinnatis and drove in four runs, his home run, with two out, in the fifth inning, bringing in two men who were on the bases, and his two singles sending in two more runs. Both teams fielded finely, Pfeffer's play at second base and Murphy's catching being noteworthy. Meakin gave way to Jones after the third inning.

These clubs contended again June 27, the Louisvilles then winning for the second time. The visitors started off with the lead, batting Mullane hard in the second and third innings, when they scored four runs off the same number of base hits, aided by an error and a stupid play by Vaughn. Dwyer pitched effectively during the remainder of the contest, being batted only in the fourth inning, when four hits helped the visitors to score what proved to be the winning run. The Cincinnatis batted Viau freely in three consecutive innings, when they bunched eight safe hits and scored four runs. He, however, held them down to one hit in the last three innings. Sanders led in batting, his three hits including a double bagger and a triple. Smith's short stopping was the fielding feature. Comiskey reappeared with the home team.

Washington vs. Philadelphia.

These clubs contended for the fifth time June 25, at Washington, the Philadelphias then securing their third victory of the series. Weyhing kept the home team from making more than four safe hits, which were well scattered through the first three innings. Errors by Cross and Connor, together with a base on balls, gave the home team their two runs. The Philadelphias batted Killen freely in the first four innings, eight safe hits then bringing in seven runs. Foreman, who was then substituted in the box, proved more effective, but gave the visitors two runs by wild pitching. Hallman and Delehanty did the best batting, the latter making a home run, while each secured a double bagger. A great one hand catch by Duffee cut off a home run, and was the fielding feature.

Brooklyn vs. Baltimore.

The Brooklyns beat the Baltimores June 25, at Brooklyn. McMahon kept the hits widely scattered and the Baltimores held the lead until the seventh inning, when, with two men out, Burns and Brouthers got bases on balls and Griffin followed with a triple bagger that helped the Brooklyns to two runs and the victory. The Baltimores batted Haddock freely in four innings, when eight hits enabled them to make five runs. A lucky home run hit by Robinson in the ninth inning nearly tied the score. McMahon gave eight men bases on balls, five of whom made runs. Burns and Whistler led in batting. Corcoran and Shindle excelled in fielding.

The Brooklyns scored their seventh consecutive victory of the series June 27, and then tied the Philadelphias for second place in the championship race. Foutz was batted hard, especially in the first and eighth innings, when six safe hits, including three timely triples, brought in five earned runs. Foutz, however, proved very effective at critical points, retiring the side in the seventh inning with three men on bases and striking out in the ninth when two men were on bases, Stricker, who had made a single, double and triple in succession. The Brooklyns batted Cobb freely after errors had placed men on bases and won by their bold base running. Burns and Stricker led their respective teams in batting and the latter also excelled in fielding.

New York vs. Boston.

The fifth game between these clubs was played June 25, at the Polo Grounds, in this city, the Bostons then scoring their fourth victory of the series. Stivetts was wild and ineffective in the first inning, when he gave two bases on balls and was batted safely three times, D. Lyons making a home run with three men on bases. Stivetts prevented the New Yorks from making more than two runs during the remainder of the contest, keeping their few hits wide apart. A decision by the umpire, however, deprived the New Yorks of a run in the seventh inning, when he declared a passed ball on which two men had run to be a foul and ordered both back to their bases. The Bostons made a good uphill fight, and by hard batting at critical times came off victorious. Nash made a home run in the sixth inning. Two errors by Fuller gave the Bostons four runs. Boyle and Quinn did the best batting.

The concluding contest took place June 27, when the Bostons had no trouble in scoring their sixth victory of the series. Emslie umpired this game, Sheridan being transferred to Brooklyn after his very unsatisfactory showing in the preceding contest. Nichols, who was splendidly supported, pitched with telling effect, holding the New Yorks down to four safe hits, which were scattered through as many innings. Three of these hits, including a double bagger, were credited to O'Rourke, whose timely single in the first inning gave the New Yorks their only run. Duffy made several difficult running catches at centre field, one of which deprived O'Rourke of his fourth successive safe hit. King kept the Bostons from making more than seven hits, but he was poorly supported, especially behind the bat.

These clubs contended for the sixth time June 27, at St. Louis, the home team then scoring their second victory of the series. Galvin was put in as pitcher against his old comrades, and he held them down to seven safe hits, four of which were made in two successive innings and brought in three runs. Baldwin was also in fine form, being batted only in two innings, when the home team, by timely hitting, however, secured a winning lead. A curious feature was that each team made four of their seven singles in two innings.

The Championship Record.

The Bostons continue in the lead, having won six out of the seven games played since our last issue. The Philadelphias are now tied with the Brooklyns for second place, which they held a few days. The Clevelands and Cincinnatis have exchanged positions since our last issue, as also have the Pittsburgs and Washingtons and the the St. Louis and Louisvilles, while the New Yorks have been pushed down to ninth place. The record to June 27, inclusive, is:

Owing to the threatening condition of the weather, 27, the attendance was not nearly so large as had been expected, or as it would have been had the weather been favorable. The stake event was the spring Turf Selling Stakes, for two year olds, at six furlongs, on the turf, for which Sir Richard was the favorite. There were six starters, and they were well bunched until well straightened out in the stretch, when Warsaw went to the front and won handily. The race of the day was a handicap sweepstakes for three year olds and upwards, at one mile and an eighth. There were seven entries, comprising such horses as His Highness, Reckon, Pickpocket, Demuth, Fidelio, Lepanto and Nomad. The last two made the pace, with Reckon and His Highness in hot pursuit. Nomad and His Highness dropped back as they made the turn into the stretch, while Lepanto got the whip, and Reckon and Pickpocket joined issue with him. It was a beautiful finish, Lepanto just managing to beat Reckon by a nose, with Pickpocket at his throat. The other races were all interesting. Summary:

A sweepstakes for three year olds and upward, $15 each, $1,000 added, $250 to second, $100 to third, Futurity course.

ADOLPH SPRECKLES, son of the sugar magnate, Claus Spreckles, of San Francisco, Cal., proposes to engage in the business of breeding thoroughbreds. To that end he has just bought the imported stallion Idalium, a full brother to the great Sir Modred, being by Traducer out of Idalia, by Coambetson. It is the intention of young Spreckels to imitate the example of his friend Fair, and go into the breeding business on an extensive scale.

THE annual race for the Northumberland Plate came off in England on June 22, the winner turning up in W. Mianson's Newcourt, with Golden Drop second and Clarence third. The winner is by Highborn out of Orange Blossom.

D. D. [illegible], the widely known turfman and breeder of thoroughbred stock, died at his residence at Lexington, Ky., June 26, aged forty-three years.

Carlsbad's American Derby.

The meeting at Washington Park, Chicago, Ill., opened on Saturday afternoon, June 25, and the fact that among the races on the card was the American Derby sufficed to attract over forty thousand persons to the grounds. The weather was of the best, but the rains of the previous days had completely ruined the track, which was very heavy. The big event had ten starters, of whom Azra and Cicero were the favorites at 5 to 2, while 5 to 1 was the price against Carlsbad, and the bookmakers offered 6 to 1 each against Newton, Galindo and Zaldivar. These were the odds at the opening, and afterwards Azra became a pronounced favorite, with Cicero second choice, while at the close 10 to 1 was on offer about Carlsbad. There was one breakaway, in which Chief Justice and Cicero were prominent, and then the flag dropped. Chief Justice was the first to show, followed by Prince of Darkness, Azra, Carlsbad, Newton, Cicero, Bob Forrester, Galindo, Emperor Regent and Zaldivar. Williams sent Carlsbad to the front round the turn, and at the quarter he led by half a length, with Emperor Regent second and Cicero third. As they came down the straight Zaldivar went through his horses, and at the stand he led by a head, with Carlsbad second, Cicero third, and the others well bunched. As they swept by the club house Carlsbad again took the lead, and at the three-quarters he was half a length in front of Zaldivar, with Cicero third, and, following well up, Chief Justice, Azra, Newton and Galindo. Along the backstretch Barnes made his run with Galindo, and at the half he was in second place, Carlsbad still leading, with Zaldivar third, Azra fourth and Cicero fifth. Carlsbad opened a gap round the far turn, while Galindo dropped back, and Zaldivar, Azra and Cicero set sail to catch Carlsbad. As they swung into the stretch Carlsbad had a clear lead, while the other three were closing up. At the carriage entrance there was a scramble and Azra stumbled. At the head of the stand Zaldivar drew up to Carlsbad and there were shouts of "Zaldivar wins," "Carlsbad wins." Williams shook up the son of Glenelg and Lady Wayward, and in the last few strides he came away, winning by an open length, while Zaldivar beat Cicero for the place by half a length. Azra was fourth, a length behind. A summary of the day's races follows:

First race—Purse $700, for three year olds and upward, one mile—The Hero, 107lb, Steppe, first; Shoshone, 122, Overton, second; Falero, 107, M. Bergen, third. Time, 2:00.....Second race—Purse $600, for three year olds and upward, six furlongs—Hercules, 124, Ross, first; Abandon, 124, Griffin, second; Louden, 111, Ray, third. Time, 1:26½.....Third race—The American Derby, a sweepstakes for three year olds (foals of 1889), at $250 each, $100 forfeit, with $10,000 added, of which $2,000 to second, $1,000 to third, a mile and a half—R. A. Swigert's Carlsbad, by Glenelg-Lady Wayward, 122, R. Britton, first; Zaldivar, 122, O'Hearn, second; Cicero, 115, Overton, third; Azra, 127, R. Clayton, fourth. Time, 3:04¾.....Fourth race—Purse $700, for three year olds and upward, selling race, a mile and a sixteenth—Sir Bevys, 106, Barrett, first; London Smoke, 109, Britton, second; Content, 87, Leight, third. Time, 2:06½.....Fifth race—Purse $600, for two year olds, five furlongs—Castanet, 115, Ross, first; Mirage, 118, Ray, second; Princess Loraine, 115, Butler, third. Time, 1:13.

June 27—Although the track was known to be still in a bad condition, about six thousand visited it today, and it must be said that they received a comparatively poor return for their money, as the card was very light and the racing tame in the extreme. Summary: First race—Purse for two year olds, half-mile—Maid Marian, 115, Britton, won; Lumberman, 118, Keith, second; Edith Belmont, 115, Haggert, third. Time, 1:01.....Second race—For three year olds and upwards, one mile—Joe Carter, 94, Clayton, won; First Lap, 100, Brown, second; Moose, 96, Keith, third. Time, 2:05.....Third race—Mile and an eighth—Emperor Regent, 89, Leigh, won; Red Grand, 92, Keith, second; Atticus, 111, Fox, third. Time, 2:24¾.....Fourth race—Mile and sixteenth—The Hero, 112, Steppe, won; Ulster, 112, Hennessy, second; Old Pepper, 112, Ray, third. Time, 2:16.....Fifth race—Six furlongs—Eclipse, 112, Miller, won; Silverado, 112, Hazlett, second; Donohue, 108, Mooney, third. Time, 1:31.

CRICKET.

The United States Championship.

Representative elevens of Philadelphia and Baltimore commenced the first of a series of matches for the Eastern championship, June 27, in the former city, but heavy rain caused a postponement after fifty minutes play. G. S. Patterson captained the home team who had scored 88 runs for the loss of two wickets, when play was stopped. A. M. Wood was the chief contributor, he going in at the fall of the first wicket for 12 and carrying out his bat for 49, a fine exhibition of free hard hitting. E. W. Clark was the other not out. The representatives of Boston and New York are to meet June 29 and 30 on the same grounds, and the winning teams in the two above mentioned matches will contend July 1 and 2 for the Eastern championship. We will give in our next issue a full report of the play in these three important matches.

Cricket Notes.

The annual meeting of the Cricketers' Association of the United States will be held June 30, at Philadelphia. The following notice has been sent to nearly all of the clubs throughout the country, in the hopes of securing a representative attendance: "At the last meeting of the association, held in April, 1891, a resolution was adopted that steps should be taken to organize a thoroughly representative national association of cricketers, and, with that end in view, it has been thought well to hold this year's meeting of the association at a time when a number of cricketers from other cities will be present at Philadelphia. It is hoped, therefore, that one or more representatives of the leagues and associations of the East and West will be present at the time and place stated, provided with proper credentials and powers to take into consideration and act upon the above subject."

The elevens of the New Jersey Athletic and Berkeley Clubs are now tied for the championship of the Metropolitan District League, each having won two games without being defeated. The Manhattans, the present champions, are tied with the Paterson team for third place, while the Brooklyns and Staten Islands have yet to score a victory. The Sons of St. George lead the second section with a record of five victories and one defeat.

The Germantown Club, of Philadelphia, has the lead in the Halifax Cup series, and doubtless will again win the local championship.

The Pittsburg team having defeated Detroit will strive hard to score a victory over the eleven which will represent Chicago in the match to be played July 4 and 5 at Chicago. The result of this game will doubtless determine the Western championship.

Stanley Scott scored no fewer than 224 runs for Middlesex against Gloucestershire June 9 and 10, in a match at Lord's Ground, London, Eng. This remarkable inning lasted six hours and forty minutes, and his chief hits were twenty-seven 4's, four 3's and fifteen 2's. He, however, gave two chances to Roberts at mid on, one when he had scored 47 and the other at 136. Middlesex made a total of 523 runs, and defeated Gloucestershire by an inning and 112 runs. W. G. Grace made 47 and 72 not out for the losers. Scott's score is the second highest ever made at Lord's, Gunn having made 228 for England against the Australians in 1890.

Another cricket tournament is to be held in Philadelphia by elevens representing that city, Canada and Halifax. Each team will play a two days' match with each other during the week commencing Aug. 1.

BILLIARDS.

Balk Line Pool.

We print below a list of rules governing a new style of pool, invented by Samuel R. Childs, of New England, who seeks to bring the new game to the notice of professionals and amateurs, with a view to stimulate interest in the popular game. Mr. Childs is a well known professional billiardist, and his ideas regarding any innovation tending to promote the advancement of billiards are worthy of consideration. The following fifteen rules govern the game:

RULE 1. At the opening of the game the balls are spotted as in the regular old fashioned game of fifteen ball pool, using the balls which are numbernd from 1 to 15.

2. In playing the lead off, or "break shot," it is optional with the striker whether he bursts the balls or not.

3. Looking from the head of the table, the three pockets on the right hand side of the table are known as and called the "even pockets," in which balls of an even number only can be held.

4 Looking from the head of the table, the three pockets on the left hand side of the table are known and called the "odd pockets," in which balls of an odd number only can be held.

5. The bridge or mace may be used in the game when necessary.

6. A scratch or miss at this game is called a "fiasco," and the player making a fiasco forfeits one point.

7. Three fiascos in succession forfeit a game.

8. N. B.—The fine point of the game is this, viz.: The table is balked with six lines, and into fifteen spaces or "territories" Now, for example, when a ball lodges in its own "territory" or "country," it is in what is known as "balk," and cannot be held direct, but must be banked to a cushion and in its proper side, be it odd or even.

9. A foul or scratch, made upon the white or cue ball, is a "fiasco," and the player or striker forfeits one point, and cannot shoot, or play, for safety.

10. A foul, scratch, or what is known as a fiasco, if made on an object ball, loses a play for the striker or player, and his hand or turn is out and he has no right or privilege to shoot or play for safety. N. B.—There is no penalty, however, attached. His hand is simply out.

11. Five points or balls constitute a game, and when a player scores five points he is declared the winner of that game.

12. When three or more players are playing, and one of the contestants shall have scored five balls or points, he is declared the winner, and the man scoring the least, or lowest number of balls or points, is the loser.

13. This game can be played by any number of players, and at the style which is known as progression, or progressive pool; say, for instance, fifty balls up would constitute a good match game.

14. Should a player properly call and hold a ball in its odd or even side, all other balls held on that shot count, or score. A player, therefore, if scientific, or lucky, may thus win a game on one single shot.

15. Any mistake deliberately, intentionally or accidentally made against these rules by a player causes him to forfeit one ball, or point, thus making it impossible for a player to cheat his opponent, if he strictly adheres to these rules.

NOTE.—This game is mostly composed of draw and follow shots. You will observe that you sometimes have to play for position, alternatively against, and for odd and even balls. The reason that the number of balls to win has been reduced from eight to five is that it equalizes the game and makes it more profitable to room keepers whose tables are always busy. Balk line pool is to a pool table the same as balk line billiards is to a billiard table.

Pool Tournament.

M. H. Murray, proprietor of one of the finest billiard rooms in the country, at 171 Mulberry Street, Newark, N. J., is engaged in the laudable undertaking of booming the game of fifteen ball pool. To that end he has instituted a tournament at his rooms, and explains in the annexed circular how he proposes to continue the interest created through the initiatory games. Here is what Mr. Murray says:

"During the last ten years pool playing was compelled to give place to bowling, horse racing, baseball and athletic sports. That a reaction has taken place is very evident by the demand for pool tables throughout the country, so, in order to be up with the times, we have arranged to have the three men who finish first, second and third in the pool tournament now going on at our place play a series of match games with any three men that may be selected by any hotel or saloon keeper in the following cities and towns: Newark, Trenton, Paterson, Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne, Elizabeth, Rahway, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Morristown, Oranges, Montclair, Dover, Madison, Bloomfield, Franklin, Belleville, Harrison and Irvington. A return match is, of course, expected. This, we believe, will do more to boom pool playing than anything that has been devised in years. Parties wishing to make a match with our team can do so by addressing me."

ATHLETIC.

Xaviers in the Field.

The Summer games of the Xavier Athletic Association attracted a large number of their friends and the public generally to the grounds at the West Side Athletic Club, this city, on Saturday afternoon, June 25. ALL THE COMFORTS OF A HOME.

By Walter P. Keen The great comic success of the year. Every verse a comic story told to catchy music. Here is the chorus of first verse:

"All the Comforts of a Home,
Such a happy little Home,
When you're nursing twins, then the fun begins,
Up and down the floor you have to roam;
Mother in law will soon appear,
Comes for a month and stops a year,
When her temper's hot, bet your life you've got
All the Comforts of a Home."

The complete song, words and music, will be sent to professionals for 10c. (stamps taken).

"THE GOOD SHIP HOME, SWEET HOME," and "NO ONE ELSE CAN EVER FILL YOUR PLACE," are two other superb songs by the same composer, and will be mailed to professionals for 10c. each.

ings helping them then to two runs. Young held the St. Louis down to only two scattering singles during twelve consecutive innings. Breitenstein also proved equally effective, the first seven safe hits made by the visitors being widely scattered throughout the same number of innings. A single by McAleer, however, enabled the visitors to tie the score in the ninth inning, as it sent home McKean, who had reached first by an error. Each scored a run in the fifteenth inning, the home team making their run off a wild throw by Tebeau and the visitors earning their run on a double bagger by O'Connor and a single by Young. Brodie and Carroll made great catches, the latter starting a brilliant double play. Caruthers did the best batting.

Another double programme was given June 25, when each team was again credited with a victory. In the opening contest Gleason pitched effectively, especially in the third and seventh innings, when the Clevelands made five hits and scored only one run. Crooks had led off with a home run, and the score stood a tie up to the eighth inning, when the St. Louis bunched four scratch singles and scored four runs, after Tebeau had lost a chance to retire the side. The Clevelands had three men on bases in the seventh, when a fine throw by Glasscock to the plate retired the side.

Galvin, late of the Pittsburg Club, made his first appearance with the St. Louis team in the second game, and was given a hearty reception. He kept the visitors from bunching their hits, except in the fourth inning, when errors by Buckley and Pinkney, together with three safe hits, helped them to three runs and the victory. Cuppy pitched with telling effect after the first inning, shutting out the home team during the remainder of the contest with only four scattering safe hits. Virtue did the best batting, making three singles.

New York vs. Philadelphia.

The Philadelphias scored their thirteenth consecutive victory by beating the New York team June 23, at the Polo Grounds, in this city. H. Lyons, of the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, played for the first time with the New York team, taking the place of Gore at centre field. Carsey prevented the home team from making more than six singles, which were scattered through as many innings. His wild pitching, however, twice gave D. Lyons a chance to score, and saved the New Yorks from being shut out. The Philadelphias batted King only in the second inning, when Allen by a timely triple bagger brought in an earned run. The third inning virtually decided the contest, as Boyle then missed a third strike and made a wild throw that brought in three unearned runs, a fumble by Fuller and wild pitching having previously filled the bases. Another fumble by Fuller gave the visitors their last run, King keeping them down to three scattering hits during the last seven innings. O'Rourke made two clever running catches.

The seventh and last game between these clubs was played June 24, when the Philadelphias scored their third victory of the series, and thereby secured second place in the championship race. Doyle, late of the Cleveland Club, caught for the New York team for the first time. Rusie was batted hard in the second inning, Thompson then leading off with a double bagger, and Cross making a timely single, that drove in two runs, after Doyle and Ewing had missed a chance to retire the side by their failure to catch a high fly that dropped safely about half way between home and first base. Keefe was also batted hard, but fine fielding saved him, Cross and Hamilton being credited with great catches. Cross captured a foul fly within a few inches of the ground, after a very long run, and also caught a very hot liner low down, while Hamilton secured a foul fly after running a great distance. Allen and Fuller fielded finely at short stop, the former spoiling a great stop by a poor throw that gave the New Yorks their last run.

Cincinnati vs. Louisville.

The fifth game between these clubs was played by mutual consent June 26, at Cincinnati, the scheduled date having been brought forward. Chamberlain held the Louisvilles down to six safe hits, three of which were made in the sixth inning, and aided by an error by McPhee, brought in two runs. Pfeffer had previously scored a run after making a triple bagger. Smith made three of the six scattering safe hits credited to the Cincinnatis and drove in four runs, his home run, with two out, in the fifth inning, bringing in two men who were on the bases, and his two singles sending in two more runs. Both teams fielded finely, Pfeffer's play at second base and Murphy's catching being noteworthy. Meakin gave way to Jones after the third inning.

These clubs contended again June 27, the Louisvilles then winning for the second time. The visitors started off with the lead, batting Mullane hard in the second and third innings, when they scored four runs off the same number of base hits, aided by an error and a stupid play by Vaughn. Dwyer pitched effectively during the remainder of the contest, being batted only in the fourth inning, when four hits helped the visitors to score what proved to be the winning run. The Cincinnatis batted Viau freely in three consecutive innings, when they bunched eight safe hits and scored four runs. He, however, held them down to one hit in the last three innings. Sanders led in batting, his three hits including a double bagger and a triple. Smith's short stopping was the fielding feature. Comiskey reappeared with the home team.

Washington vs. Philadelphia.

These clubs contended for the fifth time June 25, at Washington, the Philadelphias then securing their third victory of the series. Weyhing kept the home team from making more than four safe hits, which were well scattered through the first three innings. Errors by Cross and Connor, together with a base on balls, gave the home team their two runs. The Philadelphias batted Killen freely in the first four innings, eight safe hits then bringing in seven runs. Foreman, who was then substituted in the box, proved more effective, but gave the visitors two runs by wild pitching. Hallman and Delehanty did the best batting, the latter making a home run, while each secured a double bagger. A great one hand catch by Duffee cut off a home run, and was the fielding feature.

Brooklyn vs. Baltimore.

The Brooklyns beat the Baltimores June 25, at Brooklyn. McMahon kept the hits widely scattered and the Baltimores held the lead until the seventh inning, when, with two men out, Burns and Brouthers got bases on balls and Griffin followed with a triple bagger that helped the Brooklyns to two runs and the victory. The Baltimores batted Haddock freely in four innings, when eight hits enabled them to make five runs. A lucky home run hit by Robinson in the ninth inning nearly tied the score. McMahon gave eight men bases on balls, five of whom made runs. Burns and Whistler led in batting. Corcoran and Shindle excelled in fielding.

The Brooklyns scored their seventh consecutive victory of the series June 27, and then tied the Philadelphias for second place in the championship race. Foutz was batted hard, especially in the first and eighth innings, when six safe hits, including three timely triples, brought in five earned runs. Foutz, however, proved very effective at critical points, retiring the side in the seventh inning with three men on bases and striking out in the ninth when two men were on bases, Stricker, who had made a single, double and triple in succession. The Brooklyns batted Cobb freely after errors had placed men on bases and won by their bold base running. Burns and Stricker led their respective teams in batting and the latter also excelled in fielding.

New York vs. Boston.

The fifth game between these clubs was played June 25, at the Polo Grounds, in this city, the Bostons then scoring their fourth victory of the series. Stivetts was wild and ineffective in the first inning, when he gave two bases on balls and was batted safely three times, D. Lyons making a home run with three men on bases. Stivetts prevented the New Yorks from making more than two runs during the remainder of the contest, keeping their few hits wide apart. A decision by the umpire, however, deprived the New Yorks of a run in the seventh inning, when he declared a passed ball on which two men had run to be a foul and ordered both back to their bases. The Bostons made a good uphill fight, and by hard batting at critical times came off victorious. Nash made a home run in the sixth inning. Two errors by Fuller gave the Bostons four runs. Boyle and Quinn did the best batting.

The concluding contest took place June 27, when the Bostons had no trouble in scoring their sixth victory of the series. Emslie umpired this game, Sheridan being transferred to Brooklyn after his very unsatisfactory showing in the preceding contest. Nichols, who was splendidly supported, pitched with telling effect, holding the New Yorks down to four safe hits, which were scattered through as many innings. Three of these hits, including a double bagger, were credited to O'Rourke, whose timely single in the first inning gave the New Yorks their only run. Duffy made several difficult running catches at centre field, one of which deprived O'Rourke of his fourth successive safe hit. King kept the Bostons from making more than seven hits, but he was poorly supported, especially behind the bat.

St. Louis vs. Pittsburg.

These clubs contended for the sixth time June 27, at St. Louis, the home team then scoring their second victory of the series. Galvin was put in as pitcher against his old comrades, and he held them down to seven safe hits, four of which were made in two successive innings and brought in three runs. Baldwin was also in fine form, being batted only in two innings, when the home team, by timely hitting, however, secured a winning lead. A curious feature was that each team made four of their seven singles in two innings.

The Championship Record.

The Bostons continue in the lead, having won six out of the seven games played since our last issue. The Philadelphias are now tied with the Brooklyns for second place, which they held a few days. The Clevelands and Cincinnatis have exchanged positions since our last issue, as also have the Pittsburgs and Washingtons and the the St. Louis and Louisvilles, while the New Yorks have been pushed down to ninth place. The record to June 27, inclusive, is:

Owing to the threatening condition of the weather, the attendance was not nearly so large as had been expected, or as it would have been had the weather been favorable. The stake event was the Spring Turf Selling Stakes, for two year olds, at six furlongs, on the turf, for which Sir Richard was the favorite. There were six starters, and they were well bunched until well straightened out in the stretch, when Warsaw went to the front and won handily. The race of the day was a handicap sweepstakes for three year olds and upwards, at one mile and an eighth. There were seven entries, comprising such horses as His Highness, Reckon, Pickpocket, Demuth, Fidello, Lepanto and Nomad. The last two made the pace, with Reckon and His Highness in hot pursuit. Nomad and His Highness dropped back as they made the turn into the stretch, while Lepanto got the whip, and Reckon and Pickpocket joined issue with him. It was a beautiful finish, Lepanto just managing to beat Reckon by a nose, with Pickpocket at his throat. The other races were all interesting. Summary:

ADOLPH SPRECKLES, son of the sugar magnate, Claus Spreckles, of San Francisco, Cal., proposes to engage in the business of breeding thoroughbreds. To that end he has just bought the imported stallion Idalium, a full brother to the great Sir Modred, being by Traducer out of Idalia, by Coambetson. It is the intention of young Spreckels to imitate the example of his friend Fair, and go into the breeding business on an extensive scale.

THE annual race for the Northumberland Plate came off in England on June 22, the winner turning up in W. Mianson's Newcourt, with Golden Drop second and Clarence third. The winner is by Highborn out of Orange Blossom.

D. D. BELL, the widely known turfman and breeder of thoroughbred stock, died at his residence at Lexington, Ky., June 26, aged forty-three years.

Carlsbad's American Derby.

The meeting at Washington Park, Chicago, Ill., opened on Saturday afternoon, June 25, and the fact that among the races on the card was the American Derby sufficed to attract over forty thousand persons to the grounds. The weather was of the best, but the rains of the previous days had completely ruined the track, which was very heavy. The big event had ten starters, of whom Azra and Cicero were the favorites at 5 to 2, while 5 to 1 was the price against Carlsbad, and the bookmakers offered 6 to 1 each against Newton, Galindo and Zaldivar. These were the odds at the opening, and afterwards Azra became a pronounced favorite, with Cicero second choice, while at the close 10 to 1 was on offer about Carlsbad. There was one break away, in which Chief Justice and Cicero were prominent, and then the flag dropped. Chief Justice was the first to show, followed by Prince of Darkness, Azra, Carlsbad, Newton, Cicero, Bob Forrester, Galindo, Emperor Regent and Zaldivar. Williams sent Carlsbad to the front round the turn, and at the quarter he led by half a length, with Emperor Regent second and Cicero third. As they came down the straight Zaldivar went through his horses, and at the stand he led by a head, with Carlsbad second, Cicero third, and the others well bunched. As they swept by the club house Carlsbad again took the lead, and at the three-quarters he was half a length in front of Zaldivar, with Cicero third, and, following well up, Chief Justice, Azra, Newton and Galindo. Along the backstretch Barnes made his run with Galindo, and at the half he was in second place, Carlsbad still leading, with Zaldivar third, Azra fourth and Cicero fifth. Carlsbad opened a gap round the far turn, while Galindo dropped back, and Zaldivar, Azra and Cicero set sail to catch Carlsbad. As they swung into the stretch Carlsbad had a clear lead, while the other three were closing up. At the carriage entrance there was a scramble and Azra stumbled. At the head of the stand Zaldivar drew up to Carlsbad and there were shouts of "Zaldivar wins," "Carlsbad wins." Williams shook up the son of Glenelg and Lady Wayward, and in the last few strides he came away, winning by an open length, while Zaldivar beat Cicero for the place by half a length. Azra was fourth, a length behind. A summary of the day's races follows:

First race—Purse $700, for three year olds and upward, one mile—The Hero, 107lb, Steppe, first; Shoshone, 122, Overton, second; Falero, 107, M. Bergen, third. CRICKET.

The United States Championship.

Representative elevens of Philadelphia and Baltimore commenced the first of a series of matches for the Eastern championship, June 27, in the former city, but heavy rain caused a postponement after fifty minutes play. G. S. Patterson captained the home team who had scored 88 runs for the loss of two wickets, when play was stopped. A. M. Wood was the chief contributor, he going in at the fall of the first wicket for 12 and carrying out his bat for 49, a fine exhibition of free hard hitting. E. W. Clark was the other not out. The representatives of Boston and New York are to meet June 29 and 30 on the same grounds, and the winning teams in the two above mentioned matches will contend July 1 and 2 for the Eastern championship. We will give in our next issue a full report of the play in these three important matches.

Cricket Notes.

The annual meeting of the Cricketers' Association of the United States will be held June 30, at Philadelphia. The following notice has been sent to nearly all of the clubs throughout the country, in the hopes of securing a representative attendance: "At the last meeting of the association, held in April, 1891, a resolution was adopted that steps should be taken to organize a thoroughly representative national association of cricketers, and, with that end in view, it has been thought well to hold this year's meeting of the association at a time when a number of cricketers from other cities will be present at Philadelphia. It is hoped, therefore, that one or more representatives of the leagues and associations of the East and West will be present at the time and place stated, provided with proper credentials and powers to take into consideration and act upon the above subject."

The elevens of the New Jersey Athletic and Berkeley Clubs are now tied for the championship of the Metropolitan District League, each having won two games without being defeated. The Manhattans, the present champions, are tied with the Paterson team for third place, while the Brooklyns and Staten Islands have yet to score a victory. The Sons of St. George lead the second section with a record of five victories and one defeat.

The Germantown Club, of Philadelphia, has the lead in the Halifax Cup series, and doubtless will again win the local championship.

The Pittsburg team having defeated Detroit will strive hard to score a victory over the eleven which will represent Chicago in the match to be played July 4 and 5 at Chicago. The result of this game will doubtless determine the Western championship.

Stanley Scott scored no fewer than 224 runs for Middlesex against Gloucestershire June 9 and 10, in a match at Lord's Ground, London, Eng. This remarkable inning lasted six hours and forty minutes, and his chief hits were twenty-seven 4's, four 3's and fifteen 2's. He, however, gave two chances to Roberts at mid on, one when he had scored 47 and the other at 136. Middlesex made a total of 523 runs, and defeated Gloucestershire by an inning and 112 runs. W. G. Grace made 47 and 72 not out for the losers. Scott's score is the second highest ever made at Lord's, Gunn having made 228 for England against the Australians in 1890.

Another cricket tournament is to be held in Philadelphia by elevens representing that city, Canada and Halifax. Each team will play a two days' match with each other during the week commencing Aug. 1.

BILLIARDS.

Balk Line Pool.

We print below a list of rules governing a new style of pool, invented by Samuel R. Childs, of New England, who seeks to bring the new game to the notice of professionals and amateurs, with a view to stimulate interest in the popular game. Mr. Childs is a well known professional billiardist, and his ideas regarding any innovation tending to promote the advancement of billiards are worthy of consideration. The following fifteen rules govern the game:

RULE 1. At the opening of the game the balls are spotted as in the regular old fashioned game of fifteen ball pool, using the balls which are numbered from 1 to 15.

2. In playing the lead off, or "break shot," it is optional with the striker whether he bursts the balls or not.

3. Looking from the head of the table, the three pockets on the right hand side of the table are known as and called the "even pockets," in which balls of an even number only can be held.

4 Looking from the head of the table, the three pockets on the left hand side of the table are known and called the "odd pockets," in which balls of an odd number only can be held.

5. The bridge or mace may be used in the game when necessary.

6. A scratch or miss at this game is called a "fiasco," and the player making a fiasco forfeits one point.

7. Three fiascos in succession forfeit a game.

8. N. B.—The fine point of the game is this, viz.: The table is balked with six lines, and into fifteen spaces or "territories." Now, for example, when a ball lodges in its own "territory" or "country," it is in what is known as "balk," and cannot be held direct, but must be banked to a cushion and in its proper side, be it odd or even.

9. A foul or scratch, made upon the white or cue ball, is a "fiasco," and the player or striker forfeits one point, and cannot shoot, or play, for safety.

10. A foul, scratch, or what is known as a fiasco, if made on an object ball, loses a play for the striker or player, and his hand or turn is out and he has no right or privilege to shoot or play for safety. N. B.—There is no penalty, however, attached. His hand is simply out.

11. Five points or balls constitute a game, and when a player scores five points he is declared the winner of that game.

12. When three or more players are playing, and one of the contestants shall have scored five balls or points, he is declared the winner, and the man scoring the least, or lowest number of balls or points, is the loser.

13. This game can be played by any number of players, and at the style which is known as progression, or progressive pool; say, for instance, fifty balls up would constitute a good match game.

14. Should a player properly call and hold a ball in its odd or even side, all other balls held on that shot count, or score. A player, therefore, if scientific, or lucky, may thus win a game on one single shot.

15. Any mistake deliberately, intentionally or accidentally made against these rules by a player causes him to forfeit one ball, or point, thus making it impossible for a player to cheat his opponent, if he strictly adheres to these rules.

NOTE.—This game is mostly composed of draw and follow shots. You will observe that you sometimes have to play for position, alternatively against, and for odd and even balls. The reason that the number of balls to win has been reduced from eight to five is that it equalizes the game and makes it more profitable to room keepers whose tables are always busy. Balk line pool is to a pool table the same as balk line billiards is to a billiard table.

Pool Tournament.

M. H. Murray, proprietor of one of the finest billiard rooms in the country, at 171 Mulberry Street, Newark, N. J., is engaged in the laudable undertaking of booming the game of fifteen ball pool. To that end he has instituted a tournament at his rooms, and explains in the annexed circular how he proposes to continue the interest created through the initiatory games. Here is what Mr. Murray says:

"During the last ten years pool playing was compelled to give place to bowling, horse racing, baseball and athletic sports. That a reaction has taken place is very evident by the demand for pool tables throughout the country, so, in order to be up with the times, we have arranged to have the three men who finish first, second and third in the pool tournament now going on at our place play a series of match games with any three men that may be selected by any hotel or saloon keeper in the following cities and towns: Newark, Trenton, Paterson, Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne, Elizabeth, Rahway, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Morristown, Oranges, Montclair, Dover, Madison, Bloomfield, Franklin, Belleville, Harrison and Irvington. A return match is, of course, expected. This, we believe, will do more to boom pool playing than anything that has been devised in years. Parties wishing to make a match with our team can do so by addressing me."

ATHLETIC.

Xaviers in the Field.

The Summer games of the Xavier Athletic Association attracted a large number of their friends and the public generally to the grounds at the West Side Athletic Club, this city, on Saturday afternoon, June 25. The programme was a capital one, the entries included a number of good men, and the competitions as a rule were highly interesting. Tommy Conneff, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, gave an exhibition run of one thousand yards, and he was the recipient of quite an ovation from his many admirers present. The greatest interest was manifested in the mile and a half run, which furnished a grand struggle. Summary:

ALL THE COMFORTS OF A HOME.

By Walter P. Keen. The great comic success of the year. Every verse a comic story told to catchy music. Here is the chorus of first verse:

"All the Comforts of a Home,
Such a happy little Home,
When you're nursing twins, then the fun begins,
Up and down the floor you have to roam;
Mother in law will soon appear,
Comes for a month and stops a year,
When her temper's hot, bet your life you've got
All the Comforts of a Home."

The complete song, words and music, will be sent to professionals for 10c. (stamps taken). "THE GOOD SHIP HOME, SWEET HOME," and "NO ONE ELSE CAN EVER FILL YOUR PLACE," are two other superb songs by the same composer, and will be mailed to professionals for 10c. each.

Kings County Wheelmen.

That the members of this club acted wisely in arranging to hold their annual race meeting in this city this year, instead of at Brooklyn, was shown by the large gathering at Manhattan Field on Saturday afternoon, June 25. The weather was pleasant and the going first rate, while the competitions were of a most interesting character. The racing was agreeably varied by an exhibition of fancy and trick riding by that master of the art, W. S. Maltby, whose performances both astonished and amused the spectators. A summary follows:

One mile, novice—First heat: Won by G. W. Shannon, Prospect Wheelmen; W. Peaslee, Kings County Wheelmen, second. Time, 2m 51s. Second heat: Won by W. R. Lowe, Harlem Wheelmen; W. E. Final heat—Won by Banker, Murphy second, Goodwin third. Time, 5m. 6s.

Union County Champions.

The first of a series of road races, for the championship of Union County and a trophy offered by The Elizabeth Daily Journal, came off on Saturday afternoon, June 25, over the road between Elizabeth to Cranford and return, a distance of ten miles. The clubs competing were: The Cranford 'Cyclers, Roselle Ramblers and Elizabeth Athletic Club, six men from each club. The Elizabeths carried off the honors, scoring 89 points to the Roselle Ramblers' 48 and the Cranford 'Cyclers' 34. The first five men to finish were all from the Elizabeth Club. Their time was: Sidney B. Bowman, 31m. 35s.; Henry Saltonstall, 31m. 37⅘s.; A. N. Laggren, 31m. 40s.; Henry J. Bauer, 31m. 40s.; R. S. Laggren, 31m. 41s. The next trial heat, to be contested by four clubs, takes place on July 9, and the third heat, of three clubs, on July 23. In all ten clubs will compete in the trial heats, and the winners of each will race in the final heat for the championship on Aug. 6.

A. A. ZIMMERMAN demonstrated his abilities on the wheel to the satisfaction of the Britishers on Saturday afternoon, June 25, when he won both the one mile and five mile championship races at the annual meet of the National 'Cyclists' Union, held at Leeds, Eng. The time of the five mile event was 20m. 9⅘s., and among the prominent bicyclists who finished behind the speedy American was A. Ducros, the Irish champion. In the mile race, Zimmerman beat Schofield by five yards, in 3m. 57⅘s.

A CHALLENGE TEAM RACE on the road took place between the 'cycling divisions of the Arlington League and Ninth Ward Pioneer Corps, for a handsome silver cup, June 26. The course was about fourteen and a half miles, from the Circle, at Fifty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue, this city, to the Grey House, at Yonkers. Bartsch, of the Arlingtons, and Litchult, of the Pioneers, finished first, making a dead heat in the excellent time of 52m. 1⅘s., with Pederson, of the Arlingtons, third. The race was won by the Arlingtons, they having the first three men home.

E. J. P. SMITH, starting from scratch, was the winner of the first of a series of three club events having in view the completion of the Toronto Bicycle Club's road racing team that took place at Toronto, Ont., June 25. It was a handicap race of ten miles, and the time of the winner was 32m. 28s., which was a creditable performance. There were twenty-three starters, and F. W. Gullett, 2m. start, was second, with G. F. Stephenson, 1m. 30s., third.

A. G. JOYCE, riding a Moseley machine, fitted with Seldon tyres, rode fifty miles over the road, from Edenderry to Mount Lucas, Ireland, on June 16, doing the distance in 3h. 4⅘s., which was almost eighteen minutes better than the previous best Irish record, credited to R. J. Mecredy.

THE YONKERS BICYCLE CLUB held a ten mile bicycle race over the Riverdale course, near Yonkers, N. Y., June 25. There were a dozen starters, and the race finished as follows: C. T. Kuchler, 40s. start, first, in 6m. 49s.; T. Cox, scratch, second; C. S. Burnham, 12s., third.

HOYLAND SMITH, the New England rider, intends attempting to throw in the shade the performance of the Englishman, Ede, for a twenty-four hours' ride, at the meeting of the Columbia and Colt 'Cycling Clubs, at Hartford, Ct., on July 4, 5.

WE have a letter for W. S. Martin.

"DON'T you think," said a youth, after working his vocal cords with intense vigor beside the hotel piano, "that I ought to go on the stage?" "Yes," replied Miss Pepperton, [illegible] him very well, "I certainly do. There is one that leaves for the station in twenty minutes from now."

Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen annual regatta—July 6, with W. A. Littlejohn, Toronto, Ont.

The Canadian Regatta.

The annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held on Toronto Bay on July 20, 21, over a course one mile and a half in length, straightaway. The races are open to all Canadian amateur rowing clubs affiliated with the association, that have been duly organized three months prior to the date of holding the regatta, and to all clubs in the Unites States that are recognized by the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. Following is a list of events: Senior fours, challenge cup and four gold medals; senior singles, challenge cup and gold medal, also silver cup; junior fours, four gold medals; junior singles, gold medal and silver cup; double sculls, challenge cup and two gold medals; junior double sculls, two gold medals; pair oars, challenge cup and two gold medals; special singles, half mile, gold medals. A silk banner will be given in senior fours and pairs. Entrance fee, which must in every instance accompany the original entry: Four oars, $10; double sculls, $5; pair oars, $5; single sculls, $2.50. No entry fee for half mile. In all cases of entries for four oars, a list of not more than six names, and in all cases of entries for double sculls or pair oars, a list of not more than four names shall be sent to the secretary, and from these names the actual crew must be selected.

Entries will not be received from individuals, but must in all cases be made by the clubs to which the intending competitors belong. To ensure a race two or more entries are required in each class, and should withdrawal, after entries are closed, reduce the number to one boat, the crew or sculler therein must row over the course to be entitled to the prize. Objections to any entry must be made in writing to the secretary at least seven days previous to the first day of the regatta, when the committee on entries shall investigate the grounds of objection, and decide thereon forthwith, such decision to be final. The Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways will carry contestants from all points in Canada to and from the regatta at single fare, and boats free when in charge of passengers. Ample hotel accommodations for contestants and their friends has been arranged at rates varying from $1.50 per day and upwards. If notice of time of arrival be given a day in advance, the crews will be met at the railway station, and their boats safely housed without expense.

Corinthians on Blue Water.

The sixth annual regatta of the Corinthian Yacht Club was held June 25, in New York Bay. The start was made from Buoy 11, the schooners going to Sandy Hook Lightship and the others to Buoy 1, thence to the Southwest Spit and home. It was a one gun start, all the yachts being timed from the signal and not individually. The tide was ebbing and there was a light southerly wind. The smallness of the fleet was due more to misfortune than to anything else, as a number of the boats entered could not be got ready in time. The signal for the schooners was given at 12.05:00, the Alert being the first to cross the line, on the port tack, at 12.06:40. The Yampa crossed at 12.10:00, at which time the signal was given for the smaller boats, and they crossed in the following order: Superior, Dawn, Nadine, Doctor, Delvyn and Petrel. The smaller boats stood on the port tack for Coney Island Point, while the schooners made a series of tacks to the Spit. Poor time was made, as it was windward work all the way out. On the beat down the Alert gained slightly on the Yampa, and passed the Southwest Spit at 1.55:40, the Yampa turning at the same time as the Doctor, a little open "cat," at 2.05:10. The other boats turned as follow: Superior, 2.16:10; Dawn, 2.18:00; Delvyn, 2.33:00; Petrel, 2.35:00. The wind hauled to the Westward and freshened up considerably off the Hook. The position of the Yampa began to improve, and they rounded the lightship as follow: Alert, 4.45:10; Yampa, 4.46:10. The Yampa did still better on her way back with the fresh leading wind, and off the Hook was well in advance. She lost a little by standing too long to the North, but at the Southwest spit buoy the times were: Yampa, 6.07:01; Alert, 6:10:15. As the Yampa was the larger boat, the Alert's allowance would be in the neighborhood of eight minutes, but, even at that, the Yampa proved the victor, as she crossed the finish line at 7.06:10, the Alert following at 7.16:27. The summary follows:

SCHOONERS, CRUISING TRIM.	Start.	Finish.	Elapsed Time.
Alert	12h. 05m. 00s.	7h. 10m. 27s.	7h. 11m. 27s.
Yampa	12 05 00	7 06 10	7 01 10
SLOOPS, 30 TO 40FT.
Delvyn	12 10 00	5 26 40	5 16 40
Petrel	12 10 00	5 34 19	5 24 09
CAT RIGGED, 25 TO 30FT.
Dawn	12 10 00	5 21 02	5 11 02
Nadine	12 10 00	5 32 22	5 22 22
Superior	12 10 00	5 20 00	5 10 00
CAT RIGGED, UNDER 25FT.
Doctor	12 10 00	4 40 50	4 30 50

The boats have not been measured, but it is not likely any changes will be made by allowances. Yampa beats Alert 10m. 17s., Delvyn beats Petrel 8m. 21s., Superior beats Dawn 1m. 20s., and Dawn beats Nadine 11m. 20s. Doctor had a walk over.

Regatta on the Patapsco.

The annual Patapsco Navy regatta was held on the Patapsco River, near Baltimore, Md., on Saturday afternoon, June 25, under the auspices of the Neptune Boat Club. The weather was fine, although a rather high wind roughened the water during the early part of the afternoon. The banks of the stream were lined with spectators, and the regatta can be put down as a success, notwithstanding that the double scull and senior eight oared shell events failed to furnish contests, owing to the non appearance of the Donoghue brothers, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, for the former event, and the Neptune B. C. entry for the latter, thus making the events row overs for the Vesper and New York Athletic Club representatives. Summary:

Senior four oared shells—Atalanta Boat Club, New York, first, by five lengths; Fairmount Rowing Association, Philadelphia, second. Time, 9m. 2⅘s.
Junior singles—E. J. Dunn, Excelsior Boat Club, Paterson, N. J., first, by five lengths; C. H. Elliott, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, second; J. A. Shern, Iona Boat Club, third; Lewis M. Keitz, Ariel Rowing Club, Baltimore, fourth. Time, 1m. 2⅘s.
Pair oared shells—Hueneker and Hecht, Iona Boat Club, first; Weinacht and Haubold, New York Athletic Club, second. Time, 10m. 31s.
Junior eight oared shells—Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, first, by a length; Staten Island Athletic Club, second; Potomac Boat Club, Washington, third; Neptune Boat Club, Baltimore, fourth. Time, 8m. 47⅘s.
Intermediate singles—A. J. Cottingham, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, first, by two lengths; A. J. Nall, Pennsylvania Barge Club, Philadelphia, second. Time, 11m.
Senior singles—Edwin Hedley, Vesper Club, Philadelphia, first, by three lengths; Fred Hawkins, Manhattan Athletic Club, New York, second; R. E. L. Vansant, Ariel Athletic Club, third. Time, 10m. 9⅘s.
Junior four oared shells—Analostan Club, Washington, first, by three lengths; Neptune, Baltimore, second. Time, 9m. 33⅘s.
Four oared pigs—Atalanta Club, New York, first, by six lengths; Iona Club, Philadelphia, second. Time, 9m. 21s.
Double scull shells—Ed. Hedley and J. Y. Parke, Vesper Club, Philadelphia, rowed over alone.
Senior eight oared shells—New York Athletic Club rowed over alone.

Rowing on Flushing Bay.

The annual regatta of the Long Island Rowing Association constituted an aquatic event that attracted considerable attention in rowing circles in this vicinity on Saturday afternoon, June 25. The regatta was held on Flushing Bay, and was witdessed by quite a large number of spectators, every club engaged having hired a tug boat or craft of some description to convey their members and guests to the spot. The day was one of the most delightful of the season, but the wind, which came from the southwest, was rather strong, and blew straight up the course, making the water rather rough, and in some of the early races on the programme causing the boats to ship considerable water. The distance in each race was one mile, straightaway. A summary follows:

Junior single sculls—J. M. Davis, Manhattan Athletic Club, first, in 8m. 12⅘s.; Harry C. Johnson, Astoria Athletic Club, second, by about two lengths; Fred Rheinirank, Nassau Boat Club, 0. J. H. Bell, New York Athletic Club, 0. Johnson was the leader till nearing the finish, when Davis wrested the pride of place from him.
Junior four oared shells—Varuna Boat Club, J. O. Regan (bow), James Bishop, James Coughlin, James J. Platt Jr (stroke), first, in 6m. 42⅘s.; Crescent Athletic Club, B. F. Seavor (bow), Frank Jenks, F. J. Vernon, Thomas S. Perkins (stroke), second. The Varunas had no trouble in winning.
Senior single sculls—Morgan Quill Jr., Varuna Boat Club, came in first, in 7m. 30s., with A. J. Buschman, of the Ravenswood Boat Club, second, by ten lengths, but the judges entertained a protest on the part of the latter, on the ground that he had been interfered with by a tug, and they ordered the race to be rowed again the following morning.
Junior double sculls—New York Athletic Club, J. A. Dempsey (bow), Guy Dempsey (stroke), first, in 7m. 22⅘s.; Triton Boat Club, D. R. Ward (bow), J. B. Vinsen (stroke), second; Institute Boat Club, Newark, third; Friendship Boat Club, New York, fourth.
Junior four oared gigs—Manhattan Athletic Club, J. M. Davis (bow), H. M. F. Cady, F. G. Garlich, J. W. Hollingshead (stroke). E. P. K. Coffin (coxswain), first, in 6m. 53s.; Astoria Athletic Club, Henry Warren (bow) Paul Lankoor, Rich Gray, Harry Couch (stroke), William Gottetreau (coxswain), second, by ten seconds; New York Athletic Club 0, Nassau Boat Club 0. Crescent Boat Club 0, Triton Boat Club 0, Varuna Boat Club 0.
Junior eight oared shells—Atalanta Boat Club, W. J. Kelly (bow), H. Wood, H. L. Meyers, P. A. Burns, J. A. Donohue, T. Phelan, V. Brink, C. Donegan (stroke), E. C. Villevarde (coxswain) first, in 6m. 33s.; New York Athletic Club, H. B. Turner Jr. (bow), F. Douglass, L. V. Southack, A. R. Pope, G. Schofield, G. Marvin, W. Littell, E. J. Keane (stroke), C. C. Turner (coxswain), second, two lengths behind; Wyanoke Boat Club third.
Senior four oared gigs—Manhattan Athletic Club, W. F. Ruff (bow), M. L. Barshinger, W. H. Wangaan, F. B. Hancock (stroke), E. P. Coffin (coxswain), first, in 6m. 15⅘s.; Atalanta Boat Club, Max Lau (bow), J. B. Dyer, A. T. Davenport, William Lau (stroke), S. Simons (coxswain), second by five lengths; Varuna Boat Club 0, Triton Boat Club 0, Passaic Boat Club 0.

Brooklyn Yacht Club.

This club held its annual regatta June 25 in New York Bay. Owing to a light breeze the start was not made until 12.46:40, when the Fairwind crossed the line, closely followed by all the squadron. As the boats passed out into open water the breeze stiffened, and the yachtsmen had some rare sport racing for Buoy 11, which all the squadron were obliged to turn, and they rounded it as follows: Mull, Fairwind, Mary A, Ilcika, Bess, Mary, Mabel, Dolphin, B. Q., Homing, Seneca, Spray, Water Lily, Edda D., Seminole, Tropic, Panchita, Sappho and Waif. The wind died out at the Southwest Spit, and several of the large boats were becalmed, it being fully half an hour before a stiff breeze sprung up, when they were enabled to come home with all sails set. The classes and winners were as follow, a failure to be measured preventing a decisive result in three classes:

The Erie Races.

The professional rowing events gotten up by citizens of Erie, Pa., having an eye single to the main chance came off on Erie Bay on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, June 22, 23, and on both days attracted big crowds of people interested in rowing sport. The weather was fine throughout, and on the opening day the water was all that could be wished, but on Thursday a high wind covered the surface of the bay with white caps, making the rowing more difficult and the time slower. The distance in each race was stated to be three miles, with one turn. The first event was for single sculls, open to the world, and it was won by the favorite, Champion William O'Connor, whose time was announced as 19m. 42s.; George H. Hosmer second, by more than a length, he having, on sufferance, reduced the distance between them on the last mile. Ed. Hanlan and Jake Gaudaur fouled before the race was one third rowed, and were thereafter out of it. The second event was for double sculls, for a purse of $1,500, same distance, and an alleged stake of $2,000, which few believe existed. Hosmer and Gaudaur took the lead at the signal, and held it for a quarter of a mile or more, when Hanlan and O'Connor laid their boat level, then went ahead, and won clever opening, but some very hard fighting was done before the close. Dixon lay for an opening and then resumed his rushing tactics. He manœuvred for a chance to uppercut his man with the left, but Johnson was on the alert and pretty nearly equal to the occasion. Dixon, however, succeeded in forcing him to the ropes and landing two staggering left handed upper cuts. Johnson landed his right in Dixon's stomach with great force and made the colored boy wince. Dixon retaliated by planting two rib roasters with his right and a hard stomach punch with his left, and in return received a right on the side of his head and a left in his wind. Just before the round ended Dixon landed a vicious swinging left on Johnson's stomach.

5. Both men were fresh, strong and in excellent trim when they responded to the call of time. Dixon waited for an opening, jumped and swung his left, but the blow was cleverly ducked by Johnson, who also avoided a nasty, swinging right hander for the neck. Johnson landed a good left at short range, but got it heavily with left and right in return. Both men fought hard, and landed frequently with both right and left. Dixon had his opponent looking at his seconds for advice, and Johnson would probably have been put out had it not been for the sound of the gong, as he showed plainly that he was in great distress. Dixon had him at his mercy, and was pumping his right and left into him like battering rams. Johnson was dazed when he walked to his corner at the sound of the gong.

6. Dixon forced the fighting the moment they confronted each other. The Englishman had to fight like a demon to save himself from being completely smothered. He made no attempt at leading, but simply waited for Dixon to come at him, and then countered with his right. George got many severe body blows, which only caused him to fight all the harder. Again the sound of the gong was all that saved Johnson, as he was very weak, and could not have held out much longer under such severe punishment.

7. Dixon landed heavily on the neck with his left, on the stomach with the right, and on the mouth with the left, getting a right hander in the stomach and a left on the cheek in return. Dixon hit his man a stinger over the heart with his right, which had a telling effect. Johnson got in one or two good right handers, and both men were fighting hard when the gong sounded.

8. Dixon landed often with both right and left. Some fierce blows were exchanged. Johnson played heavily on Dixon's stomach with right and left, and proved himself to be an able infighter. Dixon did not like the body punching, and avoided it as much as possible, but, at the same time, his well aimed blows were having a wonderful effect on the English pugilist, and Johnson was groggy at the end of the round.

9. Dixon rushed his man and tried hard to bring the fight to an end. He landed left and right with effect, while Johnson only met him at random when he came in on his rushes, and took his punishment like a game cock. It was a fierce round and both men fought hard all through to the sound of the gong.

10. Both men were anxious for business. Johnson led in mild fashion and received a swinging right, which forced his head back. Dixon used both hands in quick succession, Johnson repeatedly ducking to avoid punishment in very clever style.

11. Johnson proved that he had a powerful right, and Dixon was aware of the fact, for he would not rush unless he found a good opening. This was the only round in the fight that Johnson had any advantage. Dixon led, got to close quarters, and received a smashing right in the mouth. Johnson led short with his left, Dixon keeping away, when he suddenly rushed, but was caught with a left counter, and just escaped a right hander on the ear.

13. Johnson led, reached Dixon's mouth lightly and tried to get in with his right, but Dixon sprang to close quarters and Johnson was forced to duck. Dixon was laughing and Johnson looked worried, for the stomach blows were fast telling on him. Dixon again rushed and Johnson ducked and clinched. Breaking away, Johnson led with the left and followed with the right, getting in one light blow. Dixon rushed his man to the ropes, then Johnson chased him into his corner, but was unable to land, Dixon being too clever. It looked like a long fight.

14 and last. Both came quickly to the centre. Dixon led and reached the head, and followed it up with a stinging right under the heart. Johnson landed his right hard on the ear, but this was his last shot, for Dixon looked fierce, and, rushing his man, banged him all over the ring. Johnson hugged to save himself. Dixon again sent his left on the face, and drove a terrific right over the heart, rushing the Englishman to the ropes. Breaking away, Dixon again forced him to the ropes. Johnson led and missed. Dixon reached the jaw with the left, followed with a hard right, and back went the plucky foreigner. Dixon tried to land again, but was grappled by Johnson, whom he backheeled, forcing him to the floor, his head striking with a thud, knocking him completely out. He was out for over a minute, and the referee gave Dixon the fight. Dixon receives $4,500, Johnson $500.

Glove Fights in Louisiana.

A dispatch from the Crescent City, dated June 24, reads: "There is now every probability that the bill to prohibit glove fights in Louisiana, which would have prevented the Sullivan-Corbett and McAuliffe-Myer fights in September next, will be defeated. Two bills on this subject were offered. The first was referred to the Committee on City Affairs, and killed in committee, all the members being opposed to it. The second bill, which was meant in earnest, was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, which decided today to report unfavorably on it. Several of the members of the committee declared that they had been present at the glove fights at the Olympic Club, and that they were humane and decorously conducted. The report of the committee against the bill will be brought before the Legislature in a few days and the matter indefinitely postponed. There is a strong sentiment in the Legislature in favor of the bill, but not enough to carry it."

THE OLYMPIC CLUB, of New Orleans, La., have offered a purse of $10,000 for a glove fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack O'Brien, the Welshman, allowing the latter $1,000 for expenses. The offer was cabled to England, and a reply has been received from the Welshman, accepting the offer, and asking that articles of agreement be forwarded to him. The fight is to take place on Sept. 5.

BILL JAMES occupied but 5m. 55s. in doing up Ernest Simmonds in a glove contest, for a purse and $250, at the Kennington Social Club, London, Eng., June 13.

MALCOLM W. FORD, the amateur ex-champion all around athlete, has joined the ranks of the benedicts, having espoused Miss Janet W. Graves, a daughter of the late Robert Graves, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 22. The marriage was performed at the residence of the bride's brother, Robert Graves, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. We tender our congratulations.

A MATCH AT LACROSSE was contested on Saturday afternoon, June 25, between the teams of the Staten Island Athletic Club and the Lorillard A. C., at Oakland Park, Jersey City, N. J. There was a large crowd on hand, who hoped for the success of the home team, but they were disappointed, as the Islanders won by a score of three goals to one.

THE FINAL TIE for the championship of the Western Football Association was played at Berlin, Can., June 18, the contesting teams representing the Detroit and Galt Clubs, and the former coming off victorious by a score of three goals to two.

The Williamsburg Games.

The Sunday afternoon games of the Williamsburg Athletic Club were held on June 26, at their grounds at Bushwick, L. I., and were well attended. Summary:

ALL THE COMFORTS OF A HOME.

By Walter P. Keen The great comic success of the year. Every verse a comic story told to catchy music. Here is the chorus of first verse:

"All the Comforts of a Home,
Such a happy little Home,
When you're nursing twins, then the fun begins,
Up and down the floor you have to roam;
Mother in law will soon appear,
Comes for a month and stops a year,
When her temper's hot, bet your life you've got
All the Comforts of a Home."

The complete song, words and music, will be sent to professionals for 10c. (stamps taken).
"THE GOOD SHIP HOME, SWEET HOME," and "NO ONE ELSE CAN EVER FILL YOUR PLACE," are two other superb songs by the same composer, and will be mailed to professionals for 10c. each.

Kings County Wheelmen.

That the members of this club acted wisely in arranging to hold their annual race meeting in this city this year, instead of at Brooklyn, was shown by the large gathering at Manhattan Field on Saturday afternoon, June 25. The weather was pleasant and the going first rate, while the competitions were of a most interesting character. The racing was agreeably varied by an exhibition of fancy and trick riding by that master of the art, W. S. Maltby, whose performances both astonished and amused the spectators. A summary follows:

One mile, novice—First heat: Won by G. W. Shannon, Prospect Wheelmen; W. Peaslee, Kings County Wheelmen, second. Time, 2m 51s. Second heat: Won by W. R. Lowe, Harlem Wheelmen; W. E. Union County Champions.

The first of a series of road races, for the championship of Union County and a trophy offered by The Elizabeth Daily Journal, came off on Saturday afternoon, June 25, over the road between Elizabeth to Cranford and return, a distance of ten miles. The clubs competing were: The Cranford 'Cyclers, Roselle Ramblers and Elizabeth Athletic Club, six men from each club. The Elizabeths carried off the honors, scoring 89 points to the Roselle Ramblers' 48 and the Cranford 'Cyclers' 34. The first five men to finish were all from the Elizabeth Club. Their time was: Sidney B. Bowman, 31m. 35s.; Henry Saltonstall, 31m. 37⅘s.; A. N. Laggren, 31m. 40s.; Henry J. Bauer, 31m. 40s.; R. S. Laggren, 31m. 41s. The next trial heat, to be contested by four clubs, takes place on July 9, and the third heat, of three clubs, on July 23. In all ten clubs will compete in the trial heats, and the winners of each will race in the final heat for the championship on Aug. 6.

A. A. ZIMMERMAN demonstrated his abilities on the wheel to the satisfaction of the Britishers on Saturday afternoon, June 25, when he won both the one mile and five mile championship races at the annual meet of the National 'Cyclists' Union, held at Leeds, Eng. The time of the five mile event was 20m. 9⅘s., and among the prominent bicyclists who finished behind the speedy American was A. Ducros, the Irish champion. In the mile race, Zimmerman beat Schofield by five yards, in 3m. 57⅘s.

A CHALLENGE TEAM RACE on the road took place between the 'cycling divisions of the Arlington League and Ninth Ward Pioneer Corps, for a handsome silver cup, June 26. The course was about fourteen and a half miles, from the Circle, at Fifty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue, this city, to the Grey House, at Yonkers. Bartsch, of the Arlingtons, and Litchult, of the Pioneers, finished first, making a dead heat in the excellent time of 52m. 1⅛s., with Pederson, of the Arlingtons, third. The race was won by the Arlingtons, they having the first three men home.

E. J. P. SMITH, starting from scratch, was the winner of the first of a series of three club events having in view the completion of the Toronto Bicycle Club's road racing team that took place at Toronto, Ont., June 25. It was a handicap race of ten miles, and the time of the winner was 32m. 28s., which was a creditable performance. There were twenty-three starters, and F. W. Gullett, 2m. start, was second, with G. F. Stephenson, 1m. 30s., third.

A. G. JOYCE, riding a Moseley machine, fitted with Seldon tyres, rode fifty miles over the road, from Edenderry to Mount Lucas, Ireland, on June 16, doing the distance in 3h. 4⅘s., which was almost eighteen minutes better than the previous best Irish record, credited to R. J. Mecredy.

THE YONKERS BICYCLE CLUB held a ten mile bicycle race over the Riverdale course, near Yonkers, N. Y., June 25. There were a dozen starters, and the race finished as follows: C. T. Kuchler, 40s. start, first, in 6m. 49s.; T. Cox, scratch, second; C. S. Burnham, 12s., third.

HOYLAND SMITH, the New England rider, intends attempting to throw in the shade the performance of the Englishman, Ede, for a twenty-four hours' ride, at the meeting of the Columbia and Colt 'Cycling Clubs, at Hartford, Ct., on July 4, 5.

WE have a letter for W. S. Martin.

"DON'T you think," said a youth, after working his vocal cords with intense vigor beside the hotel piano, "that I ought to go on the stage?" "Yes," replied Miss Pepperton [illegible] him very well, "I certainly do. There is one that leaves for the station in twenty minutes from now."

Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen annual regatta—July 6, with W. A. Littlejohn, Toronto, Ont.

The Canadian Regatta.

The annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held on Toronto Bay on July 20, 21, over a course one mile and a half in length, straightaway. The races are open to all Canadian amateur rowing clubs affiliated with the association, that have been duly organized three months prior to the date of holding the regatta, and to all clubs in the Unites States that are recognized by the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. Following is a list of events: Senior fours, challenge cup and four gold medals; senior singles, challenge cup and gold medal, also silver cup; junior fours, four gold medals; junior singles, gold medal and silver cup; double sculls, challenge cup and two gold medals; junior double sculls, two gold medals; pair oars, challenge cup and two gold medals; special singles, half mile, gold medals. A silk banner will be given in senior fours and pairs. Entrance fee, which must in every instance accompany the original entry: Four oars, $10; double sculls, $5; pair oars, $5; single sculls, $2.50. No entry fee for half mile. In all cases of entries for four oars, a list of not more than six names, and in all cases of entries for double sculls or pair oars, a list of not more than four names shall be sent to the secretary, and from these names the actual crew must be selected.

Entries will not be received from individuals, but must in all cases be made by the clubs to which the intending competitors belong. To ensure a race two or more entries are required in each class, and should withdrawal, after entries are closed, reduce the number to one boat, the crew or sculler therein must row over the course to be entitled to the prize. Objections to any entry must be made in writing to the secretary at least seven days previous to the first day of the regatta, when the committee on entries shall investigate the grounds of objection, and decide thereon forthwith, such decision to be final. The Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways will carry contestants from all points in Canada to and from the regatta at single fare, and boats free when in charge of passengers. Ample hotel accommodations for contestants and their friends has been arranged at rates varying from $1.50 per day and upwards. If notice of time of arrival be given a day in advance, the crews will be met at the railway station, and their boats safely housed without expense.

Corinthians on Blue Water.

The sixth annual regatta of the Corinthian Yacht Club was held June 25, in New York Bay. The start was made from Buoy 11, the schooners going to Sandy Hook Lightship and the others to Buoy 1, thence to the Southwest Spit and home. It was a one gun start, all the yachts being timed from the signal and not individually. The tide was ebbing and there was a light southerly wind. The smallness of the fleet was due more to misfortune than to anything else, as a number of the boats entered could not be got ready in time. The signal for the schooners was given at 12.05:00, the Alert being the first to cross the line, on the port tack, at 12.06:40. The Yampa crossed at 12.10:00, at which time the signal was given for the smaller boats, and they crossed in the following order: Superior, Dawn, Nadine, Doctor, Delvyn and Petrel. The smaller boats stood on the port tack for Coney Island Point, while the schooners made a series of tacks to the Spit. Poor time was made, as it was windward work all the way out. On the beat down the Alert gained slightly on the Yampa, and passed the Southwest Spit at 1.55:40, the Yampa turning at the same time as the Doctor, a little open "cat," at 2.05:10. The other boats turned as follow: Superior, 2.16:10; Dawn, 2.18:00; Delvyn, 2.33:00; Petrel, 2.35:00. The wind hauled to the Westward and freshened up considerably off the Hook. The position of the Yampa began to improve, and they rounded the lightship as follow: Alert, 4.45:10; Yampa, 4.46:10. The Yampa did still better on her way back with the fresh leading wind, and off the Hook was well in advance. She lost a little by standing too long to the North, but at the Southwest spit buoy the times were: Yampa, 6.07:01; Alert, 6:10:15. As the Yampa was the larger boat, the Alert's allowance would be in the neighborhood of eight minutes, but, even at that, the Yampa proved the victor, as she crossed the finish line at 7.06:10, the Alert following at 7.16:27. The summary follows:

SCHOONERS, CRUISING TRIM.	Start.	Finish.	Elapsed Time.
Alert	12h. 05m. 00s.	7h. 10m. 27s.	7h. 11m. 27s.
Yampa	12 05 00	7 06 10	7 01 10
SLOOPS, 30 TO 40FT.
Delvyn	12 10 00	5 36 40	5 16 40
Petrel	12 10 00	5 34 19	5 24 09
CAT RIGGED, 25 TO 30FT.
Dawn	12 10 00	5 21 02	5 11 02
Nadine	12 10 00	5 32 22	5 22 22
Superior	12 10 00	5 20 00	5 10 00
CAT RIGGED, UNDER 25FT.
Doctor	12 10 00	4 40 50	4 30 50

The boats have not been measured, but it is not likely any changes will be made by allowances. Yampa beats Alert 10m. 17s., Delvyn beats Petrel 8m. 21s., Superior beats Dawn 1m. 20s., and Dawn beats Nadine 11m. 20s. Doctor had a walk over.

Regatta on the Patapsco.

The annual Patapsco Navy regatta was held on the Patapsco River, near Baltimore, Md., on Saturday afternoon, June 25, under the auspices of the Neptune Boat Club. The weather was fine, although a rather high wind roughened the water during the early part of the afternoon. The banks of the stream were lined with spectators, and the regatta can be put down as a success, notwithstanding that the double scull and senior eight oared shell events failed to furnish contests, owing to the non appearance of the Donoghue brothers, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, for the former event, and the Neptune B. C. entry for the latter, thus making the events row overs for the Vesper and New York Athletic Club representatives. Summary:

Senior four oared shells—Atalanta Boat Club, New York, first, by five lengths; Fairmount Rowing Association, Philadelphia, second. Time, 9m. 2s⅕s.
Junior singles—E. J. Dunn, Excelsior Boat Club, Paterson, N. J., first, by five lengths; C. H. Elliott, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, second; J. A. Shern, Iona Boat Club, third; Lewis M. Reitz, Ariel Rowing Club, Baltimore, fourth. Time, 1m. 2⅘s.
Pair oared shells—Hunecker and Hecht, Iona Boat Club, first; Weinacht and Hauenstein, New York Athletic Club, second. Time, 10m. 31s.
Junior eight oared shells—Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, first, by a length; Staten Island Athletic Club, second; Potomac Boat Club, Washington, third; Neptune Boat Club, Baltimore, fourth. Time, 8m. 47½s.
Intermediate singles—A. J. Cottingham, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, first, by two lengths; A. J. Nall, Pennsylvania Barge Club, Philadelphia, second. Time, 11m.
Senior singles—Edwin Hedley, Vesper Club, Philadelphia, first, by three lengths; Fred Hawkins, Manhattan Athletic Club, New York, second; R. E. L. Vansant, Ariel Athletic Club, third. Time, 10m. 9⅘s.
Junior four oared shells—Analostan Club, Washington, first, by three lengths; Neptunes, Baltimore, second. Time, 9m. 33⅘s.
Four oared pigs—Atalanta Club, New York, first, by six lengths; Iona Club, Philadelphia, second. Time, 9m. 21s.
Double scull shells—Ed. Hedley and J. Y. Parke, Vesper Club, Philadelphia, rowed over alone.
Senior eight oared shells—New York Athletic Club rowed over alone.

Rowing on Flushing Bay.

The annual regatta of the Long Island Rowing Association constituted an aquatic event that attracted considerable attention in rowing circles in this vicinity on Saturday afternoon, June 25. The regatta was held on Flushing Bay, and was witdessed by quite a large number of spectators, every club engaged having hired a tug boat or craft of some description to convey their members and guests to the spot. The day was one of the most delightful of the season, but the wind, which came from the southwest, was rather strong, and blew straight up the course, making the water rather rough, and in some of the early races on the programme causing the boats to ship considerable water. The distance in each race was one mile, straightaway. A summary follows:

Junior single sculls—J. M. Davis, Manhattan Athletic Club, first, in 8m. 12⅗s.; Harry C. Johnson, Astoria Athletic Club, second, by about two lengths; Fred Rheinfrank, Nassau Boat Club, 0. J. H. Bell, New York Athletic Club, 0. Johnson was the leader till nearing the finish, when Davis wrested the pride of place from him.
Junior four oared shells—Varuna Boat Club, J. O. Regan (bow), James Bishop, James Coughlin, James J. Platt Jr. (stroke), first, in 6m. 42⅗s.; Crescent Athletic Club, B. F. Seavor (bow), Frank Jenks, F. J. Vernon, Thomas S. Perkins (stroke), second. The Varunas had no trouble in winning.
Senior single sculls—Morgan Quill Jr., Varuna Boat Club, came in first, in 7m. 30s., with A. J. Buschman, of the Ravenswood Boat Club, second, by ten lengths, but the judges entertained a protest on the part of the latter, on the ground that he had been interfered with by a tug, and they ordered the race to be rowed again the following morning.
Junior double sculls—New York Athletic Club, J. A. Dempsey (bow), Guy Dempsey (stroke), first, in 7m. 22⅘s.; Triton Boat Club, D. R. Ward (bow), J. S. Vinsen (stroke), second; Institute Boat Club, Newark, third; Friendship Boat Club, New York, fourth.
Junior four oared gigs—Manhattan Athletic Club, J. M. Davis (bow), H. M. F. Cady, F. G. Garlich, J. W. Hollingshead (stroke). E. P. K. Coffin (coxswain), first, in 6m. 53s.; Astoria Athletic Club, Henry Warren (bow) Paul Lankoor, Rich Gray, Harry Couch (stroke), William Gottetrean (coxswain), second, by ten seconds; New York Athletic Club 0, Nassau Boat Club 0, Crescent Boat Club 0, Triton Boat Club 0, Varuna Boat Club 0.
Junior eight oared shells—Atalanta Boat Club, W. J. Kelly (bow), H. Wood, H. L. Meyers, P. A. Burns, J. A. Donohuo, T. Phelan, V. Brink, C. Donegan (stroke), E. C. Villevarde (coxswain) first, in 6m. 33s.; New York Athletic Club, H. B. Turner Jr. (bow), F. Douglass, L. V. Southack, A. R. Pope, G. Schofield, G. Marvin, W. Littell, E. J. Keane (stroke), C. C. Turner (coxswain), second, two lengths behind; Wyanoke Boat Club third.
Senior four oared gigs—Manhattan Athletic Club, W. F. Ruff (bow), M. L. Barshinger, W. H. Wangaan, F. B. Hancock (stroke), E. P. Coffin (coxswain), first, in 6m. 15⅘s.; Atalanta Boat Club, Max Lau (bow), J. B. Dyer, A. T. Davenport, William Lau (stroke), S. Simons (coxswain), second by five lengths; Varuna Boat Club 0, Triton Boat Club 0, Passaic Boat Club 0.

Brooklyn Yacht Club.

This club held its annual regatta June 25 in New York Bay. Owing to a light breeze the start was not made until 12.46:40, when the Fairwind crossed the line, closely followed by all the squadron. As the boats passed out into open water the breeze stiffened, and the yachtsmen had some rare sport racing for Buoy 11, which all the squadron were obliged to turn, and they rounded it as follows: Mull, Fairwind, Mary A. Ilcika, Bess, Mary, Mabel, Dolphin, B. Q., Homing, Seneca, Spray, Water Lily, Edda D., Seminole, Tropic, Panchita, Sappho and Waif. The wind died out at the Southwest Spit, and several of the large boats were becalmed, it being fully half an hour before a stiff breeze sprung up, when they were enabled to come home with all sails set. The classes and winners were as follow, a failure to be measured preventing a decisive result in three classes:

The Erie Races.

The professional rowing events gotten up by citizens of Erie, Pa., having an eye single to the main chance came off on Erie Bay on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, June 22, 23, and on both days attracted big crowds of people interested in rowing sport. The weather was fine throughout, and on the opening day the water was all that could be wished, but on Thursday a high wind covered the surface of the bay with white caps, making the rowing more difficult and the time slower. The distance in each race was stated to be three miles, with one turn. The first event was for single sculls, open to the world, and it was won by the favorite, Champion William O'Connor, whose time was announced as 19m. 42s.; George H. Hosmer second, by more than a length, he having, on sufferance, reduced the distance between them on the last mile. Ed. Hanlan and Jake Gaudaur fouled before the race was one third rowed, and were thereafter out of it. The second event was for double sculls, for a purse of $1,500, same distance, and an alleged stake of $2,000, which few believe existed. Hosmer and Gaudaur took the lead at the signal, and held it for a quarter of a mile or more, when Hanlan and O'Connor laid their boat level, then went opening, but some very hard fighting was done before the close. Dixon lay for an opening and then resumed his rushing tactics. He manœuvred for a chance to uppercut his man with the left, but Johnson was on the alert and pretty nearly equal to the occasion. Dixon, however, succeeded in forcing him to the ropes and landing two staggering left handed upper cuts. Johnson landed his right in Dixon's stomach with great force and made the colored boy wince. Dixon retaliated by planting two rib roasters with his right and a hard stomach punch with his left, and in return received a right on the side of his head and a left in his wind. Just before the round ended Dixon landed a vicious swinging left on Johnson's stomach.

5. Both men were fresh, strong and in excellent trim when they responded to the call of time. Dixon waited for an opening, jumped and swung his left, but the blow was cleverly ducked by Johnson, who also avoided a nasty, swinging right hander for the neck. Johnson landed a good left at short range, but got it heavily with left and right in return. Both men fought hard, and landed frequently with both right and left. Dixon had his opponent looking at his seconds for advice, and Johnson would probably have been put out had it not been for the sound of the gong, as he showed plainly that he was in great distress. Dixon had him at his mercy, and was pumping his right and left into him like battering rams. Johnson was dazed when he walked to his corner at the sound of the gong.

6. Dixon forced the fighting the moment they confronted each other. The Englishman had to fight like a demon to save himself from being completely smothered. He made no attempt at leading, but simply waited for Dixon to come at him, and then countered with his right. George got many severe body blows, which only caused him to fight all the harder. Again the sound of the gong was all that saved Johnson, as he was very weak, and could not have held out much longer under such severe punishment.

7. Dixon landed heavily on the neck with his left, on the stomach with the right, and on the mouth with the left, getting a right hander in the stomach and a left on the cheek in return. Dixon hit his man a stinger over the heart with his right, which had a telling effect. Johnson got in one or two good right handers, and both men were fighting hard when the gong sounded.

8. Dixon landed often with both right and left. Some fierce blows were exchanged. Johnson played heavily on Dixon's stomach with right and left, and proved himself to be an able infighter. Dixon did not like the body punching, and avoided it as much as possible, but, at the same time, his well aimed blows were having a wonderful effect on the English pugilist, and Johnson was groggy at the end of the round.

9. Dixon rushed his man and tried hard to bring the fight to an end. He landed left and right with effect, while Johnson only met him at random when he came in on his rushes, and took his punishment like a game cock. It was a fierce round and both men fought hard all through to the sound of the gong.

10. Both men were anxious for business. Johnson led in mild fashion and received a swinging right, which forced his head back. Dixon used both hands in quick succession, Johnson repeatedly ducking to avoid punishment in very clever style.

11. Johnson proved that he had a powerful right, and Dixon was aware of the fact, for he would not rush unless he found a good opening. This was the only round in the fight that Johnson had any advantage. Dixon led, got to close quarters, and received a smashing right in the mouth. Johnson led short with his left, Dixon keeping away, when he suddenly rushed, but was caught with a left counter, and just escaped a right hander on the ear.

13. Johnson led, reached Dixon's mouth lightly and tried to get in with his right, but Dixon sprang to close quarters and Johnson was forced to duck. Dixon was laughing and Johnson looked worried, for the stomach blows were fast telling on him. Dixon again rushed and Johnson ducked and clinched. Breaking away, Johnson led with the left and followed with the right, getting in one light blow. Dixon rushed his man to the ropes, then Johnson chased him into his corner, but was unable to land, Dixon being too clever. It looked like a long fight.

14 and last. Both came quickly to the centre. Dixon led and reached the head, and followed it up with a stinging right under the heart. Johnson landed his right hard on the ear, but this was his last shot, for Dixon looked fierce, and, rushing his man, banged him all over the ring. Johnson hugged to save himself. Dixon again sent his left on the face, and drove a terrific right over the heart, rushing the Englishman to the ropes. Breaking away, Dixon again forced him to the ropes. Johnson led and missed. Dixon reached the jaw with the left, followed with a hard right, and back went the plucky foreigner. Dixon tried to land again, but was grappled by Johnson, whom he backheeled, forcing him to the floor, his head striking with a thud, knocking him completely out. He was out for over a minute, and the referee gave Dixon the fight. Dixon receives $4,500, Johnson $500.

Glove Fights in Louisiana.

A dispatch from the Crescent City, dated June 24, reads: "There is now every probability that the bill to prohibit glove fights in Louisiana, which would have prevented the Sullivan-Corbett and McAuliffe-Myer fights in September next, will be defeated. Two bills on this subject were offered. The first was referred to the Committee on City Affairs, and killed in committee, all the members being opposed to it. The second bill, which was meant in earnest, was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, which decided today to report unfavorably on it. Several of the members of the committee declared that they had been present at the glove fights at the Olympic Club, and that they were humane and decorously conducted. The report of the committee against the bill will be brought before the Legislature in a few days and the matter indefinitely postponed. There is a strong sentiment in the Legislature in favor of the bill, but not enough to carry it."

THE OLYMPIC CLUB, of New Orleans, La., have offered a purse of $10,000 for a glove fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack O'Brien, the Welshman, allowing the latter $1,000 for expenses. The offer was cabled to England, and a reply has been received from the Welshman, accepting the offer, and asking that articles of agreement be forwarded to him. The fight is to take place on Sept. 5.

BILL JAMES occupied but 5m. 55s. in doing up Ernest Simmonds in a glove contest, for a purse and $250, at the Kennington Social Club, London, Eng., June 13.

WINTERBURN SHOW PRINTING CO. 166 CLARK STREET CHICAGO

JAMES B. MACKS.
What Do You Think?
JAMES B. MACKS, known all over the country as Paugh's original and only "Yankee Farmer," has severed his connection with that Show, and is at Liberty for the balance of the present and the coming Winter Season. Mr. Macks presents the strongest kind of a catchy Comedy feature, and Managers are cautioned to Beware of Unprincipled Imitators.
He is the sole creator of that unapproachable comedy character which embodies in its elements of construction "The Farmer, Horse and Wagon" and the episode of a disturbed Street Parade. Ask the police of every city and town where the circus has been if that is not so!
He is endorsed enthusiastically by press and public throughout the country, from Canada to the Gulf, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Until July 2 at Keith's Gaiety and Bijou, Boston, Mass. Permanent address, No. 102 NORTH SIXTH STREET, Philadelphia, Pa.
JAMES B. MACKS,
FORMERLY FOREPAUGH'S "YANKEE FARMER."

TARRANT'S EXTRACT OF CUBEBS AND COPAIBA

Is an old, tried remedy, superior to any preparation hitherto invented, combining in a very highly concentrated form the medical properties of the cubebs and copaiba. Its neat, portable form, freedom from taste and speedy action (it frequently cures in three or four days and always in less time than any other preparation) make "Tarrant's Extract" the most desirable remedy ever manufactured. To prevent fraud see that each package has a red strip across the face of label, with the signature of TARRANT & Co., N.Y., upon it. Price, $1. Sold by all druggists.
